1. Introduction

The Report of the Commission on Credit Unions,¹ published in April 2012, made a number of recommendations regarding the strengthening of the regulatory framework for credit unions, including more effective governance and regulatory requirements. The Commission on Credit Unions also recommended that Part 3 of the Central Bank Reform Act 2010 be commenced for credit unions providing the Central Bank with the powers to set out the Regulations and Standards of Fitness and Probity for credit unions.

On 24 September 2012, the Minister for Finance commenced Part 3 of the Central Bank Reform Act 2010 for credit unions. Following consultation, a new Fitness and Probity regime for credit unions came into effect on 1 August 2013 and will be fully implemented by 1 August 2016.

Many of the Commission on Credit Union's recommendations have been reflected in the Credit Union and Co-operation with Overseas Regulators Act 2012 ("the 2012 Act") which was enacted on 19 December 2012. The majority of sections of the 2012 Act have been commenced. The remaining sections of the 2012 Act commenced on 1 January 2016. These replace, amend or supplement a number of existing sections of the 1997 Act. The introduction of the new sections into the 1997 Act by the 2012 Act, in effect, removes some of the requirements (including limits) that currently exist in these sections and provide regulation making powers to the Central Bank. The new sections also contain a number of new requirements.

As some of the key prudential requirements (e.g. lending and savings limits) are removed from the 1997 Act by the commencement of the remaining sections of the 2012 Act, the Credit Union Act (Regulatory Requirements) Regulations 2016 ("the Regulations") introduced regulations at the same time as these sections of the 2012 Act were commenced to ensure key prudential requirements for credit unions remained in place to continue the introduction of the strengthened regulatory framework for credit unions.

The main amendments to the 1997 Act arising from these commencements of sections of the 2012 Act are:

- section 27, relating to member savings, substituted into the 1997 Act;
- section 33, relating to borrowing, substituted into the 1997 Act;
- section 35, relating to lending, substituted into the 1997 Act;
- section 43, relating to investments, substituted into the 1997 Act;
- section 45, relating to the regulatory reserve requirement, substituted into the 1997 Act;
- section 85A and section 85B, relating to liquidity requirements, added to the 1997 Act.

The Regulations contain requirements in relation to the following areas:

- Reserves;
- Liquidity;
- Lending;
- Investments;
- Savings;
- Borrowing;
- Systems, Controls and Reporting Arrangements; and
- Services Exempt from Additional Services Requirements.

The Regulations commenced on 1 January 2016.

2. Purpose of the Credit Union Handbook

In order to assist credit unions with the implementation of the new regulatory framework the Central Bank has developed a Credit Union Handbook (the "Handbook"). The purpose of the Handbook is to assist credit unions by bringing together in one place a number of legal and regulatory requirements and guidance that apply to credit unions.

3. New Regulatory Framework

3.1 Introduction of new framework and Regulations

The new regulatory framework combines requirements that came into effect in 2013 arising from the introduction of the Fitness and Probity regime for credit unions and the commencement of the majority of the sections of the 2012 Act. The new regulatory framework, including the remaining sections of the 2012 Act and the Regulations, applies to all credit unions.

The main changes in the regulatory framework are:

1 August 2013²

- Introduction of Fitness and Probity requirements for credit unions with assets greater than €10 million – see Chapter on “Fitness and Probity”;
- Administrative Sanctions Procedure – see Appendix 2; and
- Appeals to IFSAT – see Appendix 3 (also relevant to Appendix 2 and the Chapter on “Fitness and Probity”).

1 October 2013

- Introduction of Revised ‘Section 35 Regulatory Requirements for Credit Unions’ (previously issued in November 2010).

11 October 2013³

- Majority of governance and prudential requirements inserted into the 1997 Act by the 2012 Act.

3 March 2014⁴

- New section 53, relating to the board of directors, substituted into the 1997 Act;
- Introduction of requirement for credit unions to submit an annual compliance statement to the Central Bank; and
- Requirement for board oversight committee to report to the members at the AGM.

1 August 2015

- Introduction of Fitness and Probity requirements for credit unions with total assets of €10 million or less – See Chapter on “Fitness and Probity”; and

⁴ The Commencement Order for provisions of the 2012 Act commenced on 3 March 2014 is available here.

1 January 2016⁵

Commencement of the remaining sections of the 2012 Act and introduction of the Regulations in the following areas:

- Reserves;
- Liquidity;
- Lending;
- Investments;
- Savings;
- Borrowing;
- Systems, Controls and Reporting Arrangements; and
- Services Exempt from Additional Services Requirements.

1 July 2018

- Introduction of additional Fitness and Probity requirements for credit unions with assets of at least €100 million – see Chapter on “Fitness and Probity”.

3.2 Governance arrangements

The Handbook includes Chapters containing both governance and prudential requirements applying to credit unions. The Chapter on “Governance” sets out a framework to improve governance standards in credit unions with a particular focus at board of directors and management level. At the core of this framework is a separation between executive or operational roles and non-executive or governance roles. The executive or operational roles are performed by the manager, the management team, staff and voluntary assistants. The non-executive or governance roles are performed by the board of directors. The Chapter on “Governance” also deals with the governance arrangements, organisational structure and resources required to meet governance requirements.

3.3 Nature, scale and complexity

Credit unions should take the nature, scale and complexity of the business being conducted by the credit union into consideration when establishing governance arrangements, including arrangements in relation to the board of directors, the chair of the board of directors, the nomination committee, other (board) committees, the manager, the management team, the board oversight committee, risk management systems, systems and control, the risk management officer, the compliance officer and the internal audit function.

⁵The Commencement Order for the remaining provisions of the 2012 Act is available here.

The nature, scale and complexity of the business being conducted by a credit union will impact on the:

- level of oversight;
- extent of skills and expertise; and
- details of policies and procedures, processes, practices, systems, controls and reporting arrangements required by credit unions in these areas.

4. Scope of the Handbook

The scope of the Handbook includes legal and regulatory requirements⁶ and guidance that apply to credit unions arising from their authorisation as credit unions. The Handbook makes reference to the following legislation:

- Credit Union Act, 1997;⁷
- Central Bank Reform Act 2010;
- Credit Union Act 1997 (Regulatory Requirements) Regulations 2016;
- European Communities (Consumer Credit Agreements) Regulations 2010;
- European Communities (Payment Services) Regulations 2009; and
- Criminal Justice (Money Laundering and Terrorist Financing) Act 2010.

This legislation applies to credit unions arising from their registration as credit unions, or by virtue of the nature of their business, where compliance with this legislation is supervised by the Central Bank. Legal and regulatory requirements and guidance that apply to credit unions arising out of any other authorisation (such as authorisation as a retail intermediary⁸) are not within the scope of the Handbook, with the exception of the Chapter on “Fitness and Probity” which contains details on the fitness and probity regime for credit unions that are also authorised as retail intermediaries for the part of the business that the credit union undertakes as a retail intermediary.

5. Structure of the Handbook

The Handbook contains the following Chapters and appendices:

- Introduction
- Glossary
- Legal Definitions

⁸ Credit unions authorised as retail intermediaries are credit unions that also hold an authorisation pursuant to the Investment Intermediaries Act, 1995 and/or the European Communities (Insurance Mediation) Regulations 2005.

6. Contents of the Handbook

The Chapters in the Handbook contain legal and regulatory requirements, regulations and also include guidance, where appropriate.

6.1 Legislation

Sections on Legislation contain:

- provisions of the 1997 Act;
- references to other primary legislation⁹ supervised by the Central Bank that apply to credit unions and other regulated financial services providers; and
- references to Regulations¹⁰ that apply to other entities in addition to credit unions, other than Regulations issued by the Central Bank.

⁹ The references to other primary legislation in the Handbook are references to the legislation as enacted and may have been amended since enactment. Credit unions should ensure that they are aware of, and comply with, legislation as amended since enactment.

¹⁰ The references to Regulations in the Handbook are references to the Regulations as enacted and may have been amended since enactment. Credit unions should ensure that they are aware of, and comply with, Regulations as amended since enactment.

Provisions of the 1997 Act are set out in a shaded grey box.

6.2 Central Bank Requirements

Sections on Central Bank Requirements contain Regulations, Codes, Standards or requirements issued by the Central Bank that apply to credit unions. These include the Regulations which were introduced on 1 January 2016. The Regulations cover the following areas:

- Reserves;
- Liquidity;
- Lending;
- Investments;
- Savings;
- Borrowing;
- Systems, Controls and Reporting Arrangements; and
- Services Exempt from Additional Services Requirements.

6.3 Guidance

Sections on guidance contain guidance issued by the Central Bank.¹¹ The purpose of guidance is to assist credit unions by setting out the Central Bank's expectations on how credit unions should meet legal and regulatory requirements.

A glossary of terms used throughout the Handbook is provided in the Chapter entitled "Glossary" including terms used in this Chapter. This Chapter also contains an index of the legislative provisions referenced in the Handbook. The Chapter entitled "Legal Definitions" sets out the legal definitions contained in section 2 of the 1997 Act and regulation 3 of the Regulations and should be read in conjunction with the Chapters of the Handbook that contain legal and regulatory requirements from the 1997 Act and the Regulations.

The Chapters of the Handbook are set out in alphabetical order for ease of reference.

7. References to Legislation

7.1 References to the 1997 Act and the 2012 Act

The 2012 Act makes significant amendments to the 1997 Act. Part 2 of the 2012 Act inserts or substitutes a number of sections into the 1997 Act. Schedule 1 of the 2012 Act inserts, substitutes or deletes certain sections/subsections of the 1997 Act. Where sections are set out in the shaded grey boxes of the Handbook, these relate to sections of the 1997 Act including sections or subsections as inserted or substituted by the 2012 Act.

¹¹ The Chapter on "Anti-Money Laundering" refers to guidance issued by the Department of Finance.

7.2 Highlighting changes to the 1997 Act made by the 2012 Act

Where a provision of the 1997 Act has been inserted or substituted by the 2012 Act, this has been specified in the Handbook as follows:

* indicates that the provision has been inserted or substituted by Part 2 of the 2012 Act.

‡ indicates that the section/subsection has been inserted or substituted by Schedule 1 of the 2012 Act.

7.3 Provisions of the 2012 Act not contained in the Handbook

Credit unions must also be aware of other provisions of the 2012 Act which are standalone provisions and do not amend the 1997 Act including, Parts 1 (Preliminary and General), 3 (Restructuring) and 4 (Stabilisation) of the 2012 Act. These provisions are outside the scope of the Handbook.

8. Clarifications

The Handbook is not intended to be comprehensive nor to replace or override any legal and regulatory requirements. The Handbook should be read in conjunction with the 1997 Act and other financial services legislation¹² (“the Legislation”) and any Regulation, Code or other legal instrument as the Central Bank may issue from time to time.

The information contained in the Handbook is derived from but does not replicate in full or replace the relevant legal and regulatory requirements of the Legislation.

Credit unions must ensure they comply with all requirements of the Legislation. In the event of a discrepancy between the Handbook and the Legislation, the Legislation will apply.

Credit unions should also be aware of other statutory obligations not included in the Handbook, for example, the Data Protection Act, 1988.

IntroductionPublication Date: June 2018

The Handbook is for information purposes only. This document does not constitute legal advice and any guidance provided in the Handbook should not be construed as legal advice or legal interpretation. Guidance does not constitute secondary legislation and credit unions must always refer directly to the Legislation and any regulation, code or other legal instrument as the Central Bank may issue from time to time when ascertaining their statutory obligations. Guidance is not intended to be exhaustive or to set the limits for the steps to be taken to meet statutory obligations. It is a matter for credit unions to seek legal advice regarding the application of relevant legislation to their particular set of circumstances.

Where lists of matters to be covered by credit unions in meeting legal and regulatory requirements and guidance are provided in the Handbook, these lists represent the minimum matters to be covered and should not take the place of a credit union performing its own assessment of the manner in which it shall comply with its statutory obligations.

Where there is a reference to a "report" (including reports on deviations), "review" or "update" in the Handbook, these reports, reviews and updates should be documented in writing.

Nothing in the Handbook should be read as providing an express or implied assurance that the Central Bank would defer or refrain from using its enforcement powers where a suspected breach of legislation comes to its attention.

9. Contact details

Where credit unions have queries relating to Chapters of the Handbook they should contact the Registry of Credit Unions at rcu@centralbank.ie unless the query relates to Anti Money Laundering or Consumer Protection.

Further information in relation to anti-money laundering and consumer protection can be found in the Chapter on "Anti-Money Laundering" and the Chapter on "Consumer Protection" respectively which include links to the relevant sections of the Central Bank website.

- (f) ‡ in determining how amounts are presented within items in the income and expenditure account and balance sheet, the directors of a credit union shall have regard to the substance of the reported transaction or arrangement, in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles or practice.
- (2) If it appears to the directors of a credit union that there are special reasons for departing from any of the principles specified in subsection (1), they may so depart, but particulars of the departure, the reasons for it and its effect on the balance sheet and income and expenditure account shall be stated in a note to the accounts, for the financial year concerned, of the credit union.

Section 111 – Annual accounts

- (1) ‡ The directors of a credit union shall prepare or cause to be prepared, with respect to each financial year—

- (c) any statement required by the body of accountants (referred to in section 114 (1)(a)) of which the auditor is a member to be included with the annual accounts so that the annual accounts together with the statement or statements give such a true and fair view as is referred to in paragraph (a) or, as the case may be, paragraph (b), and each of these shall be in such form and shall contain such particulars as the Bank may prescribe.

- (2) Unless the Bank otherwise allows, for each financial year, the income and expenditure account, the balance sheet and the statement or statements referred to in subsection (1)(c) shall, where applicable, include corresponding particulars for the preceding financial year.
- (3) The annual accounts shall also contain such supplementary information as is required by or under this Act.
- (4) A credit union shall not publish, for any financial year, any income and expenditure account, balance sheet or statement unless—
 - (a) it has been previously audited by the auditor last appointed to audit the annual accounts of the credit union, and
 - (b) it incorporates a report by the auditor stating whether in his opinion it complies with paragraph (a) or paragraph (b) of subsection (1), whichever is applicable in that case, and
 - (c) ‡ it has been signed by the manager of the credit union and by a member of the board of directors acting on behalf of the board.
- (5) ‡ If, in relation to any income and expenditure account or balance sheet of a credit union for a financial year, a member of the board of directors fails to take all reasonable steps to secure compliance with the provision of subsection (1) which is applicable in that case, the member shall be guilty of an offence and liable on summary conviction to a class C fine unless the member proves that there were reasonable grounds for the member to believe that a competent and reliable person was charged with the duty of seeing that the relevant provision was complied with, and was in a position to discharge that duty.

- (6) The accounts prepared with respect to a credit union's financial year under this section together with the notes to them are referred to in this Act as the "annual accounts".

- (2) Notwithstanding any agreement between the credit union and an auditor, and without prejudice to any rights of the auditor in relation to his removal under this Act, a credit union may by resolution at a general meeting remove an auditor before the term of his office expires and may elect in his place a person—
- (a) who has been duly nominated for election;
 - (b) who is qualified under this Act to be an auditor of a credit union; and

- (c) of whose nomination due notice has been given to the members of the credit union and the Bank.
- (3) The first auditor of a credit union may be appointed by the directors at any time before the first annual general meeting; but no person shall be so appointed unless he is qualified for election as an auditor of a credit union.
- (4) Where the directors fail to exercise their power under subsection (3), the first auditor may be elected by a majority vote of the members present and voting at a general meeting of the credit union and thereupon the power of the directors under subsection (3) shall cease.
- (5) Where, at an annual general meeting, no auditor is elected, the Bank may appoint a person who is qualified under this Act to be an auditor of a credit union to fill the vacancy and the remuneration and expenses of an auditor so appointed shall be paid out of the funds of the credit union.
- (6) A credit union shall—
- (a) within one week of the Bank's powers under subsection (5) becoming exercisable, give the Bank notice of that fact; and
- (b) where a resolution removing an auditor is passed, give notice of that fact to the Bank in such form as may be required by the Bank within 14 days of the meeting at which the resolution removing the auditor was passed.
- (7) The directors of a credit union may fill any casual vacancy in the office of auditor with a person who is qualified to be elected an auditor of a credit union but, while any such vacancy continues, the surviving or continuing auditor or auditors, if any, may act.
- (8) The election of a firm by the name of the firm to be the auditor of a credit union shall be deemed to be an election of those persons who from time to time during the period of appointment are the partners in that firm as from time to time constituted and are qualified to be auditors of a credit union.
- (9) Where the Bank is of the opinion that it would not be in the interest of the orderly and proper regulation of the business of a credit union or in its members' interests, it may by notice in writing order the credit union not to elect or re-elect to the office of auditor, or the directors not to fill a casual vacancy in that office with, a named person.

- (10) Where the Bank makes an order under subsection (9), the credit union may appeal against the order to the Court but, subject to any direction or decision of the Court, the credit union shall comply with the order.

- (4) A person shall not act as auditor of a credit union at a time when he is disqualified under this Act or the Companies Acts for election or appointment to that office and, if an auditor of a credit union becomes so disqualified during his term of office, he shall—

- (b) give immediate notice in writing to the credit union and to the Bank that he has vacated his office by reason of the disqualification.

(5) A person who contravenes subsection (4) shall be guilty of an offence.

Section 115 — Eligibility of auditor for re-election

(1) A person who was elected (or appointed) to audit the annual accounts of a credit union for a financial year and who continues to be qualified under this Act to be an auditor of a credit union shall be eligible for re-election (or election) as auditor of the credit union for the following financial year unless—

- (4) The Bank may apply to the Court for, and the Court may grant, an order confirming the removal.
- (5) The Court may by order revoke or vary an order made by it under this section.
- (6) If, in a case where an application has been made to the Court under this section, the Court is satisfied, because of the nature or circumstances of the case or otherwise in the interests of justice, that it is desirable, the whole or any part of any proceedings under that provision may be heard otherwise than in public.
- (7) Unless an order has been made by the Court in respect of a removal, the

Section 117 – Resolutions relating to appointment and removal of auditors

- (a) nominating for election as auditor a person other than a retiring auditor,
 - (b) providing that a retiring auditor shall not be nominated for election,
 - (c) removing an auditor before the expiration of his term of office, or
 - (d) nominating for election as auditor a retiring auditor who was appointed by the directors to fill a casual vacancy, shall not be effective unless notice of the intention to move it has been given to the credit union and to the Bank not less than 28 days before the meeting at which it is to be moved.

- (2) Where, after notice of the intention to move such a resolution has been given to the credit union, a general meeting of the credit union is called for a date less than 28 days after the notice has been given, the notice, although not given within the time required by subsection (1) shall be deemed to have been properly given for the purpose of that subsection.
- (3) Subject to subsection (4), a credit union shall give its members notice of any such intended resolution at the same time and in the same manner as it gives notice of the meeting or, if that is not practicable, it shall give them notice, the period of which has been approved by the Bank, of the intended resolution by advertisement in at least two appropriate newspapers, within the meaning of section 80 (5)(a), published in the State and circulating in the area in which the credit union's registered office is situated.
- (4) A notice under subsection (3) shall not be given within 7 days of the date of the receipt of notice of the intended resolution under subsection (1).
- (5) On receipt of notice of an intended resolution under subsection (1), the credit union shall forthwith—
 - (a) if the resolution is a resolution mentioned in paragraph (a), paragraph (b) or paragraph (d) of that subsection, send a copy thereof to the retiring auditor;
 - (b) if the resolution is a resolution mentioned in paragraph (c) of that subsection, send a copy thereof to the auditor proposed to be removed.
- (6) Where notice is given of such an intended resolution as is mentioned in any of paragraphs (a), (b) and (c) of subsection (1) and the retiring auditor or the auditor proposed to be removed, as the case may be, makes in relation to it representations in writing to the credit union (not exceeding a reasonable length) and requests their notification to the members of the credit union, the credit union shall, subject to subsection (8), (unless the representations are received by it too late for it to do so)—

- (a) in any notice of the intended resolution given to members of the credit union, state the fact of the representations having been made; and
- (b) send a copy of the representations to every member of the credit union to whom notice of the meeting is sent (whether before or after the credit union receives the representations).
- (7) Subject to subsection (8), and whether or not copies of any representations made by him have been sent as mentioned in subsection (6), the auditor concerned may require that, without prejudice to his right to be heard orally, the representations made by him shall be read out at the meeting at which the intended resolution is to be moved.
- (8) Subsections (6) and (7) shall not apply if, on the application either of the credit union or of any other person who claims to be aggrieved, the Bank is satisfied that compliance with the subsections would diminish substantially public confidence in the credit union or that the rights conferred by it are being, or are likely to be, abused in order to secure needless publicity for defamatory matter.
- (9) An auditor of a credit union who has been removed shall be entitled—
- (a) to attend the annual general meeting of the credit union at which, but for his removal, his term of office as auditor of the credit union would have expired;
- (b) to attend the general meeting of the credit union at which it is proposed to fill the vacancy occasioned by his removal;
- (c) to receive all notices of, and other communications relating to, any such meeting which a member of the credit union entitled to notice of the meeting is entitled to receive; and
- (d) to be heard at any such meeting or any part of the business of the meeting which concerns him as a former auditor of the credit union.

on such date as may be specified in the notice, being not less than 28 days after the notice is served.

- (2) A copy of a notice under subsection (1) shall be sent by the auditor to the Bank at the same time as it is served on the credit union.
- (3) A notice under subsection (1) shall contain either—
 - (a) a statement to the effect that there are no circumstances connected with the resignation to which it relates that the auditor concerned considers should be brought to the notice of the members or creditors of the credit union; or
 - (b) a statement of any such circumstances.
- (4) Subject to subsection (5), where a notice under subsection (1) is served on a credit union and the notice contains a statement falling within subsection (3) (b), the credit union shall, not later than 14 days after the date of that service, send a copy of the notice to every person who is entitled to notice of a general meeting of the credit union.
- (5) Copies of a notice served on a credit union under subsection (1) need not be sent to the persons specified in subsection (4) if, on the application of the credit union concerned or any other person who claims to be aggrieved, the Bank is satisfied that the sending of the notice would be likely to diminish substantially public confidence in the credit union or that the rights conferred by this section are being abused to secure needless publicity for defamatory matter.

Section 119 – Requisitioning of general meeting and circulation of statement by resigning auditor

- (1) A notice served on a credit union under section 118 by a resigning auditor which contains a statement falling within subsection (3)(b) of that section may also requisition the convening, by the directors of the credit union, of a general meeting of the credit union for the purpose of receiving and considering such account and explanation of the circumstances connected with his resignation from the office of auditor to the credit union as the auditor may wish to give to the meeting.
- (2) Where an auditor makes a requisition under subsection (1), the directors of the credit union shall, within 14 days of the service on the credit union of the notice containing the requisition, proceed duly to convene a general meeting of the credit union for a day not more than 28 days after the service of that notice.

(ii) before any general meeting at which it is proposed to fill the vacancy caused by his resignation or convened pursuant to a requisition under subsection (1), a further statement in writing prepared by the auditor of the circumstances connected with the resignation that the auditor considers should be brought to the notice of members, the credit union shall in any notice of the meeting given to its members state the fact of the statement having been made, and send a copy of the statement to every person who is entitled to notice of a general meeting of the credit union.

(4) Subsection (3) need not be complied with by the credit union concerned if, on the application of either the credit union or of any other person who claims to be aggrieved, the Bank is satisfied that the sending of the statement would be likely to diminish substantially public confidence in the credit union or that the rights conferred by this section are being abused to secure needless publicity for defamatory matter.

(5) A person who has resigned from the office of auditor of a credit union shall be permitted—

(a) to attend any such meeting of the credit union as is mentioned in subsection (3)(b); and

(b) to be heard at any such meeting on any part of the business which concerns him as a former auditor of the credit union;

3. Guidance

The Central Bank has issued the following circulars in relation to annual accounts:

- Circular re Credit Union Financial Year End 30 September 2018 – Year End Approach \(September 2018\)

3.1 Accounting Policies

The board of directors of each credit union should adopt accounting policies that are appropriate to its circumstances for the purposes of ensuring that its income and expenditure account and balance sheet give a true and fair view. The accounting policies should be consistent with the requirements of the 1997 Act and the Regulations and in compliance with Generally Accepted Accounting Principles.

The objectives against which the board of directors of a credit union should judge the appropriateness of accounting policies to its particular circumstances are the requirements of the 1997 Act in relation to consistency and prudence.

The objective of annual accounts is to provide information about a credit union's financial performance and financial position that is useful for assessing the stewardship of the board of directors and for making business/financial decisions. Appropriate accounting policies will ensure that the financial information being presented is relevant and reliable.

Financial information should be prudently prepared. This involves the application of a degree of caution in exercising judgement and making the necessary estimates. Often there is uncertainty, either about the existence of assets, liabilities, gains or losses, or about the amount at which they should be valued. The board of directors should consider whether market conditions could give rise to a risk of material misstatement.

Appropriate accounting policies should result in financial information being presented in a way that enables its significance to be understood by the users of accounts.

3.2 Valuation of Investments

The accounting policy adopted by the board of directors of a credit union for the valuation of investments should comply with the relevant sections of the 1997 Act, in particular section 110. This section requires that the amount of any item in the accounts shall be determined on a prudent basis and in particular that all liabilities and losses which have arisen or are likely to arise in the financial year to which the accounts relate, or a previous financial year, shall be taken into account including those liabilities and losses which only become apparent between the balance sheet date and the date the accounts are signed.

It is recognised that under generally accepted accounting practice there are a number of different bases available for the valuation of investments. The Central Bank is of the view that for the majority of credit unions, having regard to the nature of their operations and the requirements of the 1997 Act, the lower of cost and net realisable value will usually be the most appropriate valuation method.

Under this method the amount to be included in the balance sheet in respect of investments should be the lower of their cost or net realisable value. The amount of any write-down provided should be clearly shown in the income and expenditure account.

Where the circumstances for which any write-down for diminution in value, made in accordance with the above, cease to apply, that provision should be written back to the extent that it is no longer necessary.

Where a credit union has adopted an accounting policy on valuation of investments other than the lower of cost and net realisable value, it should discuss its accounting policy with its professional advisors in the context of this guidance in order to determine the appropriate course of action for current and future accounting periods.

Full and detailed disclosure of the accounting policy adopted for valuation of investments should be disclosed in the annual accounts.

3.3 Investment Income Recognition

The accounting policy adopted by the board of directors of a credit union for the recognition of investment income should be in compliance with the relevant sections of the 1997 Act and the Regulations.

Auditors are obliged to review the financial statements prepared by the board of directors and may express an adverse or qualified opinion if they disagree with the accounting policies, the method of their application or the adequacy of the disclosures selected².

3.4 Analysis of Investment Income in the Income and Expenditure Account

Any investment income, which does not fall within the criteria set out in Regulation 31(a) or (b) should not be distributed and should be transferred to a reserve, which is designated as not eligible for distribution, for so long as those amounts do not meet these criteria.

While amounts falling within these criteria may be considered as available for distribution, any decision by the board of directors of the credit union on the actual distribution level for a particular year must be considered in the context of whether it is prudent to do so. In particular, in making an assessment on the amount of any distribution of income falling within criteria set out in Regulation 31(b) any terms or conditions attaching to the receipt of this income, such as a requirement to hold the investment until maturity before a return crystallises, must be taken into account. Where the circumstances are such that the credit union may need to breach any of the terms or conditions attaching to the particular investment, no distributions of such income should be made until the income has been received.

3.5 Reporting and Disclosures in the Annual Accounts

In addition to the information required under section 111 of the 1997 Act, credit unions are required under the Regulations to disclose additional information such as: the total amount of loans outstanding to related parties and the loans to such persons as a percentage of the total loans outstanding. These disclosures should be included in supplementary information to be contained in the annual accounts.

3.6 Auditor Rotation

While the 1997 Act does not contain any requirements for rotation of credit union auditors, RCU is of the view that in order to enhance the independence and objectivity of the audit process consideration should be given to appropriate levels of audit partner and audit firm rotation. The standards and regulations referred to below can inform credit unions and their auditor in this regard.

² International Standard on Auditing (UK and Ireland) 700 "the Auditor's Report on Financial Statements issued by the Auditing Practices Board.

In June 2016, two new Regulations came into force in Ireland which make reference to rotation of audit partners and audit firms. While credit unions are not within the scope of these regulations, they can inform credit unions and their auditors in relation to auditor rotation.

Regulations

- S.I. No. 312/2016 - European Union (Statutory Audits) (Directive 2006/43/EC, as amended by Directive 2014/56/EU and Regulation (EU) No. 537/2014) Regulations 2016. Under this regulation, the key audit partner responsible for carrying out a statutory audit of a public interest entity shall cease his or her participation in the statutory audit of the entity not later than 5 years from the date of his or her first appointment to carry out such audit.
- Regulation (EU) No. 537/2014 - on specific requirements regarding statutory audit of public-interest entities. This regulation requires that “neither the initial engagement of a particular statutory auditor or audit firm, nor this in combination with any renewed engagements therewith shall exceed a maximum duration of 10 years.”

Ethical Standards

- In January 2017³ the Irish Auditing and Accounting Supervisory Authority (IAASA) issued the Ethical Standard for Auditors (Ireland) (the Standard) ⁴. Section 3 of the Standard provides auditors with requirements and guidance in relation to dealing with the risks to auditor independence which may occur from long association with audit engagements and with entities relevant to audit engagements including audit partner and audit firm rotation.

Please bring the above guidance to the attention of your external auditors.

³ The Ethical Standard for Auditors (Ireland) was revised in April 2017.

- (1) † Subject to the following provisions of this Part, a credit union may provide, as principal or agent, additional services of a description that appears to the credit union and to the Bank, to be of mutual benefit to its members.
- (2) † In this section and the following provisions of this Part ‘additional services’, in relation to a credit union, means any services other than those—
- (a) for which provision is made by the preceding provisions of this Part, or
- (b) which are being prescribed for the purposes of this section as being services of a description that appears to the Bank to be of mutual benefit to its members,
- and regulations made by the Bank for the purposes of paragraph (b) may make the exclusion of any services from being additional services conditional on compliance with such conditions as may be prescribed by the Bank.
- (3) Nothing in this section or the following provisions of this Part affects the operation of any enactment which is not contained in this Act and which, in whole or in part, relates to the provision of financial or other services of any description.
- (4) In order to enable a credit union to provide additional services of any description—
- (a) † the credit union must adopt a decision to provide additional services of that description by a resolution passed by not less than two-thirds of the members present and voting at an annual general meeting or at a special general meeting called for the purpose of considering the resolution, or the credit union must adopt a decision to provide additional services of that description by a resolution of the board of directors; and
- (b) the provision of the services must be approved by the Bank in accordance with section 49 and the services must be provided in accordance with the terms and conditions of the approval.
- (c) [deleted]
- (5) Notice shall be given of a resolution under subsection (4)(a) in accordance with the rules of the credit union or, if the rules do not make special provision as to notice of such a resolution, the like notice shall be given as is required by the rules for a resolution to amend the rules; and notice of the resolution shall contain or be accompanied by a statement giving—

- (a) a description of the services which it is proposed to provide;
- (b) an assessment of the financial and other implications for the credit union of the provision of those services; and
- (c) details of such other matters as the Bank may by notice in writing require to be brought to the attention of the members of the credit union concerned.

(6) Before giving notice of a resolution as mentioned in subsection (5), a credit union shall consult the Bank and the Bank shall give a preliminary view as to whether and to what extent the provision of the service would be likely to be approved by it; but the giving of such a preliminary view shall not prejudice the decision of the Bank under section 49(3).

(7) ‡ The Bank may specify in writing such requirements as it considers necessary for credit unions providing additional services; and different requirements may be so specified in relation to different descriptions of additional services and apply to different classes of credit unions.

(8) ‡ A credit union shall not be able or, as the case may be, shall cease to be able to provide additional services of a description to which requirements under subsection (7) apply if—but, if a credit union ceases to comply with any of those requirements, the cessation shall not, of itself, impose an obligation on the credit union to dispose of any property or right acquired in connection with the provision of the additional services concerned.

Section 49 – The Bank’s approval of provision of additional service

(1) An application by a credit union for the approval of the provision of additional services of any description (in this section referred to as an "approval application") and, where an approval application relates to the provision of additional services of more than one description, the information referred to above shall be given separately in respect of each description of services.

(3) Having considered an approval application (which complies with subsections (1) and (2)), the Bank shall give notice, either—

(a) granting approval;

(b) refusing to grant approval; or

(c) granting approval subject to whatever conditions (including restrictions or exclusions) it considers appropriate; and the Bank shall not grant an approval application in respect of any description of additional services unless it is satisfied that the resolution required by section 48(4)(a) in relation to services of that description has been passed.

- (4) In making its decision on an approval application, the Bank shall have regard to the interests of the public and of the members and creditors of the credit union, to the orderly and proper regulation of the business of the credit union and to such other considerations as it thinks proper.
- (5) Subject to subsection (6), within four months of the date on which it receives an approval application, the Bank shall either notify the credit union of its decision on the application or require the credit union to supply to it such additional information as it considers necessary to enable it to reach a decision and, where the Bank requires the provision of such additional information, it shall notify the credit union of its decision on the approval application not later than four months from the date of its receipt of that additional information.
- (6) Where an approval application relates to the provision of services by the credit union as agent (and not also as principal), subsection (5) shall have effect with the substitution for any reference to four months of a reference to two months.
- (7) Without prejudice to the generality of subsection (3)(c), the conditions which the Bank may impose in granting an approval application may, in particular, include provisions about—and different conditions may be so imposed in relation to different descriptions of additional services.

Section 50 – Supplementary provisions as to Bank’s functions

1) In the exercise of its powers under sections 48 and 49 and this section, the Bank may at any time consult the Advisory Committee and such other bodies as appear to it to be expert or knowledgeable in matters relating to credit unions.

2) Without prejudice to the generality of subsection (1), the Bank may commission an independent assessment of the capacity of a credit union to provide any or each description of the additional services in respect of which it has made an approval application; and, if the Bank so directs, the credit union shall defray the costs of such an assessment.

3) If it appears to it appropriate to do so, the Bank may at any time by notice—

(a) withdraw an approval granted under section 49;

(b) revoke or vary any conditions imposed on such an approval; or

(c) impose new conditions on such an approval;

but any such action by the Bank shall not require the disposal of any property or right already acquired.

4) In this section "approval application" has the same meaning as in section 49.

Section 51 – Requirements applicable to credit unions providing additional services

3. Guidance

Further guidance and forms in relation to credit union services may be found on the Central Bank website.

3.1 Credit Union Services

Credit unions provide savings and loans under Part III of the 1997 Act – these are generally considered the core services of a credit union. Generally, other services are categorised as ‘additional services’ and require approval from the Central Bank under the additional services provisions – sections 48-52 - of the 1997 Act. However, in accordance with section 48(2) of the 1997 Act, the Central Bank can, by regulations, prescribe services as being excluded from being additional services and may make such exclusion conditional on compliance with such conditions as may be prescribed by the Central Bank; these prescribed services are generally referred to as ‘exempt services’.

Under Regulation 48 of the Regulations, the Central Bank has prescribed a list of such exempt services; these exempt services and associated conditions are set out in Schedule 2 (the Exempt Services Schedule) of the Regulations. In November 2024, the Central Bank made the Credit Union Act 1997 (Regulatory Requirements) (Amendment) (No. 2) Regulations 2024 (The 2024 No. 2 Regulations) which introduced changes to the exempt services provisions of the Regulations, in particular by amending Regulation 48 and by substituting a new and updated Exempt Services Schedule for the previous Schedule 2 to the Regulations. The changes introduced by the 2024 No. 2 Regulations are effective from 1 January 2025.

3.2 Member Prize Draws

3.2.1 Governance and Audit

The Central Bank's expectation is that, where a credit union is operating a draw for its members, it will be done in a clear and transparent manner with appropriate systems and controls in place, including effective systems of control to ensure that the credit union complies with the conditions attaching to the provision of member prize draws as set out in paragraph 10 of the Exempt Services Schedule.

Condition (k) of paragraph 10 states that 'the credit union's external auditor reviews, on an annual basis, all transactions in the prize draw'. In this regard, the Central Bank expects that where a member prize draw is operated by a credit union that it would fall within scope of the audit work program being undertaken by the external auditor. It is the Central Bank's expectation that the auditor would assess, on a sample basis and in line with materiality as determined by the external auditor, transactions related to the member prize draw and that the scope of the work of the external auditor in this regard may be informed by the work undertaken and assurances (or otherwise) provided by the internal auditor during the financial year. Furthermore, credit unions should discuss the findings from the Thematic Review of Prize Draws in Credit Unions published in March 2018¹ (the Thematic Review Report) with their auditors in preparing for the external audit of credit unions.

We also draw attention to a number of requirements of section 108 of the 1997 Act that relate to accounting records:

- section 108(2)(a) of the 1997 Act requires that the accounting records of a credit union must correctly record and explain the transactions of the credit union;
- section 108(3)(a) requires that accounting records contain "entries from day to day of all sums of money received and expended by the credit union and the matters in respect of which the receipt and expenditure take place";
- section 108(3)(c) requires that in respect of the provision of services the accounting records of a credit union contain a record of services provided and all transactions relating to them.

3.2.2 Terms and conditions

The Central Bank expects the terms and conditions, to be provided to members in advance of their participation in member prize draws, to include items such as:

- eligibility criteria for entry into the draw and the process for entering the member prize draw, including whether volunteers and/or are eligible to enter);
- how the draw fee will be collected;
- information on when and where draws will take place;
- how winners will be advised of their win;
- how any surplus funds arising from the draw, during the relevant budget period, be that either on a financial year basis (30 September) or calendar year basis (31 December), will be dealt with;
- how members participating in the draw will be recorded; and
- how the draw will be accounted for and audited (e.g. by internal and external audit).

3.2.3 Guidance arising from recommendations of the Thematic Review of Prize Draws in Credit Unions

The Thematic Review Report, published in March 2018, set out key findings and recommendations arising from the Thematic Review of Prize Draws in Credit Unions. Those recommendations were also incorporated in guidance, updated at that time, for credit unions when operating a member prize draw.

The Central Bank has formalised a number of the recommendations set out in the Thematic Review Report by incorporating them, as appropriate, as conditions attaching to the provision of member prize draws as an exempt service in the Exempt Services Schedule as updated by the 2024 No. 2 Regulations.

The recommendations contained in the Thematic Review Report are set out below in full, including, for completeness, those recommendations which are now included as conditions attaching to the provision of member prize draws as an exempt service.

Governance Recommendations

- There should be a policy in place setting out the principles governing the draw, and this should be reviewed by the board on an annual basis.
- Any changes to operational procedures should be reviewed and approved by senior management.
- The procedure document should be reviewed and updated on a regular basis, and this should be recorded to ensure that the most recent version is used.
- Introductions of prize draws in a credit union should be approved by the Board.
- All decisions taken by a board should be recorded in the minutes, and retained securely.

Recommendations on Conducting a Member Prize Draw on a Break-even Basis:

- The board should review the operation of the prize draw regularly to ensure that it complies with the condition set out in the Regulations to be conducted on a 'break-even basis'.
- All subscriptions collected from members should only be used to pay for prizes and operating costs of the draw.
- An annual budget should be prepared forecasting the income and expenditure for the draw, allowing prizes to be adjusted to ensure the draw is operated on a break-even basis. This could be either on a financial year basis (30 September) or calendar year basis (31 December).
- Regular reconciliations on the prize draw should be prepared, signed by the preparer, independently reviewed, and presented to the Board at least annually.

Member Participation Recommendations

- Written consent should be obtained from each member to commence deductions for entry fees into a prize draw, and a record of this should be maintained by the credit union.
- The terms and conditions provided to members should clearly state the requirements for participation in the prize draw.
- All written instructions from members in relation to participation in the prize draw should be retained securely by the credit union.
- Detailed records should be maintained on which members are included in each draw.
- The terms and conditions should clarify whether staff, board and volunteers can participate in the prize draw. Boards should also consider whether related parties should participate.

Operation of Prize Draw Recommendations

- The steps involved in the operation of the prize draw should be clearly documented.
- All draws should be conducted in line with the terms and conditions which have been communicated to members.
- To avoid reputational risk, and ensure independence and impartiality, all staff and volunteers directly involved in the operation of the prize draw should be excluded from participating in the prize draw.
- All draws should be attended by an independent observer, and draw results signed by the person operating the draw and by the independent observer.
- Winning members should be notified via written communication, with a copy kept on file, to ensure an audit trail of the communication.
- Details of all the winners should be made available to all members (with their consent and in compliance with Data Protection legislation) using methods such as:

- Credit union website and social media and in any newsletters to members
- Credit union public office
- AGM booklet
- To ensure an audit trail, where possible, all cash prizes should be lodged directly to a member's account.
- Where prizes are not paid directly to a member's account, a signed record of receipt of the prize by the member should be maintained on file as an audit trail.
- A written record of the selection should be retained on file where a member has a choice of prize e.g. cash alternative in lieu of car prize.

Recording of Financial Transactions Recommendations

- Prize draws should be regularly reviewed by both internal and external audit to ensure that systems and controls in place are operating as expected. Observations from internal and external audit must be implemented.
- There should be a segregation of duties between staff processing transactions and those reconciling / reviewing those transactions.
- A periodic reconciliation of the prize draw account should be completed. The reconciliation should be prepared at an appropriate level and reviewed and approved by senior management.
- All bank account reconciliations for prize draws should be reviewed and approved by a person independent of the preparer.
- Transactions in the prize draw should be reviewed on an annual basis by the external auditor, and prize draw transactions and balances should be reported separately in the annual accounts.

1. Introduction

The Criminal Justice (Money Laundering and Terrorist Financing) Act 2010 (the "CJA 2010") commenced on 15 July 2010.

The CJA 2010, as amended by Part 2 of the Criminal Justice Act 2013, transposes the Third Money Laundering Directive (2005/60/EC) and its Implementing Directive (2006/70/EC) into Irish Law, bringing Ireland into line with EU requirements and the recommendations of the Financial Action Task Force. Designated persons under the CJA 2010, including all credit and financial institutions (as defined in the CJA 2010) are required to comply with their obligations under the CJA 2010. The definition of terrorist financing is contained in the Criminal Justice (Terrorist Offences) Act 2005.

The CJA 2010:

- defines broadly the offence of money laundering;
- requires designated persons to identify non-domestic politically exposed persons (PEPs);
- requires identification of the beneficial owners of legal entities, such as companies and trusts;
- requires designated persons to focus on the level of risk of money laundering and terrorist financing in meeting their obligations under the CJA 2010; and
- requires the Central Bank to effectively monitor credit and financial institutions (as defined in the CJA 2010) with regard to their obligations under the CJA 2010, and to take measures that are reasonably necessary to secure their compliance.

2. Legislation

- The Criminal Justice (Money Laundering and Terrorist Financing) Act 2010
- The Criminal Justice Act 2013
- Criminal Justice (Terrorist Offences) Act 2005

3. Guidelines issued by the Department of Finance

On 10 February 2012, the Department of Finance issued the following guidelines on the prevention of the use of the financial system for the purpose of money laundering and terrorist financing:

- Guidelines On the prevention of the use of the financial system for the purpose of money laundering and terrorist financing, Part 1 \(February 2012\)

These guidelines contain core guidance which provides generic guidance that is applicable to all financial services designated persons.

On 6 February 2013, the Department of Finance issued the following sectoral guidance note for credit unions:

- Guidance Notes on compliance with the Criminal Justice \(Money Laundering and Terrorist Financing\) Act, 2010 Part II Sectoral Guidance Note for Credit Unions \(January 2013\)

These guidelines have not been approved under section 107 of the CJA 2010 which is a matter for the Department of Justice and Equality and the Department of Finance.

The Central Bank, as per the guidelines, "will have regard to these guidelines in assessing compliance by designated persons with the CJA 2010." As noted in the guidelines, "the guidelines are designed to guide designated persons on the application of the relevant provisions of the CJA 2010. The guidelines do not constitute secondary legislation and designated persons must always refer directly to the CJA 2010 when ascertaining their statutory obligations. The guidelines are subordinate to the CJA 2010."

Credit unions must ensure that they are in a position to demonstrate to the Central Bank that they are meeting the requirements as specified in the CJA 2010, as amended by the Criminal Justice Act 2013.

4. Central Bank Publications

The Central Bank has issued a number of communications and publications which may assist credit unions in achieving compliance with the CJA 2010. The most recent publication is the Central Bank's May 2015 'Report on Anti-Money Laundering (AML), Countering the Financing of Terrorism (CFT) and Financial Sanctions (FS) Compliance in the Irish Credit Union Sector', which can be found at the following link.

The Central Bank expects all credit unions to carefully consider the issues raised in the Report and to use the Report to inform the development of their AML/CFT and FS frameworks.

Other publications and items of correspondence which credit unions may find helpful in developing their AML/CFT and FS compliance frameworks include:

- Report on Anti-Money Laundering Countering the Financing of Terrorism and Financial Sanctions Compliance in the Irish Banking Sector - Feb 2015
- Letter to industry - Customer due diligence requirements - Oct 2014
- Dear CEO Letter - Compliance with the CJA 2010 - Oct 2012

- (5) Subject to subsection (4), a transaction with a credit union shall not be invalid or ineffectual by reason of the fact that the limit on borrowing prescribed by the Bank under subsection (2) (or such limit as may be duly affected under subsection (3)) has been or is by the transaction exceeded.
- (6) In prescribing matters for the purposes of this section, the Bank shall have regard to the need to ensure that the requirements imposed by the regulations made by it are effective and proportionate having regard to the nature, scale and complexity of credit unions, or the category or categories of credit unions, to which the regulations will apply.

1. Introduction

On 24 September 2012, Part 3 of the Central Bank Reform Act 2010 ("the Act") was commenced for credit unions providing a statutory system for the regulation by the Central Bank of individuals performing Controlled Functions ("CFs") and Pre-Approval Controlled Functions ("PCFs") in credit unions.

A Fitness and Probity regime for credit unions came into effect on 1 August 2013 and was fully implemented by 1 August 2016. The Fitness and Probity regime for credit unions was introduced on a phased basis as follows:

- the first phase commenced on 1 August 2013, and introduced Fitness and Probity requirements for credit unions with total assets, per their latest audited balance sheet, of greater than €10 million;
- the second phase commenced on 1 August 2015 when all remaining credit unions were brought within the scope of the regime.

Since 1 August 2015, credit unions that are also authorised as retail intermediaries are subject to additional Fitness and Probity requirements for the part of the business that the credit union undertakes as a retail intermediary.

Since 1 July 2018, for credit unions that have total assets of at least €100 million, according to the credit union's latest audited balance sheet, three additional roles are designated PCFs.

In March 2023, the Central Bank (Individual Accountability Framework) Act 2023 ("the IAF") amended and replaced section 21 of the Act to provide that a regulated financial service provider (which includes credit unions) shall not permit a person to perform a controlled function in relation to it unless a certificate of compliance with standards of fitness and probity, given by the regulated financial service provider in accordance with section 21 of the Act, is in force in relation to the person. This amended provision of the Act came into operation on 29 December 2023.

On 8 January 2024, and further to the IAF, the Certification Regulations came into effect. The Certification Regulations apply to all regulated financial service providers and certain holding companies to which Part 3 of the Act applies.

Since 1 October 2024, and linked to the application of the Minimum Competency Code ("MCC") and the Minimum Competency Regulations 2017 ("MCR") (together the "Minimum Competency Standards”) to credit unions for all activities which are within scope of the MCC, six new CF roles were introduced for credit unions.

1.1 Regulations

Since 2013, four sets of regulations have prescribed CFs and PCFs pursuant to sections 20 and 22 of the Act respectively. S. I. no. 171 of 2013 (the “2013 Regulations”) is effective from 1 August 2013 and applies to all credit unions. S. I. No. 97 of 2015 (the “2015 Regulations”) was effective from 1 August 2015 and applied to credit unions also authorised as retail intermediaries.¹ S. I. no. 187 of 2018 (the “2018 Regulations”) is effective from 1 July 2018 and applies to credit unions with total assets of at least €100 million. S.I. no. 454 of 2023 (the “2023 Regulations”) is effective from 1 October 2024 and gives effect to the application of the Minimum Competency Standards to credit union services which fall within scope of the MCC. Both the 2018 Regulations and the 2023 Regulations amended the 2013 Regulations.

2013 Regulations

The 2013 Regulations identify those CFs and PCFs that come within the scope of the Fitness and Probity regime for credit unions. The 2013 Regulations have been amended by the 2018 Regulations and the 2023 Regulations.

Two CFs were prescribed in the original 2013 Regulations:

- CUCF-1: a function in relation to the provision of a financial service which is likely to enable the person responsible for its performance to exercise a significant influence on the conduct of the affairs of a credit union; and
- CUCF-2: a function in relation to the provision of a financial service which is related to ensuring controlling or monitoring compliance by a credit union with its relevant obligations.

Credit unions are not required to seek the prior approval of an individual before their appointment to a CF role.

Two PCFs were also prescribed in the original 2013 Regulations:

- CUPCF-1: the office of chair of the board of the credit union; and ¹ The 2015 Regulations prescribed two PCFs in respect of credit unions that are also authorised as retail intermediaries. These are both the same as the PCFs prescribed in the 2013 Regulations in respect of credit unions. The 2015 Regulations also prescribed eleven CFs in respect of credit unions that are also authorised as retail intermediaries, two of which are prescribed in respect of credit unions in the 2013 Regulations. On 1 October 2024 the 2015 Regulations were revoked. The 2023 Regulations which commenced on 1 October 2024 prescribed the same two PCFs and eleven CFs which were previously prescribed in the 2015 Regulations in respect of credit unions that are also authorised as retail intermediaries.

- CUPCF-2: the office of manager of the credit union.

PCFs are a subset of CFs and the prior approval of the Central Bank is required before an individual can be appointed to a PCF role. The individual must complete an online Individual Questionnaire which is endorsed by the proposing credit union and then submitted electronically to the Central Bank for assessment.

A credit union must not appoint an individual to perform a PCF until the Central Bank has approved the appointment in writing.

In situ PCFs are persons who held the role of chair or manager at the time of commencement of the 2013 Regulations and the 2015 Regulations. These persons do not have to apply for pre-approval from the Central Bank unless they are seeking re-election or being re-appointed to the role e.g. when a chair is subject to re-election.

2018 Regulations

The 2018 Regulations amended the 2013 Regulations by prescribing an additional three PCFs for credit unions with total assets of at least €100 million, as determined by the credit union's latest audited balance sheet. The 2018 Regulations are effective from 1 July 2018, and specify three additional PCFs for such credit unions:

- CUPCF-3: Risk Management Officer,
- CUPCF-4: Head of Internal Audit, and
- CUPCF-5: Head of Finance.

Similar to the role of Chair (CUPCF-1) and Manager (CUPCF-2), the prior approval of the Central Bank is required before an individual can be appointed to one of the above listed PCF roles. The individual must complete an online Individual Questionnaire which is endorsed by the proposing credit union and then submitted electronically to the Central Bank for assessment.

A credit union must not appoint an individual to perform a PCF until the Central Bank has approved the appointment in writing.

In situ PCFs are persons who hold PCF roles at the time of their introduction in the respective credit union. These persons do not have to apply for pre-approval from the Central Bank unless they are being re-appointed to the role.

The 2023 Regulations also amended the 2013 Regulations and prescribe eight CFs in respect of credit unions, two of which were first prescribed in the 2013 Regulations and six of which are newly introduced. The 2023 Regulations are effective from 1 October 2024 and introduce these additional CFs for credit unions which are required as a consequence of the extension of the MCC to all credit union activities that fall within scope of the MCC with effect from 1 October 2024. These new CFs are as follows:

- CUCF3-8: A function in relation to the provision of a financial service which is likely to involve the person responsible for its performance in the provision of a financial service by a credit union in one or more of the following ways:
 - (a) CUCF-3: Giving of advice to a member of a credit union, in the course of providing, or in relation to the provision of, the financial service;
 - (b) CUCF-4: Arranging, or offering to arrange, a financial service for a member of a credit union;
 - (c) CUCF-5: Assisting a member of a credit union in the making of a claim under a contract of insurance or reinsurance;
 - (d) CUCF-6: Determining the outcome of a claim arising under a contract of insurance or reinsurance;
 - (e) CUCF-7: Acting in the direct management or supervision of those persons who act for a credit union in providing the services referred to in subparagraphs (a) to (d); or
 - (f) CUCF-8: Adjudicating on any complaint communicated to a credit union by a member in relation to the provision of a financial service.

Furthermore, on 1 October 2024 the 2023 Regulations revoked the 2015 Regulations², and amend the 2013 Regulations to retain the CFs and PCFs that came within the scope of the Fitness and Probity regime for credit unions that are also authorised as retail intermediaries for the part of the business that the credit union undertakes as a retail intermediary.

The 2013 Regulations now contain the following PCFs and CFs for credit unions who are also authorised as retail intermediaries:

² The 2015 Regulations originally prescribed two PCFs and eleven CFs in respect of credit unions also authorised as retail intermediaries. For further information refer to footnote 1.

- CURIPCF-1: the office of chair of the board of the credit union; and
- CURIPCF-2: the office of manager of the credit union.

- CURICF-1: a function in relation to the provision of a financial service which is likely to enable the person responsible for its performance to exercise a significant influence on the conduct of the affairs of a credit union that is also authorised as a retail intermediary.
- CURICF-2: a function in relation to the provision of a financial service which is related to ensuring, controlling or monitoring compliance by a credit union that is also authorised as a retail intermediary with its relevant obligations.

- CURICF3 – 8: A function in relation to the provision of a financial service which is likely to involve the person responsible for its performance in the provision of a financial service by a credit union that is also authorised as a retail intermediary in one or more of the following ways:
 - (a) CURICF-3: giving of advice to a member of the credit union under its authorisation as a retail intermediary, in the course of providing, or in relation to the provision of, the financial service; or
 - (b) CURICF-4: arranging, or offering to arrange, a financial service for a member of the credit union under its authorisation as a retail intermediary; or
 - (c) CURICF-5: assisting a member in the making of a claim under a contract of insurance or reinsurance; or
 - (d) CURICF-6: determining the outcome of a claim arising under a contract of insurance or reinsurance; or
 - (e) CURICF-7: acting in the direct management or supervision of those persons who act for a credit union under its authorisation as a retail intermediary in providing the services referred to in subparagraphs (a) to (d); or
 - (f) CURICF-8: adjudicating on any complaint communicated to a credit union by a member in relation to the provision of a financial service under its authorisation as a retail intermediary; or

- CURICF-9: in respect of a person involved in insurance or reinsurance distribution as defined in the European Union (Insurance Distribution) Regulations 2018, the function of being involved in insurance or reinsurance distribution.

- CURICF10 – 11: A function in relation to the provision of a financial service which is likely to involve the person responsible for its performance in the provision of a financial service by a credit union that is also authorised as a retail intermediary in one or more of the following ways:

- (a) CURICF-10: dealing in or having control over property of a member of the credit union that is also authorised as a retail intermediary to whom a financial service is provided or to be provided, whether that property is held in the name of the member or some other person; or
- (b) CURICF-11: dealing in or with property on behalf of the credit union that is also authorised as a retail intermediary, or providing instructions or directions in relation to such dealing.

1.2 Fitness and probity standards for credit unions

The Fitness and Probity Standards for Credit Unions (the “Standards”) provide that a person performing a CF or PCF is required to be:

- competent and capable;
- honest, ethical and to act with integrity; and
- financially sound.

A credit union must not permit a person to perform a CF role or PCF role unless it is satisfied on reasonable grounds, and certifies, that the person complies with the Standards and has obtained confirmation that the person has agreed to comply with the Standards. Credit unions are responsible for ensuring that staff performing CFs or PCFs meet the Standards, both on appointment to such functions and on an on-going basis.

1.3 Guidance on the Fitness and Probity regime for credit unions

The Central Bank of Ireland has published guidance to assist credit unions, including those authorised as retail intermediaries, in complying with their obligations under the Act in relation to Fitness and Probity (the “Guidance”). The Guidance outlines the steps which the Central Bank expects credit unions to take in order to satisfy themselves on reasonable grounds that individuals performing CFs, including PCFs, are in compliance with the Standards. It also includes guidance on other issues including transitional arrangements, the MCC and operational considerations for credit unions in implementing the Fitness and Probity regime.

1. Introduction

The Report of the Commission on Credit Unions¹ recognised that the issue of governance of credit unions is at the core of strengthening the regulatory framework and set out detailed governance requirements for credit unions. The 1997 Act, as amended by the 2012 Act, sets out comprehensive governance requirements for credit unions that are designed to provide a framework to improve governance standards in credit unions with a particular focus at board of directors and management level.

The executive or operational roles in a credit union are performed by the manager, the management team, staff and voluntary assistants. The non-executive or governance roles in a credit union are performed by the board of directors. The governance requirements also require a credit union to have a board oversight committee, an internal audit function, a risk management officer and a compliance officer.

The manager serves as the main link between the board of directors and the executive.

Section 56A of the 1997 Act, set out in Section 6 of this Chapter, sets out requirements relating to board committees. Section 67 of the 1997 Act, set out in Section 7 of this Chapter, deals with the credit, credit control and membership committees which are no longer required under the Third Schedule to include a director.

1.1 Governance arrangements and organisational structure

Section 66A of the 1997 Act requires that a credit union's governance arrangements include a clear organisational structure with well defined, transparent and consistent reporting lines. Additionally the 1997 Act sets out a number of reporting lines and oversight arrangements which shall be implemented by credit unions. For example, the 1997 Act protects the independence of the internal audit function and requires a reporting line to the board of directors. However, having ensured that these statutory reporting lines and oversight arrangements are in place, it is a matter for the board of directors of each credit union to decide on the most appropriate administrative structures and reporting relationships for all officers of their credit union. In the case of the internal audit function this could include a reporting line to the manager or a member of the management team for matters of an administrative nature. Additionally, in the case of the risk management officer and compliance officer, this could include a reporting relationship to the manager.

1.2 Resources required

As outlined above the governance requirements set out a number of functions and roles that a credit union must put in place including a risk management officer, a compliance officer and an internal audit function. It is a matter for the board of directors to determine whether functions should be performed in-house, through a sharing arrangement between credit unions or outsourced to a third party service provider. In considering resourcing arrangements credit unions should have regard to the nature, scale, complexity and risk profile of the credit union and ensure that at a minimum:

- all functions of the role can be effectively carried out by the proposed resourcing arrangements;
- any potential conflicts are identified and managed;
- where independence of functions is required that this is maintained; and
- all legal and regulatory requirements are met, including those relating to outsourcing.

The board of directors of each credit union remains responsible for the general control, direction and management of the credit union and will need to ensure they have adequate and appropriate systems and resources in place to meet their legal and regulatory requirements and ensure that they have effective governance arrangements including risk management systems and internal audit functions.

2. General Governance Requirements

2.1 Protection of members' savings

Section 27A – Protection of members' savings*

- (1) In addition to its reporting functions under the Credit Union Acts 1997 to 2012 and complying with any matter prescribed under those Acts, a credit union shall maintain appropriate oversight, policies, procedures, processes, practices, systems, controls, skills, expertise and reporting arrangements to ensure the protection of members' savings and that it complies with requirements imposed under the financial services legislation.
- (2) Without prejudice to the generality of subsection (1), the Bank may make regulations prescribing—
- (a) certain oversight, policies, procedures, processes, practices, systems, controls, skills, expertise and reporting arrangements which the credit union is required to maintain where the Bank considers this is appropriate in the interest of protecting members' savings or otherwise appropriate to ensure compliance with the requirements imposed under financial services legislation;

- (b) requirements in relation to the oversight, policies, procedures, processes, practices, systems, controls, skills, expertise and reporting arrangements required to be maintained under this section.

2.2 Governance arrangements

Section 66A – Governance arrangements in credit unions*

- (1) A credit union shall have governance arrangements which shall-
- (a) be such as to ensure that there is effective oversight of the activities of the credit union, taking into consideration the nature, scale and complexity of the business being conducted,
 - (b) include a clear organisational structure with well-defined, transparent and consistent reporting lines,
 - (c) be documented and set out the roles, responsibilities and accountabilities of the officers clearly in writing,
 - (d) be communicated in writing to all officers in the credit union, and
 - (e) be subject to regular internal review by the board of directors on, at a minimum, an annual basis.
- (2) A credit union shall have in place the oversight, policies, procedures, practices, systems, controls, skills, expertise and reporting arrangements to ensure compliance with the requirements set out in this Part.

Guidance

Credit unions should take the nature, scale and complexity of the business being conducted by the credit union into consideration when establishing governance arrangements, including arrangements in relation to the board of directors, the chair of the board of directors, the nomination committee, other (board) committees, the manager, the management team, the board oversight committee, risk management systems, systems and control, the risk management officer, the compliance officer and the internal audit function.

The nature, scale and complexity of the business being conducted by a credit union will impact on the:

- level of oversight;
- extent of skills and expertise; and
- details of policies and procedures, processes, practices, systems, controls and reporting arrangements required by credit unions in these areas.

2.3 Remuneration

Section 66B – Remuneration policies and practices*

A credit union shall put in place remuneration policies and practices which shall be consistent with and promote sound and effective risk management.

Section 68 – Limitation of remuneration

(1) † A credit union shall not pay any remuneration, directly or indirectly, to-

- (a) a director of the credit union, or
- (b) a member of the board oversight committee of the credit union, for any service performed by that person in that capacity.

(2) Nothing in subsection (1) shall be regarded as prohibiting the payment (or reimbursement) of expenses-

- (a) which are necessarily incurred by a director or committee member in the course of performing any service on behalf, or for the benefit, of the credit union; and
- (b) which are approved by at least 2 directors (not including the director whose expenses are being approved) .

(3) † Nothing in subsection (1) shall be regarded as prohibiting any officer of a credit union, acting not as such but in his professional capacity, from tendering for the supply of, and if successful supplying, goods or services to the credit union.

Guidance

The remuneration policy of a credit union should be consistent with the credit union's risk profile and promote sound and effective risk management in line with the credit union's risk tolerance and strategic plan, as required under section 76A of the 1997 Act.² It should not encourage excessive risk taking.

A remuneration policy should cover the following at a minimum:

- objectives of the remuneration policy;
- organisational arrangements setting out the roles and responsibilities of officers involved in determining remuneration;
- the credit union’s procedure for determining remuneration;
- safeguards to ensure that remuneration practices will not generate conflicts of interest e.g. officers in non-control positions should not have undue influence over the remuneration of officers in control positions such as the compliance officer and internal audit function;
- provisions that those involved in control positions are remunerated in accordance with the achievement of the objectives linked to their functions, independent of the performance of the functions they control;
- provisions to ensure that remuneration is not solely based on financial performance metrics and performance metrics include adherence to effective risk management and compliance;
- provision that payments related to early termination of a contract reflect performance achieved over time and are designed in a way that does not reward failure;
- reporting arrangements, including the frequency, form and content of reporting to the board of directors (or remuneration committee where one exists); and
- the process and timelines for the approval, review and update of the remuneration policy by the board of directors (or remuneration committee where one exists).

Credit unions should ensure that any significant deviations from the remuneration policy, the reasons for these deviations and proposed action to address the deviations are communicated to the board of directors (or the remuneration committee where one exists) in accordance with the reporting arrangements set out in the remuneration policy.

2.4 Reporting to the Central Bank (annual compliance statement)

Section 66C – Reporting to Bank*
(1) A credit union shall submit an annual compliance statement to the Bank certifying its compliance with the requirements of this Part and the regulations, if any, made in respect of a matter to be prescribed under this Part by the Bank.
(1A) The Bank may prescribe the form and content of the annual compliance statement

(2) The annual compliance statement referred to in subsection (1) shall be submitted by a credit union to the Bank within 2 months of the end of each financial year of the credit union, or with such other frequency as the Bank may notify to the credit union from time to time.

Guidance

All credit unions are required to submit an annual compliance statement to the Central Bank within two months of the end of the financial year of the credit union.

The annual compliance statement confirms whether the credit union has:

- acted in compliance with; or
- failed to comply with the requirements of Part IV of the 1997 Act and any other regulations prescribed under Part IV of the 1997 Act (“the Requirements”).³

Materiality

It is the responsibility of the credit union to ensure that it complies with all legal and regulatory requirements on an ongoing basis.

Where a credit union has failed to comply with the Requirements this non-compliance may be material or non-material.

The Board is responsible for determining if non-compliance is material. Whether a deviation is material or not will depend upon the facts of each case including the frequency, duration and impact of non-compliance. The Central Bank recommends that the board of directors should ensure a materiality statement is developed, setting out the credit union’s definition of what constitutes material non-compliance and documenting the factors that will be used to assess materiality. This can then be referred to by the credit union to assist it in determining if non-compliance is material in a particular case. The materiality statement should be reviewed and updated at least annually by the board of directors and could be included as part of the credit union’s compliance policy.

Some factors that a credit union should consider when assessing materiality include:

- the frequency and duration of non-compliance – for example a one-off instance of non-compliance that is immediately rectified may not be material,

³ The Central Bank has not yet prescribed regulations under this Part.

- while repeated non-compliance or non-compliance of considerable duration may be material;
- the extent to which non-compliance departs from the required standard – for example a minor deviation from the standard may be less material than a significant deviation;
 - the impact of the non-compliance on the credit union – for example consideration should be given to the impact of non-compliance on:
 - the governance of the credit union;
 - the financial position of the credit union;
 - the reputation of the credit union; and
 - the members of the credit union including protection of members' savings and access to services;
 - consideration should also be given to whether non-compliance indicates serious or systemic weakness of management systems or internal controls;
 - it is also important to consider non-compliance collectively – for example, a number of issues that appear non-material individually may collectively be considered to be material and may be indicative of weaknesses in risk management, compliance, internal audit and/or systems and controls.

All of these factors are relevant when assessing whether non-compliance with the Requirements is material.

In addition, where a report, such as a compliance report, an internal audit report, a risk management report, a board oversight committee report or any other internal or external report on governance or compliance, raises concerns in relation to compliance with the Requirements, this should be included in the factors considered when assessing materiality.

In the event of material non-compliance with the Requirements being identified, a Report of Material Non-Compliance will be submitted with the annual compliance statement. The Report of Material Non-Compliance provides details of the background to any material deviation, along with the date and extent of the deviation, potential consequences and the remedial action taken or proposed to be taken by the credit union.

Timing

The annual compliance statement will cover the period from 1 October to 30 September each year and will be required to be submitted by 30 November each year. The annual compliance statement will cover the relevant obligations that a credit union was required to comply with from the date that the relevant obligation came into force.

Monitoring compliance

The 1997 Act requires credit unions to implement a compliance programme that allows it to evaluate compliance with all legal and regulatory requirements, including obligations under Part IV of the 1997 Act. Section 66A(2) of the 1997 Act requires a credit union to have in place the oversight, policies, procedures, practices, systems, controls, skills, expertise and reporting arrangements to ensure compliance with the requirements set out in Part IV of the 1997 Act.

Policies and procedures should be properly documented and reviews of compliance should be carried out regularly and where non-compliance is identified acted upon promptly by the credit union. The individuals responsible for establishing and monitoring compliance must be clearly identified in writing and their roles and responsibilities must be documented. Guidance on the role of the compliance officer and the compliance programme is provided in the Chapter on "Risk Management and Compliance".

Preparing the Annual Compliance Statement

As set out above, compliance with the Requirements must be monitored on an ongoing basis. This ongoing assessment and review will form the basis of the annual compliance statement.

When preparing the annual compliance statement credit unions should assess each requirement and determine if the credit union has complied with the Requirements. Credit unions should record the basis for their assessment including the basis for determining whether non-compliance is material or non-material.

Where a credit union has determined that it has complied with all the Requirements they must submit an annual compliance statement to the Central Bank confirming compliance with the Requirements.

Where a credit union identifies breaches of the Requirements they must submit an annual compliance statement confirming that the credit union has failed to act in compliance with the Requirements.

Where a credit union has identified material non-compliance with the Requirements, as well as submitting an annual compliance statement confirming that it has failed to act in compliance with the Requirements, the credit union will also be required to submit to the Central Bank a Report of Material Non-Compliance. This report should provide details of the background to any material deviation along with the date and extent of the deviation, potential consequences and the remedial action taken or proposed to be taken by the credit union.

A credit union should inform the Central Bank as soon as it becomes aware of instances of material non-compliance with the Requirements and should not wait until it submits the annual compliance statement to notify the Central Bank of these instances.

Credit unions should maintain and update details of all breaches of the Requirements, both material and non-material, including any remedial action taken.

Retention of supporting documents

Credit unions should retain any documentation used during the preparation of the annual compliance statement, including documentation outlining the process undertaken and documentation demonstrating compliance with the Requirements. For example, under section 55(4) the board is required to carry out at least annually a comprehensive review of its overall performance, the documents for these reviews should be retained by the board of directors so that they are available to the Central Bank if required.

Further examples of some of the types of documentation that may assist credit unions in demonstrating compliance include the documents required under Part IV of the 1997 Act. Appendix 1 provides a list of documentation required to be maintained pursuant to the 1997 Act.

Submission of Annual Compliance Statement

Credit unions should submit the annual compliance statement electronically to the Central Bank on the Central Bank of Ireland Portal.

Approval of the board of directors

The annual compliance statement and any Report of Material Non-compliance, where relevant, should be approved by the board of directors at a board meeting before being submitted to the Central Bank.

The annual compliance statement must be signed by the chair of the credit union and two other directors of the credit union on behalf of the board of directors of the credit union.

Use of information by the Central Bank

Where a credit union reports a breach of the Requirements, the Central Bank may use that information for any of its regulatory functions, including, but not limited to the imposition of administrative sanctions under Part IIIC of the Central Bank Act, 1942 or any other of its supervisory functions.

Auditor Input

Auditors are not required to express an opinion on a credit union's compliance in the annual compliance statement.

Publication of the annual compliance statement

The Central Bank does not require the annual compliance statement to be published in the credit union's annual report. Where a statement contains reports of non-compliance in respect of which the Central Bank subsequently takes enforcement action (against an individual or credit union), publication of such non-compliance may be required as part of that enforcement action.

3.4 Term limits and casual vacancies

It should be noted that this

is a minimum requirement under the 1997 Act and does not impact on other legal or regulatory obligations, or expectations, of credit unions or the boards of directors. For example, the Central Bank's expectation that the board of directors reviews and approves the credit union's AML/CFT Business Risk Assessment at least on an annual basis and that it should have a clearly defined process in place for the formal review at least annually of the credit union's AML/CFT policies, procedures and controls is not impacted by the change.⁹ Without prejudice to the minimum requirement under section 55(1)(o) of the 1997 Act, the board of directors should approve, review, and update all plans and policies as often as may be appropriate to fulfil its responsibilities effectively and prudently and reflecting the nature, scale and complexity of the credit union.

 - (c) which is made with the consent of the person to whom the information relates and, where not the same person, of the person from whom the information was obtained; or
 - (d) which, in a case where the credit union is acting or has acted as agent for a person, is made to that person in respect of that capacity; or
 - (e) where the information is in the form of a summary or collection of information and is so framed as not to enable information relating to a particular member to be ascertained from it; or
 - (f) which, in the opinion of the Bank, is necessary for the protection of the funds of shareholders in or depositors with the credit union or to safeguard the interests of the credit union; or
 - (g) which is made to the Bank for the purposes of its functions in relation to credit unions; or
 - (h) which is made to the Credit Union Restructuring Board for the purposes of its functions under the Credit Union and Cooperation with Overseas Regulators Act 2012.

- (3) ‡ As soon as practicable after the beginning of his term of office or, in the case of any person whose term of office began before the commencement of this section, after that commencement, every officer of a credit union shall, in such manner as the Bank may determine –
- (a) be informed by the credit union of his obligations under this section; and
 - (b) in writing acknowledge that he has been so informed and understands his obligations.
- (4) Any reference in the preceding provisions of this section to a term of office means–

- (5) A person who contravenes subsection (1) shall be guilty of an offence.
- (6) In any proceedings for an offence under this section, the onus of proving that any of the paragraphs of subsection (2) excludes a disclosure from subsection (1) shall lie on the person who made or permitted the disclosure.

- (1) ‡ Whenever required to do so in accordance with subsection (2), every officer of a credit union who has the receipt or charge of money on behalf of the credit union shall–

- (2) The register may be kept either by making entries in bound books or by recording the matters in question in any other manner; but, where the register is not kept by making entries in a bound book but by some other means, adequate precautions shall be taken for guarding against, and facilitating the discovery of, any falsification.
- (3) Every credit union shall either—

 - (b) so construct the register kept under subsection (1) that it is possible to open to inspection the particulars in the register, excluding those entered under paragraph (b) or paragraph (c) of that subsection and without exposing the particulars so entered.
- (4) Where a credit union keeps a register pursuant to subsection (1) by recording the matters in question in any manner other than by making entries in bound books, the credit union shall keep at a place other than its registered office a duplicate register containing the particulars in the register kept under subsection (1).
- (5) ‡ The Bank or a person acting on its behalf may at all reasonable hours inspect any particulars in any register or duplicate register kept under this section.

- objectives of the standards of conduct and ethical behaviour of officers;
- organisational arrangements setting out the roles and responsibilities of officers in the credit union responsible for standards of conduct and ethical behaviour;
- general standard of care of officers;
- requirements on officers when interacting with colleagues, members and the wider public;
- requirements on officers to act with integrity and honesty, avoid conflicts of interest and act in compliance with applicable legal and regulatory requirements and guidance such as health and safety and confidentiality requirements;

Credit unions should ensure that any significant deviations from the standards of conduct and ethical behaviour of officers, the reasons for these deviations and proposed action to address the deviations are communicated to the board of directors in accordance with the reporting arrangements set out in the standards of conduct and ethical behaviour of officers.

11.2 Succession plan

The succession plan for the board of directors and the management team should cover the following at a minimum:

1.1	April 2024	Amended text in section 76K(2) to reflect the commencement of the Credit Union (Amendment) Act 2023.

1. Legislation

Section 76K – Internal audit*

(1) The board of a credit union shall appoint a person (in this Act referred to as the “internal audit function”)–

(a) to provide for independent internal oversight, and

(b) to evaluate and improve the effectiveness, of the credit union’s risk management, internal controls and governance processes.

(2) The internal audit function shall prepare, implement and maintain a document (in this Act referred to as the “internal audit charter”) which shall define–

(a) the activities of the internal audit function within the credit union, and

(b) the scope of those activities, and, relevant to the performance of its audits, shall authorise the access by the internal audit function to records, personnel and physical properties of the credit union. The internal audit charter shall be reviewed and modified in accordance with section 55(8).

(3) There shall be prepared by the internal audit function and approved by the board of a credit union or, where an audit committee exists for the credit union, by the audit committee with the agreement of that board, a written plan (in this Act referred to as an “internal audit plan”) detailing the scope and objectives of audits, setting priorities as regards areas to be audited and determine the necessary resources required to implement the plan. The internal audit plan shall be reviewed and modified in accordance with section 55(8).

(4) The internal audit function shall be separate from other functions and activities of the credit union, and be capable of operating independently of management and without undue influence over its activities.

(5) The internal audit function shall report the results of its evaluations and recommendations to the audit committee, where one exists, or otherwise to the board of directors, on a regular basis, and at least quarterly.

(6) (a) The Bank may prescribe the form and content of the internal audit charter and internal audit plan, and related matters.¹

(b) Without prejudice to the generality of paragraph (a), regulations may prescribe–

(i) the frequency and timing at which an examination of the records of the credit union is to be undertaken by the internal audit function, and

(ii) the nature of the records to be inspected for the purposes of subparagraph (i).

(7) The internal audit function shall have access, at all times, to the books and documents (including draft documents) of the credit union to enable it to carry out its functions under the Act.

Section 55 – Functions of board of directors*

(This Chapter has not reproduced the entirety of section 55 – please consult the Credit Union Act, 1997 for the full provision.)

...

(8) The board shall regularly review, but at least annually, the performance and effectiveness of the internal audit function, including reviewing and approving the internal audit charter and the internal audit plan and reviewing and approving any modifications to them, ensuring they are updated and that any issues identified in the review are managed and rectified in a timely manner.

2. Guidance

2.1 Internal audit function

The internal audit function should cover the following at a minimum in its evaluation of the effectiveness of the credit union’s risk management, internal controls and governance processes:

- evaluating whether the risk management system required to be maintained by a credit union under section 76B of the 1997 Act² identifies and assesses significant risks in the credit union including the identification of operational risks, as required under section 76E of the 1997 Act;³
- ensuring appropriate risk controls are selected that manage risks within the credit union’s risk tolerance;

² See the Chapter on “Risk Management and Compliance”.

³ See the Chapter on “Operational Risk”.

- ensuring that relevant risk information is captured and communicated in a timely manner across the credit union, enabling officers of the credit union to carry out their responsibilities;
- evaluating the effectiveness of the credit union's information systems required under section 76G of the 1997 Act;⁴
- evaluating the accuracy, consistency, comprehensiveness, accessibility, timeliness, and security of management information required to be produced under section 76H of the 1997 Act;⁵
- reviewing methods employed by the credit union to safeguard assets (including inspection and verification of cash, passbooks or statements, bank reconciliations, securities, cash accounts and all records relating to loans and investments);
- assessing the effectiveness of the compliance programme required under section 76B of the 1997 Act in ensuring compliance with legal and regulatory requirements and guidance;⁶ and
- evaluating the effectiveness of the credit union's governance arrangements required under section 66A of the 1997 Act.⁷

Arising from the above, the internal audit function should make recommendations to the board of directors (or the audit committee where one exists) on improving the effectiveness of the risk management, internal controls and governance processes. The internal audit function should follow up on recommendations made, to ensure that effective remedial action, agreed by the board of directors (or audit committee where one exists), is taken. Recommendations should be ranked and should include proposed timelines for implementation. An overall opinion of the internal audit function on the effectiveness of the credit union's risk management, internal controls and governance processes should also be provided to the board of directors (or the audit committee where one exists).

The board of directors of the credit union should encourage the internal audit function to adhere to internal audit professional standards and benchmarks relating to internal audit. An example of such standards is the standards established by the Institute of Internal Auditors.⁸

⁴ See the Chapter on "Operational Risk".

⁵ See the Chapter on "Operational Risk".

⁶ See the Chapter on "Risk Management and Compliance".

⁷ See the Chapter on "Governance".

⁸ The Institute of Internal Auditors (January 2013), International Standards for the Professional Practice of Internal Auditing (Standards), available at <https://na.theiia.org/standards-guidance/Public%20Documents/IPPF%202013%20English.pdf>

The internal audit function should have adequate time and resources to carry out its functions under this section having regard to the nature, scale, complexity and risk profile of the credit union.

2.2 Outsourcing and sharing arrangements

It is a matter for the board of directors to determine whether the internal audit function is to be performed in-house, through a sharing arrangement between credit unions, or outsourced to a third party service provider having regard to the nature, scale, complexity and risk profile of the credit union. Whether performed in-house, through a sharing arrangement or through an outsourcing arrangement, the board of directors retains responsibility for the oversight of the internal audit function and for ensuring that the credit union complies with all requirements relating to the internal audit function.

Credit unions are required to comply with section 76J of the 1997 Act⁹ where outsourcing the internal audit function to a third party service provider and should also be aware of the fitness and probity requirements surrounding outsourcing.¹⁰ When assessing whether to outsource the internal audit function, the credit union should also consider the independence and objectivity of the third party service provider.

Where the internal audit function is outsourced, credit unions should demonstrate the following at a minimum:

- evidence of review by the credit union, at least annually, to ensure that circumstances have not changed within the credit union to merit the credit union establishing its own internal audit function;
- regular contact between the outsourced internal audit function and the credit union; and
- follow-up on the implementation of audit recommendations.

2.3 Relationship with the auditor

The board of directors should not outsource internal audit activities to the credit union's existing auditors as this may impact on the independence of the auditor.

The internal audit function should maintain open communication with the auditor. This should include a clear delineation of responsibilities, plans and procedures for co-operation to ensure effective audit coverage and to minimise duplication of effort.

⁹ See the Chapter on "Outsourcing".

¹⁰ See the Chapter on "Fitness and Probity".

2.4 Internal audit charter

The internal audit charter should cover the following at a minimum:

- objectives of the internal audit charter;
- organisational arrangements setting out the roles and responsibilities in relation to internal audit;
- activities and the scope of activities of the internal audit function which should be as wide as possible to cover every activity of the credit union;
- basis for the preparation of the internal audit plan, including processes used to assess areas of significant risk;
- safeguards in place to ensure the independence and objectivity of the internal audit function;
- authority of the internal audit function and the procedures and safeguards in place to ensure unrestricted access by the internal audit function to the records, personnel and physical properties of the credit union;
- procedures for the coordination between the internal audit function and the auditor to ensure effective audit coverage and to minimise duplication of effort;
- reporting arrangements for the internal audit function, including the frequency, form and content of reporting to the board of directors (or audit committee where one exists);
- process and timelines for the review of the internal audit function; and
- process and timelines for the review and approval of the internal audit charter by the board of directors and for ensuring the internal audit charter is updated.

2.5 Internal audit plan

In advance of preparing the internal audit plan the internal audit function should undertake a risk assessment to identify key risks within the credit union. Activities that are determined to be higher risk should be audited in more depth and more frequently than activities that are determined to be lower risk. However, the internal audit plan should provide for all areas of the credit union's business to be covered over a set period. The internal audit plan should also take account of the audit plans of the auditor.

The internal audit plan should be based on the risk assessment carried out by the internal audit function and should cover the following at a minimum:

- the objectives and scope of the internal audit plan;
- organisational arrangements setting out the roles and responsibilities of key personnel involved in implementing the internal audit plan;
- a detailed work programme including priority areas to be audited and timelines for completion of the work;

- how the work is to be performed, including audit procedures and tests to be performed; and
- the process and timelines for review and approval of the internal audit plan by the board of directors and for ensuring the plan is updated.

The internal audit plan should be dynamic and flexible to allow for changes throughout the year. The internal audit function should communicate any significant deviations from the internal audit plan, the reasons for these deviations and proposed action to address the deviations to the board of directors (or the audit committee where one exists).

2.6 Independence of the internal audit function

In order to ensure that the internal audit function operates with independence, the board of directors should, at a minimum, ensure that the internal audit function:

- is appointed at a senior level to ensure that the internal audit function has appropriate standing and authority within the credit union;
- is separate from other functions and does not engage in any other activity of the credit union, avoids conflicts of interests and is capable of operating independently of management and without undue influence over its activities;
- has unrestricted and timely access to records, personnel and physical property of the credit union;
- is free to report its findings and assessment through clear reporting lines to the board of directors (or audit committee where one exists) and has access to the board of directors (or audit committee where one exists); and
- is not remunerated on the basis of the financial performance of the credit union but on its performance in carrying out its functions.

Notwithstanding the above, the internal audit function may report to the manager/management team as appropriate, for example in relation to administrative issues such as human resource administration.

2.7 Internal audit reporting

The report to be provided by the internal audit function to the board of directors (or audit committee where one exists) should provide objective assurance to the board of directors (or audit committee where one exists) on the effectiveness of the credit union's risk management, internal control and governance processes and should be accurate, objective, clear, concise, constructive, complete and timely. The report should cover the following at a minimum:

- the internal audit objectives, scope and work undertaken;

- an overall opinion on the effectiveness of the credit union's risk management, internal controls and governance processes;
- internal audit findings including any weaknesses identified and the causes of such weaknesses;
- recommendations, ranked by priority, to address identified weaknesses;
- proposed action plans, including timelines, to implement recommendations; and
- an update on the implementation of action plans previously agreed by the board of directors (or audit committee where one exists) including the status of open items.

The board of directors (or audit committee where one exists) should consider and review internal audit reports, ensure due consideration is given to recommendations of the internal audit function and ensure that there is appropriate follow-up on all weaknesses identified.

The internal audit function should establish and maintain a system to monitor the implementation of actions agreed by the board of directors (or audit committee where one exists) which should include a follow-up process to ensure that agreed actions have been effectively implemented.

Where a significant issue is identified in the course of the work of the internal audit function, this should be brought to the attention of the board of directors (or audit committee where one exists) immediately. The board of directors should ensure that any issue identified is addressed in a timely manner.

2.8 Review by the board of directors

The board of directors should give consideration to the requirements and guidance contained in this Chapter when reviewing the performance of the internal audit function.

As part of the review, the board of directors should ensure the internal audit charter and the internal audit plan are updated to reflect any material changes to the following at a minimum:

- the risk management system;
- systems and controls;
- governance arrangements;
- legal and regulatory requirements and guidance; and
- the credit union's strategic plan. This should include any proposals in relation to new products and services, material modifications to existing products and services, outsourcing to service providers and major management initiatives, such as transfers of engagements or amalgamations.

1. Legislation

Section 43- Investments*

- (1) A credit union shall manage its investments to ensure that those investments do not (taking account of the nature, scale, complexity and risk profile of the credit union) involve undue risk to members' savings and, for that purpose, before making an investment a credit union shall assess the potential impact on the credit union, including the impact on the liquidity and financial position of the credit union.
- (2) A credit union may invest any of its funds, which are surplus to its operating requirements and are not immediately required for the purposes of the credit union, in any one or more of the following:
 - (a) the shares of, or deposits with (other than deposits to which subsection (6) relates) or loans to, another credit union as the Bank may prescribe;
 - (b) the shares of a society registered under the Industrial and Provident Societies Acts 1893 to 1978 as the Bank may prescribe;
 - (c) such other investments as may be prescribed for that purpose by the Bank under subsection (3).
- (3) For the purposes of subsection (2)(c) the Bank may prescribe investments in which a credit union may invest its funds. In prescribing matters for the purposes of subsection (2) and having regard to the need to avoid undue risk to members' savings, the Bank may also prescribe other matters in relation to prescribed investments, including any of the following:
 - (a) the classes of investments, including, where appropriate, any investment project of a public nature the credit union may invest in;
 - (b) the quality of investments and quality of counterparties that the credit union may invest in;
 - (c) the maximum, including percentage, amount (by reference to a credit union's surplus funds to which subsection (2) relates or otherwise) of a class of investments that may be invested in;
 - (d) the term to maturity of a class of investments;

- (e) the currency of a class of investments;
 - (f) limits for investment, whether by reference to maturity, currency, counterparty, sector, instrument or otherwise;
 - (g) any other matters that the Bank may consider necessary in the circumstances.
- (4) The Bank may prescribe matters for the purposes of any distribution policy to be applied by a credit union in respect of investment income.
- (5) In prescribing matters for the purposes of this section, the Bank shall have regard to the need to ensure that the requirements imposed by the regulations made by it are effective and proportionate having regard to the nature, scale and complexity of credit unions, or the category or categories of credit unions, to which the regulations will apply.
- (6) In so far as any funds of a credit union that are surplus to its operating requirements—
- (a) are not immediately required for the purposes of the credit union,
 - (b) are not invested in accordance with subsection (2), or
 - (c) are not kept in cash in the custody of officers of the credit union,
- those funds shall be kept by the credit union on current account with a credit institution.
- (7) Where any funds of a credit union are on current account with, or on loan to, an institution which ceases to be a credit institution, the credit union shall take all practicable steps to call in and realise the loan within the period of 3 months from the time when the institution so ceased or, if that is not possible, as soon after the end of that period as possible.

Section 44 – Special fund for social, cultural etc. purposes

- (1) By a resolution passed by a majority of its members present and voting at a general meeting, a credit union may establish a special fund to be used by the credit union for such social, cultural or charitable purposes (including community development) as have been approved, either generally or specifically, by a similar resolution; and any such special fund shall be maintained separately from the rest of the credit union's finances.
- (2) Subject to subsection (4), moneys may be paid into a special fund established by a credit union under this section only out of the annual operating surplus of the credit union; and no moneys may be so paid unless the directors are satisfied—
 - (a) that adequate provision has been made out of the surplus in question to cover all current and contingent liabilities and to maintain proper reserves; and
 - (b) that the payment of the moneys into the special fund will not affect the financial stability of the credit union.
- (3) Subject to subsection (5), the amount of moneys which may be paid as mentioned in subsection (2) out of the annual operating surplus of any year shall not exceed 0.5 per cent. of the value of the credit union's assets as shown in the accounts for the most recent financial year ending before the date of the payment.
- (4) ‡ In respect of the financial year in which the special fund is established, there may be paid into the special fund (in addition to any amount paid as mentioned in subsection (2)) an amount not exceeding 2.5 per cent. of the accumulated reserves of the credit union, excluding the requirement for the reserves required to be held under section 45.
- (5) If, by a resolution passed by not less than two-thirds of the members of the credit union present and voting at a general meeting called for the purpose, a credit union resolves to increase the percentage applicable to it under subsection (3) to a percentage to which the Bank has consented in writing, that subsection shall have effect accordingly.

investment gain to a reserve set aside to provide for dividends, unless the investment income or investment gain falls within the following:

- (a) investment income or an investment gain received by the credit union at the balance sheet date;
- (b) investment income that will be received by the credit union within 12 months of the balance sheet date.

Investment Practices – Concentration Risk

32. A credit union shall establish and maintain a written strategy having regard to section 43 of the Act to manage concentration risk which can result from dealing with a single counterparty or holding investments with similar characteristics like maturities and to ensure investments remain within the limits contained in these Regulations.

Transitional Arrangements

33. (1) Where, on 1 March 2018, a credit union has investments made in accordance with legislative requirements applicable at the time of the investment which do not comply with the requirements in this Part, the credit union shall (subject to paragraph (4)) –

- (a) take such actions as are necessary in relation to those investments in order to ensure compliance with this Part –
 - (i) as soon as possible without incurring a loss, and
 - (ii) in any event not later than 1 March 2020 or such later date as the Bank may permit;
- (b) only make an investment where the making of such an investment would not cause the credit union to either –
 - (i) fail to comply with any of the requirements in this Part, or
 - (ii) exacerbate a failure existing on 1 March 2018 to comply with any of the requirements in this Part.

(2) Where a credit union has made an investment of a class referred to in Regulation 25(1) (c) or (d), and where that investment –

- (a) does not comply with this Part as a result of the occurrence of the relevant event, and

(b) was in compliance with this Part immediately before the occurrence of the relevant event, the credit union shall comply with paragraph (3).

(3) Subject to paragraph (4), a credit union shall take such actions as are necessary in relation to the investments referred to in paragraph (2) in order to ensure compliance with this Part –

(a) (i) as soon as possible without incurring a loss, and
(ii) in any event not later than 2 years from the day on which the relevant event occurred or such later date as the Bank may permit;

(b) only make an investment where the making of such an investment would not cause the credit union to fail to comply with any of the requirements in this Part.

(4) Where an investment held by a credit union is a fixed term investment to which paragraph (1) or (2) applies, the credit union may hold that investment to maturity provided that it was made in accordance with legislative requirements applicable at the time of the investment.

(5) In this Regulation “relevant event” means when Title V of Directive 2013/36/EU of the European Parliament and of the Council of 26 June 2013⁴ (or other Union law concerning the freedom of establishment or the freedom to provide services with respect to banking) ceases to apply to a person with whom an investment is made as a direct consequence of the United Kingdom withdrawing from the European Union.

3. Guidance

3.1 Investment policy

The investment policy should cover the following at a minimum:

- objectives of the credit union's investment activities;
- organisational arrangements setting out the roles and responsibilities of officers involved in the credit union's investments;

⁴ Official Journal, L 176, 27/06/2013, p. 338–436.

InvestmentsPublication Date: September 2024

- the investment authorisation limits of those involved in investing, including the investment committee;
- the strategy to manage investments to ensure that those investments do not (taking account of the nature, scale, complexity and risk profile of the credit union) involve undue risk to members' savings. This should cover the following at a minimum:
 - the knowledge and expertise required to manage the credit union's investments;
 - the credit union's risk tolerance;
 - the characteristics of the investments the credit union may make including quality, counterparty and maturity;
 - how the credit union will manage market risk including specifically listing institutions, issuers and counterparties that may be used, or criteria for their selection, and limits on the amounts that may be invested with each;
- the process for assessing the potential impact on the credit union, including the impact on the liquidity and financial position of the credit union before making an investment;
- how potential conflicts in relation to investments will be managed in line with the policy on conflicts of interest as required under section 55(1)(o)(xvi) of the 1997 Act;
- procedures for monitoring the value and investment returns of investments;
- the accounting treatment adopted for the valuation of investments and income recognition;
- the approach to the distribution of income;
- the process for confirming compliance with the investment policy;
- how the credit union will handle an investment that, after purchase, falls outside the investment policy or a legal or regulatory requirement or guidance;
- the designating of depositories for the funds of the credit union and signatories to cheques, drafts or similar documents drawn on the credit union as required under section 55(1)(o)(vi) of the 1997 Act;
- reporting arrangements, including the frequency, form and content of reporting to the board of directors; and
- the process for the approval, review and update of the investment policy by the board of directors.

The written strategy required under Regulation 32 Investment Practices – Concentration Risk may be documented separately or may be contained in the investment policy.

Credit unions should ensure that any significant deviations from the investment policy, the reasons for these deviations and proposed action to address the deviations are communicated to the board of directors in accordance with the reporting arrangements set out in the investment policy.

3.2 Accounting for Investments

Guidance in relation to accounting for investments is provided in sections 3.3, 3.4 and 3.5 of the Chapter on "Accounts and Audit".

3.3 Assessing Investments

In ensuring that any investments they make do not involve undue risk to members' savings, credit unions should ensure that detailed analysis and careful consideration is undertaken before making an investment. Investments should be in line with the investment policy and risk appetite of the credit union and the rationale for investment decisions should be documented. Credit unions need to understand the risks of the investments they undertake.

Capital Protection

In relation to capital protection, when considering making an investment, credit unions should ensure that they understand the level of capital protection provided by the investment and that all potential risks to the repayment of capital are taken into account, including circumstances where repayment of capital may be dependent on events in institutions other than the issuing counterparty.

The definition of a bank bond set out in the Regulations refers to senior bonds traded on a regulated market where the capital amount invested is guaranteed by the issuer. Therefore credit unions can only invest in investment products structured as bank bonds where the capital amount invested is guaranteed by the issuer.

Investment Advisors

Where credit unions are dealing with an investment adviser, they need to ensure that the adviser has adequately explained why an investment is suitable for the credit union and that they understand the risk. Credit unions need to understand the risks of the investments they undertake - they cannot outsource that judgement to an external party such as an investment adviser. Credit unions are expected to have their own sound investment criteria and investment decision processes in place.

The Market in Financial Instruments Directive II (MiFID II) is effective since 3 January 2018. Enhancements introduced from MiFID I are aimed at strengthening investor protection and improving the functioning of financial markets by making them more efficient, resilient and transparent. Changes include enhancements to conflicts of interest provisions that an investor has when engaging with clients and the banning of commission for the provision of independent advice and portfolio management services. MiFID II imposes certain obligations on investment firms and credit institutions when providing investment services to their clients, including credit unions. MiFID II categorises the clients of investment firms and credit institutions into two categories, Retail Clients and Professional Clients. While credit unions are automatically categorised as Professional Clients under MiFID II, they may opt to be treated as Retail Clients. Credit unions should give careful consideration to whether they should opt to be treated as Retail Clients for MiFID II purposes, taking account of all of the implications of their chosen categorisation, including the higher duty of care owed to Retail Clients.

3.4 Definitions of “approved housing body” and “Tier 3 Approved Housing Body”

Since the changes to the investment regulations in March 2018, credit unions are permitted to invest in “regulated investment vehicles where the underlying investments of the regulated investment vehicle are investments in Tier 3 Approved Housing Bodies”. The 2016 Regulations define “approved housing body” and “Tier 3 Approved Housing Body”, as follows:

“approved housing body” means a housing body granted approval status under section 6 of the Housing (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act, 1992;

“Tier 3 Approved Housing Body” means a housing body granted approval status under section 6 of the Housing (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act, 1992 and classified as Tier 3 under the Voluntary Regulation Code for Approved Housing Bodies in Ireland;

There have been significant developments in the registration and regulation of AHBs in recent years. In February 2021, the Approved Housing Body Regulatory Authority (AHBRA) was established under the Housing (Regulation of Approved Housing Bodies) Act 2019 (the 2019 Act), with responsibility for, among other things, the registration and regulation of AHBs. AHBs no longer hold approval status under section 6 of the Housing (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act, 1992. From 1 January 2022, AHBRA is responsible for establishing and maintaining the register of AHBs and for registering organisations as AHBs. Pursuant to section 34 of the 2019 Act all organisations that had Approved Housing Body status and were listed on the register previously maintained by the Department of Housing, Local Government and Heritage were deemed to be registered with AHBRA and have a specific timeframe to make a formal application to become registered as an Approved Housing Body with AHBRA. In addition, the Voluntary Regulation Code for Approved Housing Bodies in Ireland (the Code), with which AHBs coming within the Tier 1, Tier 2 or Tier 3 classification criteria previously voluntarily complied, ceased as of 31 December 2021.

InvestmentsPublication Date: September 2024

Euro denominated investments in “regulated investment vehicles where the underlying investments of the regulated investment vehicle are investments in Tier 3 Approved Housing Bodies” continue to be a permitted class of credit union investment.

As AHBs are no longer housing bodies “granted approval status under section 6 of the Housing (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act, 1992”, for the period until the definitions of “approved housing body” and “Tier 3 Approved Housing Body” in the 2016 Regulations are amended, the references to approved housing body in the Regulations can be read as being a reference to the AHB being registered (or deemed registered) as an approved housing body with AHBRA under the 2019 Act. In addition, the reference in the definition of “Tier 3 Approved Housing Body” to an AHB being “classified as Tier 3 under the Voluntary Regulation Code for Approved Housing Bodies in Ireland” should be read consistent with how Tier 3 AHBs were classified under the Code, specifically:

- All AHBs with more than 300 units; or
- Tier 2 AHBs with sizable development plans or other AHBs with development plans in place to provide more units (taken to mean development plans to reach more than 300 units).⁵

⁵ The Code described Tier 3 AHBs as including “those larger bodies with more than 300 units and any Tier 2 organisations whose development plans are particularly sizable”. Tier 2 AHBs were classified under the Code as “AHBs with between 50 and 300 units and/or with development plans in place to provide more units”. The Code described Tier 2 AHBs as having “portfolios of between 50 - 300 units and/or have plans to develop new housing as part of their strategy in future in addition to the existing housing they manage. Tier 2 AHBs will also include those AHBs with less than 300 units that are applying for, or are in receipt of loans from the Housing Finance Agency, private finance or from other sources”.

1. Legislation

Section 35- Making of loans*

(1) (a) In this section 'large exposure', in relation to loans of a credit union to a borrower or a group of borrowers who are connected, means the total exposure (including contingent liabilities) of the credit union where the total exposure to such borrower or group of borrowers would be greater than an amount (whether expressed as a monetary amount or as a percentage of some monetary amount or determinable monetary amount) prescribed by the Bank.

(b) For the purposes of this subsection—

'control' has the meaning assigned to it by section 432 of the Taxes Consolidation Act 1997 and the other relevant provisions of Part 13 of that Act;

'group of borrowers who are connected' means 2 or more persons—

(i) who, unless it is shown otherwise, constitute a single risk because one of them, directly or indirectly, has control over the other person or persons (not being individuals); or

(ii) between whom there is no relationship of control as set out in subparagraph (i), but who are to be regarded as constituting a single risk because they are so interconnected that, if one of them were to experience financial problems, the other person or some or all of the other persons would be likely to encounter repayment difficulties.

(2) A credit union may-

(a) make a loan to a member of the credit union,

(b) enter into an agreement with one or more other credit unions in accordance with which the credit union agrees to participate in a loan to a member of one of those other credit unions (in this paragraph referred to as 'the originating lender') by the originating lender, or

(c) enter into an agreement between—

(i) the credit union and one or more other credit unions, and

(ii) one or more members of —

(I) the credit union, or

(II) one of those other credit unions,

3. Guidance

3.1 Lending policies

Credit unions are required to maintain written lending policies including the following:

- a credit policy;
- a credit control policy; and
- a provisioning policy.

A credit union's lending policies should be aligned to its risk appetite statement and its strategic goals, as set out in its Strategic Plan.

3.1.1 Credit policy

The credit policy should cover the following at a minimum:

- objectives of the policy;
- organisational arrangements setting out the roles and responsibilities of officers involved in lending including credit officers and the credit committee;
- the lending authorisation limits of the credit committee and credit officers including clear limits on the total funds available for the granting of loans;
- the classes of loans that the credit union may offer;
- the maximum repayment period appropriate to different classes of loans;
- the interest rates applicable to loans;
- the maximum number of top-up loans and additional loans that the credit union may provide to a member;
- processes on lending to related persons which shall:

- prevent members of staff of the credit union making a loan to a related party which would provide that party with more favourable terms than a loan by the credit union to non-related parties;
- prevent persons related to the borrower from being part of the process of granting and managing a loan to such a borrower;
- prevent members of staff of the credit union managing a loan to a related party on more favourable terms than a loan by the credit union to non-related parties;
- arrangements for the on-going reporting and monitoring of loans to related parties and for the review of the related party policies;
- arrangements for monthly written reports to the board of directors; and
- arrangements for annual internal audit assessment of compliance with related party lending requirements.
- circumstances in which loans with atypical repayment arrangements, for example, single or lump sum repayment loans, will be considered and particular approval conditions, including security conditions, attaching to such loans;
- policy regarding curtailment of loans to members in arrears;
- circumstances in which security (including guarantors) for loans must be obtained and the differing type and level of security required depending on the size and/or risk profile of the loan;
- the types of security which may be accepted for loans and the valuation method for each type of security;
- approach to categorisation of loans as “secured loan” and “unsecured loan” for the purpose of the maximum loan term limits set out in the Regulations;
- internal limits in respect of credit concentration and loan portfolio diversification including the maximum amount of personal loans, business loans, community loans, house loans and loans to other credit unions;
- the application, assessment and decision-making process for the approval of loans including the lending criteria to establish capacity to repay for all types of borrowers;
- exceptions reporting;
- policy regarding the determination of income of loan applicants;
- specific procedures for evaluating house loans, business loans, community loans and loans to other credit unions;
- procedures to prevent conflicts of interest and ensure segregation of duties between the approval and payment of loans;
- systems of control to ensure a credit union does not breach any limits including concentration limits, large exposure limits, maximum loan terms and loan-to-income and loan-to-value limits;
- procedures for retention of loan documentation, including loan application forms / credit agreements, security and ability to repay documentation;

- reporting arrangements, including the frequency, form and content of reporting by the credit committee to the board of directors;
- the process for the approval, review and update of the credit policy by the board of directors; and
- the factors to be taken into account in the review of the policy including:
 - the appropriateness of the prevailing interest rates on the various classes of loans depending on current or likely future economic conditions; and
 - the effect of any interest rate increase on borrowers' ability to meet their repayment obligations.

3.1.2 Credit control policy

The credit control policy should cover the following at a minimum:

- objectives of the policy;
- organisational arrangements setting out the roles and responsibilities of officers involved in credit control including the credit control committee and credit control officers;
- procedures for the recording and monitoring of loans;
- processes in relation to arrears management and rescheduling;
- the standard time after which the credit control procedure is to be first activated in respect of loans in arrears;
- description of the various stages of the credit control procedure from first contact with members in arrears to the legal recovery process and / or enforcement of security;
- the criteria and procedure, including approval procedure and authorisation required, for rescheduling of loans and for transferring members share balances against loan arrears;

- reporting arrangements, including the frequency, form and content of reporting by the credit control committee to the board of directors; and
- the process for the approval, review and update of the credit control policy by the board of directors.

3.1.3 Provisioning policy

For guidance on provisioning, please see section 3 of the Provisioning Guidelines for Credit Unions located in Chapter 13A of the Credit Union Handbook.

3.2 Business loans

The Regulations prescribe business loans as a category of lending that credit unions are permitted to provide. A credit union should only engage in lending within the business loan category of lending where it is consistent with its Strategic Plan. In December 2017, the Central Bank issued “Long Term Lending – Guidance for Credit Unions”. This document sets out the Central Bank’s guidance, including its expectations, which credit union boards seeking to develop their business models are expected to consider and address in assessing long term lending products and services. From a credit union perspective, long term lending typically includes business and house loans, as well as some personal loans.

The Regulations set out a definition of “business loan” and specific requirements in relation to business loans, including a combined concentration limit for house loan and business loan lending, expressed as a percentage of the assets of the credit union.

Where a credit union is considering granting a business loan for €25,000 or more, a comprehensive business plan and detailed financial projections appropriate for the scale and complexity of the loan, must have been provided to the credit union before it grants the relevant loan. The business plan and financial projections should both be supported by evidence-based assumptions. For these higher value business loans, this practice should enable the credit union to ensure that it is satisfied the borrowing business has the capacity to generate sufficient income to repay the loan.

A comprehensive business plan should include the following at a minimum:

- an executive summary;
- a description of the business;
- market analysis;
- current sector/market position;
- staffing and operations; and
- financial projections including;
 - key assumptions;
 - profit and loss accounts;
 - balance sheets; and
 - cashflow projections for 3 years.

The Central Bank’s expectation is that credit unions obtain more comprehensive business plans and detailed financial projections from members for more complex and larger scale business loans. Credit unions are expected to exercise their judgement on the level of information they require from members in order to enable the credit union to adequately assess the business loan application in question.

3.2.1 Definition of "approved housing body"

The definition of "business loan" specifically includes a loan other than a community loan, that is made to a member of the credit union that is an approved housing body.

The 2016 Regulations define an "approved housing body" as a housing body granted approval status under section 6 of the Housing (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act, 1992. However, there have been significant developments in the registration and regulation of Approved Housing Bodies (AHBs) in recent years. In February 2021, the Approved Housing Body Regulatory Authority (AHBRA) was established under the Housing (Regulation of Approved Housing Bodies) Act 2019 (the 2019 Act), with responsibility for, among other things, the registration and regulation of AHBs. AHBs no longer hold approval status under section 6 of the Housing (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act, 1992. From 1 January 2022, AHBRA is responsible for establishing and maintaining the register of AHBs and for registering organisations as AHBs. Pursuant to section 34 of the 2019 Act all organisations that had Approved Housing Body status and were listed on the register previously maintained by the Department of Housing, Local Government and Heritage were deemed to be registered with AHBRA and have a specific timeframe to make a formal application to become registered as an Approved Housing Body with AHBRA.

As AHBs are no longer housing bodies "granted approval status under section 6 of the Housing (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act, 1992", for the period until the definition of "approved housing body" in the 2016 Regulations is amended, the references to approved housing body in the Regulations can be read as being a reference to the AHB being registered (or deemed registered) as an approved housing body with AHBRA under the 2019 Act.

3.3 House loans

The Regulations also identify house loans as a category of lending that credit unions may engage in and provide a definition of "house loan" for this purpose. The Regulations set out specific requirements for house loans, including a combined concentration limit for house loan and business loan lending, expressed as a percentage of the assets of the credit union.

A credit union should only engage in lending within the house loan category of lending where it is consistent with its Strategic Plan. For some credit unions, this may mean that they offer a range of house loans, e.g. to purchase, construct or improve a principal private residence. Others may decide not to offer house loans within their product offering or decide to provide a narrower range of house loans, e.g. to improve a principal private residence (loans for home improvements are discussed further below at 3.6.5).

Holiday homes and buy to let loans do not come within any of the permitted categories of lending that credit unions may undertake under the Regulations. As set out above, the definition of “business loan” specifically includes a loan made to a member of the credit union that is an approved housing body. Lending by credit unions to approved housing bodies is therefore not impacted by the general prohibition on buy to let lending.

Where a credit union provides a house loan, this loan falls within the definition of a “housing loan” as set out in the Central Bank \(Supervision and Enforcement\) Act 2013 \(Section 48\(1\)\) \(Housing Loan Requirements\) Regulations 2022 (the “Mortgage Measures”). Credit unions must also comply with the requirements set out in the Mortgage Measures. Credit unions should ensure that requirements set out in the Mortgage Measures are reflected in their credit policy, including a policy on how the credit union determines the income of loan applicants for the purpose of complying with the loan to income requirements of the Mortgage Measures.

Further information on the Mortgage Measures can be found on the Macroprudential Policy section of the Central Bank’s website available at this link.

3.4 Single or lump sum repayment loans

Single or lump sum repayment loans are those loans for which repayment takes the form of a single payment or where the repayment schedule is less frequent than on a monthly basis. The financial impact of default associated with these loans can be significant.

Lump sum repayment loans should only be granted in line with prudent approval criteria laid down in the credit policy.

3.5 Interest rates on higher risk loans

When considering the interest rates to be applied to different classes of loans, the board of directors should take account of the level of risk involved in such loans, subject to the limit on loan interest rates specified by order by the Minister for Finance under section 38 of the 1997 Act.

3.6 Security for loans

3.6.1 Security for loans

Security is an important component of lending and may protect the credit union from a loss in the event of loan default. Where security is taken, the credit union should require sufficient security to protect against the associated risk and to ensure that loans are in line with the credit union’s risk appetite.

The 1997 Act provides that a credit union can make a loan to a member for such purpose as the credit union considers appropriate, upon such security and terms as the rules of the credit union may provide. The same section clarifies that the ability of the loan applicant to repay must be the primary consideration in the underwriting process of the credit union. While security is therefore a key consideration for a credit decision, the credit union should make credit decisions based on the ability of the loan applicant to repay.

Many credit unions typically take security over members' savings. In such cases, credit unions should take the necessary steps to clarify the legal status of any assignment of savings/shares as security against loans granted by them.

The level of security required in respect of individual loans should reflect the borrower's ability to repay, the size and risk profile of the proposed loan, the quality of the security being pledged (including the enforceability of the security) and the credit union's obligations to protect members savings under sections 27A and 35 of the 1997 Act. Approved types of security and the circumstances in which security should be taken, should be clearly set out in the credit policy and reflect the fact that different types of security will provide different levels of protection to the credit union. In all cases, the term of a loan should reflect the loan purpose. Where security is being taken for a loan, the credit union should also consider the anticipated useful life of the secured asset/s which is determined by the type and expected use of the assets in question, e.g., there is limited protection in a credit union taking security over an asset with a relatively short useful life compared to the term of the loan.

3.6.2 Security for large or complex loans

Professional legal advice should be obtained when taking security for large or complex loans, e.g. bridging loans, business loans, house loans, property-related loans coming within the categories of lending permitted under the Regulations, to ensure that legal title is properly perfected and enforceable in the event of default. Security documentation should be securely and efficiently maintained.

3.6.3 Secured and unsecured loans

The Regulations prescribe a maximum loan term of 10 years for unsecured loans. For secured loans, the maximum loan term is 35 years.

For the purpose of the maximum loan term limits set out in the Regulations, the Regulations include definitions for 'secured loan' and 'unsecured loan'. A 'secured loan' includes 'a loan that is secured by a mortgage, charge, assignment, pledge, lien, or other encumbrance in or over any asset or property, but shall not include unsecured guarantees by third parties'. An 'unsecured loan' means a loan that is not a secured loan.

In determining whether a loan should be considered a 'secured loan' or 'unsecured loan' for the purpose of the maximum loan term limits under the Regulations, in the first instance, this determination should be made in accordance with a reasoned and prudentially justified approach, as documented in the credit union's credit policy. The credit union should take into account the underlying quality and value of the security being pledged. A credit union should only consider a loan to be secured where it is secured by a readily-realizable asset for which market value is ascertainable and verifiable. In the context of credit union lending, such assets could, for example, include shares or deposits in the credit union or immovable property such as a house or business premises.

On the level of the security, in order to comply with the maximum loan term limits set out in the Regulations, a credit union will not necessarily be required to have security in place in respect of the full amount provided under a loan in order for it to be considered a 'secured loan'. There may be circumstances where the Central Bank would expect the credit union to take a high level of security for a loan in order for it to come within the meaning of a 'secured loan', e.g. where the loan involves a higher degree of risk.

3.6.4 Security for house loans

Under the Regulations, a first legal charge is required on the property in respect of which a house loan is to be provided, except where the loan is to improve or renovate the member's principal residence (or a loan provided for the purpose of refinancing such a loan) – see 3.6.5 below for more information on home improvement loans. In line with the practice of other mortgage lenders, credit unions should require not only a first legal charge over the property, but also require the borrower to have mortgage protection insurance in place, with the policy assigned to the credit union, as well as buildings insurance for the full re-instatement value of the property with the credit union's interest noted on the policy.

3.6.5 Home improvement loans

Under the Regulations, where a credit union is providing home improvement loans these may be provided as either-

- A house loan, where the loan is secured over the property (but not necessarily by way of a first legal charge); or
- A personal loan, where the loan is not secured over the property, i.e. an unsecured personal loan or a secured personal loan where the loan is secured over other assets, e.g. the member's shares in the credit union.

As set out in 3.6.4, where a home improvement loan is provided as a house loan, the credit union is not required to hold the first legal charge on the property. In practice, where a house loan is provided for the purpose of home improvements, the credit union may accept a second or subsequent legal charge over the property. Credit unions should of course take into account the underlying quality and value of the security in accordance with their credit policy.

Where a home improvement loan is provided as a personal loan for a term of 10 years or less, there is no requirement to hold security for the loan. Where the term exceeds 10 years, the loan must be a secured loan.

3.6.6 Attached shares

While a member may have savings up to (or in excess) of the loan they have applied for, it is important to note that a member's savings are not attached to a member's loan unless the savings are attached or pledged as part of the credit agreement with the member at the time of issuing of the loan.

Under section 32(3)(a) of the 1997 Act, a member can withdraw any savings that are not attached to a loan and any attached savings, if the withdrawal of such attached savings is approved by the credit committee or a credit officer.

3.6.7 Guarantors

Prior to approving a loan application, the credit committee or credit officer should take appropriate steps to satisfy themselves that potential guarantors are of sufficient standing and have the financial capacity to repay a loan in the event that the guarantee is called upon.

At the time of signing any loan guarantee documents, guarantors should be made aware of the implications of providing a guarantee for a loan. Lending limits in relation to a group of borrowers who are connected may have an impact on the guarantor's ability to apply for credit in their own name. Unless savings are pledged by the guarantor under a specific legal assignment, the normal procedures regarding access to a guarantor's own savings should apply. As set out above, the credit union should take the necessary steps to clarify the legal status of any assignment of savings/shares as security against loans granted by them.

Where a credit union is seeking a guarantee for a business loan, it should have regard to the specific requirements it must comply with in this regard under the Central Bank (Supervision and Enforcement) Act 2013 (Section 48) (Lending to Small and Medium-Sized Enterprises) Regulations 2015 (the SME Lending Regulations). A general overview of the SME Lending Regulations is included in this guide published on the Central Bank's website.

3.6.8 Valuation of immovable property

In 2012, the Central Bank issued "Valuation Processes in the Banking Crisis – Lessons Learned – Guiding the Future" in order to provide guidance to credit institutions on valuation standards for commercial property and to set out best practice in relation to the timing and frequency of valuations of immovable property collateral. Given the legal and supervisory requirements applying to banks for the valuation of immovable property collateral had been revised considerably, the Central Bank withdrew its guidance in August 2019. In the Central Bank's notification to banks of the withdrawal, it suggested that they should ensure their collateral management practices are in line with all relevant and applicable regulations but also that consideration should continue to be given to ensuring a number of "lessons learned". A copy of the Central Bank's notification is available here. Credit unions should have regard to the lessons learned in drawing up their credit policies and collateral management practices.

3.7 Credit assessment

A credit union is required to ensure that the ability of the loan applicant to repay is the primary consideration in the underwriting process of the credit union. All applications for credit should be appropriately assessed to ensure that the applicant's financial position, including commitments to other financial institutions, is fully disclosed.

As referenced in 3.6.1 above, while security is a key consideration for a credit decision, the credit union should make credit decisions based on the ability of the loan applicant to repay. Specifically in relation to attached savings, while attached savings may be a factor in assessing the ability of a loan applicant to repay a loan, it is appropriate that a broader creditworthiness assessment is undertaken. This needs to be supported by evidence, which could include previous repayment history on loans.

An important factor in determining creditworthiness is whether a member is already in difficulty in repaying an existing debt. Therefore when assessing applications for new loans and/or for topping up existing loan facilities, the Central Bank expects that a credit union be fully satisfied as to a member's creditworthiness and ability to service all debts before advancing any new credit or top up credit facilities, especially where the borrower is in arrears on their mortgage or is in a non-permanent forbearance, i.e. forbearance other than capitalisation of arrears, split mortgage or term extension of the mortgage.

The European Communities (Consumer Credit Agreements) Regulations 2010 (S.I. No 281 of 2010) were transposed into Irish law on 11 June 2010. These regulations give effect to the provisions of Directive 2008/48/EC on Credit Agreements for Consumers (the "CCD") and the scope includes credit agreements where the loan amounts are between €200 and €75,000.

Specifically, Part 2, Regulation 11 of these regulations titled “Part 2 Information and practices preliminary to conclusion of credit agreements. Obligation to assess creditworthiness of consumers” states:

- (1) Before concluding a credit agreement with a consumer, a creditor shall assess the consumer’s creditworthiness on the basis of sufficient information, where appropriate obtained from the consumer and, where necessary, on the basis of a consultation of the relevant database.
- (2) If a creditor and a consumer agree to change the total amount of credit after a credit agreement is concluded, the creditor—
 - a. Shall update the financial information at the creditor’s disposal concerning the consumer, and
 - b. Shall assess the consumer’s creditworthiness before agreeing to any significant increase in the total amount of credit.
- (3) A creditor or credit intermediary that contravenes a provision of this Regulation commits an offence.

Credit unions must consult the Central Credit Register, in accordance with the Credit Reporting Act 2013, where the amount of the loan is €2,000 or more. More generally, in assessing a borrower’s creditworthiness, the Central Bank expects credit unions to:

- (a) Apply prudent lending standards to the granting of all new loans or top-ups of existing loans;
- (b) Have systems in place to ensure that loan applications are fully assessed to confirm the borrower’s ability to repay the loan. In this regard, credit unions must satisfy themselves that they are fully apprised of the borrower’s financial position before granting a loan.

The borrower should be required to provide supporting documentation required to assess creditworthiness (e.g. proof of income, current account and credit card statements, as appropriate).

The Central Bank expects that all additional credit applications will be supported by adequate evidence to illustrate that appropriate credit assessment has taken place and that such evidence will be retained on file and be available to the Central Bank in the event of an inspection.

3.7.1 Creditworthiness assessments for business loans

When assessing applications for business loans, credit unions are reminded that they must comply with the SME Lending Regulations.

3.7.2 Stress tests for house loans

In the context of prudent lending standards and creditworthiness assessments for house loans, the Central Bank expects credit unions, prior to offering, recommending, arranging or providing a house loan, to carry out an assessment of affordability to ascertain the ability of the loan applicant to repay the loan over the duration of the agreement. Such an assessment should include consideration of the results of a stress test on a loan applicant's ability to repay the instalments, over the duration of the agreement, on the basis of a 2% interest rate increase, at a minimum, above the interest rate offered to the borrower. This test is not relevant to house loans where the interest rate is fixed for a period of five years or more. In addition, credit unions should have regard to the maximum interest rate they may charge on loans as specified by order by the Minister for Finance under section 38 of the 1997 Act.

3.8 Credit committee and credit control committee

The credit and credit control committees should meet as often as necessary to carry out their functions, to comply with any instruction of the board of directors and to submit written reports on their activities to the board of directors at each meeting of the board.

The written reports submitted by each committee to the board of directors should contain sufficient financial and other information to enable the board to assess compliance with legal and regulatory requirements and guidance and the credit union's written policies so as to ensure proper oversight of the credit and credit control functions.

Those credit unions that do not currently have a credit officer and a credit control officer should actively consider making such appointments or put in place other arrangements to assist the respective committees in the proper discharge of their functions.

It is important to note that, while the board of directors can delegate authority for certain credit and credit control functions, it cannot delegate responsibility or accountability in relation to these functions.

3.9 Lending concentration limits

3.9.1 Combined concentration limits for house and business loans

The table below sets out the 3 combined concentration limits for house and business lending, the qualifying criteria a credit union must meet in order to avail of the limits and the features of the limits.

Limit as % of assets	Available to:	Features
7.5% limit	All credit unions.	A combined concentration limit for house and business lending available to all credit unions, calculated as a percentage of total assets. Entire limit may be utilised by the credit union for house lending. Up to a maximum of 5% of total assets may be in business loans.
10% limit	Credit unions meeting objective asset size criteria (minimum total asset size of €50 million) and holding regulatory reserves of 12.5% or greater.	A conditional combined concentration limit for house and business lending, calculated as a percentage of total assets. Credit union must notify the Central Bank at least one month in advance. Entire limit may be utilised by the credit union for house lending. Up to a maximum of 5% of total assets may be in business loans.
15% limit	Credit unions with assets of at least €100 million.	An increased combined concentration limit for house and business lending, calculated as a percentage of total assets. Subject to an application and approval process. The entire limit may be utilised by the credit union for either house or business lending, subject to any conditions attaching to a Central Bank approval.

In calculating whether a proposed house or business loan would cause the combined total gross amount outstanding in relation to house loans and business loans of the credit union to exceed 7.5 per cent, 10 per cent or 15 per cent of the assets of the credit union, a credit union should take account of all outstanding house and business loans (gross of attached shares) and the proposed house or business loan. Similarly, for the inner 5 per cent limit for business loans that applies to the 7.5 per cent and 10 per cent limits, a credit union should take account of all outstanding business loans (gross of attached shares) and the proposed business loan.

3.9.2 Combined 10 per cent limit for house and business loans

Qualifying credit unions are eligible to avail of a higher combined concentration limit for house and business loans of 10 per cent of total assets. As with the combined 7.5 per cent limit, within the 10 per cent limit, no more than 5 per cent of total assets may be in business loans.

In order to avail of the 10 per cent limit, a credit union must, for two or more consecutive quarters immediately prior to making a notification to the Central Bank, maintain minimum total assets of at least €50m and a regulatory reserve of at least 12.5 per cent. For the purpose of the 12.5 per cent regulatory reserve criterion, this does not include any operational risk reserve or other reserves held by the credit union. For the purpose of both the size and reserves criteria, the credit union may rely upon the two quarterly Prudential Returns it submitted to the Central Bank immediately before making the notification.² It is the credit union's ongoing responsibility to satisfy itself that it continues to meet the relevant criteria.

3.9.3 Notification to avail of the 10 per cent limit

On the required notification, the credit union must notify the Central Bank at least one month before availing of any additional lending capacity the 10 per cent limit would provide.

Information on submitting a notification to the Central Bank to avail of the 10 per cent limit is available in the Frequently Asked Questions document on the Implementation of the Credit Union Act 1997 (Regulatory Requirements) (Amendment) Regulations 2019 for Credit Unions on the Central Bank website.

3.9.4 Notification that the credit union no longer meets the qualifying criteria for the 10 per cent limit

A credit union that no longer meets the criteria to avail of the 10 per cent limit must notify the Central Bank in writing without delay and, except for any new house or business loan in respect of which the credit union has already entered into a legally binding agreement with a member, immediately stop making any new house or business loans above the 7.5 per cent limit. For the purpose of the requirements to notify the Central Bank and stop making new house and business loans, the Central Bank will consider that a credit union no longer complies with the criteria where it does not meet the criteria for two consecutive quarters in accordance with the information submitted in its Prudential Return.³

Information on submitting a notification to the Central Bank that the credit union no longer satisfies the qualifying criteria to avail of the 10 per cent limit is available in the Frequently Asked Questions document on the Implementation of the Credit Union Act 1997 (Regulatory Requirements) (Amendment) Regulations 2019 for Credit Unions on the Central Bank website.

² Provided that the credit union has submitted its quarterly Prudential Returns to the Central Bank and that the information submitted is correct.

³ Provided that the credit union has submitted its quarterly Prudential Returns to the Central Bank and that the information is correct.

A credit union that has notified the Central Bank that it no longer satisfies the criteria to avail of the 10 per cent limit will be required to notify the Central Bank where it subsequently satisfies the criteria and intends to provide additional loans within the 10 per cent limit.

3.9.5 Combined 15 per cent limit for house and business loans

Credit unions with total assets of at least €100m for two or more consecutive quarters (immediately prior to making an application for approval) are eligible to apply to the Central Bank to avail of a combined concentration limit for house and business loans of 15 per cent of the credit union's total assets. In order to avail of the 15 per cent limit, a credit union must make an application to the Central Bank. The Central Bank will assess any application received and will grant approval to the credit union where it is satisfied that the credit union has demonstrated that the approval would be consistent with the adequate protection of the savings of the members of that credit union and effective and proportionate, having regard to the nature, scale and complexity of the credit union.

Information on submitting an application to the Central Bank to avail of the 15 per cent limit is available in the Frequently Asked Questions document on the Implementation of the Credit Union Act 1997 (Regulatory Requirements) (Amendment) Regulations 2019 for Credit Unions on the Central Bank website.

A credit union that no longer meets the €100m total assets criterion to apply for the increased 15 per cent limit or fails to meet the Central Bank's conditions of approval will no longer be entitled to avail of the limit. Such a credit union must notify the Central Bank in writing without delay. In addition, except for any house or business loan in respect of which the credit union has already entered into a legally binding agreement with a member, the credit union must immediately stop making any new house or business loans above the 7.5 per cent limit, or the 10 per cent limit where the credit unions meets the relevant qualifying criteria for the 10 per cent limit.

3.9.6 Notification that the credit union no longer meets the qualifying criterion to apply for the 15 per cent limit or the conditions of its approval

It is the credit union's ongoing responsibility to satisfy itself that it continues to meet the asset size criterion to apply for the 15 per cent limit and any conditions of approval imposed on it by the Central Bank. For the purpose of the requirements to notify the Central Bank and stop making new house and business loans, the Central Bank will consider that a credit union no longer complies with the asset size criterion to apply for the 15 per cent limit where it does not meet it for two consecutive quarters. The credit union may rely on the information it has submitted in its quarterly Prudential Returns to determine its asset size for the relevant quarter.⁴

Information on submitting a notification to the Central Bank where the credit union no longer meets the criterion to avail of the increased 15% limit or where it is no longer in adherence with conditions of approval is available in the Frequently Asked Questions document on the Implementation of the Credit Union Act 1997 (Regulatory Requirements) (Amendment) Regulations 2019 for Credit Unions on the Central Bank website.

3.9.7 Monitoring compliance with concentration limits

Credit unions should ensure they have the appropriate processes, procedures, systems, controls and reporting arrangements in place to monitor compliance with the lending concentration limits in place under the Regulations, including the types of loans that a credit union may provide, the concentration limits, the large exposures limit and maximum loan maturity.

3.10 Related party lending

The objective of the requirements for related party lending set out in the Regulations is to ensure that related parties do not receive more favourable treatment than other credit union members and that there is appropriate oversight of such loans. The Regulations contain an explicit requirement that related parties do not receive more favourable treatment than non-related parties.

Credit unions should have processes in place to ensure that they can comply with requirements relating to related party lending. Section 3.1.1 of this guidance sets out a number of the areas that these processes should cover. Regulation 21 of the Regulations requires that each credit union record, monitor and report data on related party lending.

The Central Bank does not supervise compliance with data protection law; in Ireland, this is the role of the Data Protection Commission. A credit union is the controller of the personal data of its members, officers and staff and each credit union must ensure that all personal data is processed in accordance with data protection law. The processing of personal data on related party lending by a credit union for the purposes of compliance with the Regulations has a lawful basis for the purposes of data protection law by virtue of Article 6 of the General Data Protection Regulation (the GDPR) as it is necessary for compliance with a legal obligation to which the controller is subject, i.e. the Credit Union Act, 1997 and the Regulations. When processing personal data, credit unions must comply with ⁴ Provided that the credit union has submitted its quarterly Prudential Returns to the Central Bank and that the information submitted is correct.

(among other things) the principles relating to processing of personal data set out in Article 5 of the GDPR. This includes the obligations imposed by:

- Article 5(1)(b) which states that personal data shall be 'collected for specified, explicit and legitimate purposes and not further processed in a manner that is incompatible with those purposes ... ('purpose limitation')';
- Article 5(1)(c) which states that personal data shall be 'adequate, relevant and limited to what is necessary in relation to the purposes for which they are processed ('data minimisation')'; and
- Article 5(1)(f) which requires that personal data is 'processed in a manner that ensures appropriate security of the personal data, including protection against unauthorised or unlawful processing and against accidental loss, destruction or damage, using appropriate technical or organisational measures ('integrity and confidentiality')'.

These obligations may mean that a credit union has to limit internal access to certain data on related party lending. Guidance on the requirements of data protection law is available on the website of the Data Protection Commission.

3.11 Large exposures

The Regulations set a maximum large exposure limit in respect of the total permitted exposure to a borrower or a group of borrowers who are connected. The Regulations do not define an individual large exposure. Guidance is provided on these in Section 3.11.2 below. The Central Bank considers it important that credit unions assess their exposures and diversify their exposures appropriately. This will reduce the risk of credit unions incurring large losses as a result of the failure of an individual borrower or group of connected borrowers due to the occurrence of unforeseen events. This risk can be mitigated by avoiding the concentration of exposure to an individual borrower or a group of connected borrowers.

3.11.1 Connected borrowers

The Regulations contain requirements in relation to credit unions identifying groups of borrowers who are connected. A group of borrowers who are connected refers to credit union borrowers who are connected to other credit union borrowers and not to "related parties" who are borrowers that have a relationship or connection to the credit union or its officers (see 3.10 for information on related party lending).

The purpose of identifying groups of borrowers who are connected is to identify if it is likely that the financial problems of one borrower would cause difficulties for other borrowers in terms of full and timely repayment of a loan and as such whether those borrowers present a single or common risk to the credit union. Single or common risk will generally occur where the credit union considers there is material financial interdependence between borrowers (such economic dependence may be mutual or one way). In practice, the Central Bank expects that connected borrowers would be identified during the standard underwriting process for a loan. The following is a non-exhaustive list of examples of potential connected borrowers. It is a matter for each credit union to determine, taking account of all of the individual circumstances, if such borrowers are connected:

- A group of borrowers who are borrowing for a common purpose and who are dependent on a single income source to repay their individual loans;
- The borrower and his/her spouse/partner if by contractual arrangements both are liable and the loan is significant for both – in terms of potential impact on the ability of the spouse/partner to repay (it should be noted all spouses/partners would not automatically be presumed to be connected borrowers); or
- A borrower and guarantor, where the guarantee is so substantial for the guarantor that his/her ability to service their other liabilities with the credit union will be affected if the guarantee is claimed by the credit union.

It is important that a credit union identifies groups of borrowers who are connected to enable the credit union to monitor concentration risks in its loan portfolios. Each credit union needs to determine its exposure to groups of borrowers who are connected based on all the information available to the credit union, including (but not limited to) information provided by members in support of their loan application and any information provided in response to specific questions from the credit union to the borrower to enable it to identify groups of borrowers who are connected. Whether or not borrowers constitute a group of borrowers who are connected is a matter to be determined by the credit union in each case. The assessment undertaken by the credit union to determine whether or not borrowers constitute a group of borrowers who are connected should be documented in writing.

Establishing whether borrowers are connected will involve the necessary processing of personal data in the normal course of credit union business and a credit union should ensure that there is no illegal disclosure of personal data. A credit union is the controller of the personal data of its members, officers and staff and each credit union must ensure that this data is processed in accordance with data protection law.

3.11.2 Limits on large exposures

The Central Bank considers it appropriate that a credit union should consider any exposure greater than 2.5% of the regulatory reserve to be an individual large exposure.

The relationship between the large exposure limit (as defined in the Regulations) and an individual large exposure is best illustrated by way of example -

In a credit union with total assets of €50 million and regulatory reserves of €5 million (10% Regulatory Reserve Ratio):

- The maximum large exposure to a borrower or group of connected borrowers permitted under the Regulations would be €0.5 million (maximum of 10% of regulatory reserves or €39,000, whichever is the greater); and
- An individual large exposure would be defined as €0.125 million (2.5% of regulatory reserves).

In a credit union with total assets of €3 million and regulatory reserves of €300,000 (10% regulatory reserve ratio):

- The maximum large exposure to a borrower or group of connected borrowers permitted under the Regulations would be €39,000 (maximum of 10% of regulatory reserves or €39,000, whichever is the greater); and
- An individual large exposure would be defined as €7,500 (2.5% of Regulatory Reserves).

3.11.3 Monitoring and reporting on large exposures

A credit union is required to report to the board on the performance of its business loans (with some exceptions), community loans, house loans and loans to other credit unions on a monthly basis. In the context of credit unions better managing and monitoring borrower concentration risk, the Central Bank expects that as a matter of good governance and risk management, credit unions would incorporate an element of reporting on large exposures to the board, bearing in mind the nature, scale, complexity and risk profile of the credit union. On reporting on large exposures to the board, it is a matter for an individual credit union to determine what reporting is appropriate for their credit union.

3.12 Lending practices for rescheduled loans

Rescheduled loans are those loans where the repayment conditions have been altered by the credit union so that:

- the duration of the loan is extended; or
- the repayment amounts have been reduced for 4 or more consecutive months within the period of the loan; and
- the loan was in arrears at the time of the repayment conditions being altered, or the loan would have fallen into arrears if the repayment conditions were not altered because the terms of the original loan agreement would no longer be met.

Loans should only be rescheduled following a thorough credit assessment, supported by sufficient evidence, where the credit union has clearly established the ability of the member to repay in accordance with the revised terms of the loan.

The credit union should require a borrower to submit an application to reschedule a loan. The application should be accompanied by the member's written consent to reschedule the loan and evidence of the change in the member's circumstances.

Loans should only be rescheduled with the agreement of the member and where relevant, the guarantor. A new credit agreement⁵ should be drawn up and the member should be made aware of any changes to the information contained in the original credit agreement, including changes to the cost of credit.

The new repayment schedule put in place for all rescheduled loans should not be less frequent than quarterly.

A credit union should not approve further agreements for additional credit where an existing loan has been rescheduled. However, where a member's ability to repay all credit owed and the proposed additional credit has been clearly established, the credit union may determine it prudent to grant additional credit to a member with a rescheduled loan where that rescheduled loan has performed in accordance with the new terms for an appropriate period.

Where additional credit is sought by a member but the member's rescheduled loan has not yet performed in accordance with the new terms for an appropriate period, any additional credit to be granted to the member should only be approved where a member's ability to repay all credit owed and the proposed additional credit has been clearly established. Any additional credit granted in these circumstances should be approved by the board and the rationale for extending such credit clearly documented.

3.13 Systems, controls and reporting for rescheduled loans

Credit unions should enter full details of all rescheduled loans in a Register of Loan Amendments. Rescheduled loans should be clearly designated and identifiable in the records of the credit union and should be capable of being audited. It should be possible to generate detailed reports on all rescheduled loans from these records for inspection by the Central Bank.

Credit unions should report on rescheduled loans to the board of directors of the credit union at each monthly board meeting.

Credit unions should also undertake a full review of the bad debt provisions, including the provisions held against rescheduled loans, as part of the year-end annual accounts preparation and audit process.

1. Introduction

1.1. Context of these Guidelines

This document sets out the Central Bank of Ireland's (the Central Bank) guidelines regarding the policies and procedures which credit unions should adopt to support the development and implementation of an appropriate provisioning framework.¹

An appropriate provisioning framework is essential for:

- the recognition of loan losses as early as possible within the context of accounting standards;
- the adoption of a sufficiently conservative and comparable approach to the measurement and recognition of provisions in the loan book; and
- appropriate disclosures to support members' understanding of the performance of the loan book and the credit union's credit risk management practices.

Appropriate procedures for assessing and measuring credit risk will provide relevant information for a credit union board to make judgements about the credit risk of its lending exposures and will facilitate the recognition of losses within the loan book as early as possible.

The Central Bank's expectation on provisioning in credit unions is outlined throughout these guidelines and credit unions should give due consideration to these guidelines when developing and implementing their provisioning frameworks and when assessing the adequacy of provisions held for loans. In particular, section 6 outlines the Central Bank's expectations on specific categories of loans in credit unions.

1.2. Accounting Standards

Financial Reporting Standard 102 (FRS 102) is the applicable accounting standard for credit unions. FRS 102 adopts an incurred loss approach to provisioning. Section 11 of this accounting standard outlines requirements in relation to the assessment of impairment and the calculation, measurement and recognition of provisions. FRS 102 requires that, at the end of each reporting period, an entity must assess whether there is objective evidence of impairment of any financial assets which are measured at cost or amortised cost. Where it is deemed that there is objective evidence of impairment, the entity shall recognise a provision in the income statement immediately.

Appendix A contains an extract from FRS 102 which outlines the main requirements in relation to provisioning.

1.3. Scope of these Guidelines

Section 84 of the Credit Union Act, 1997 (the Act) provides the Central Bank with the power to administer the system of regulation and supervision of credit unions with a view to the protection by each credit union of the funds of its members and the maintenance of the financial stability and well-being of credit unions generally.

This document applies to all credit unions and while it has the status of 'guidance', the Central Bank considers that the guidelines contained herein represent an appropriate basis for the development and application of a provisioning framework for credit unions.

The Central Bank deems these guidelines to be best practice and accordingly strongly encourages all credit unions to apply them.

These guidelines are designed to assist credit unions in developing and implementing an appropriate provisioning framework which reflects the nature, scale, complexity and risk profile of the credit union and ensuring that the level of provisions held for loans is adequate. Credit unions must ensure that they comply with all relevant accounting standards and should discuss the credit union's approach to provisioning with their auditors.

These guidelines are not intended to act as a sole source of guidance on provisioning for credit unions.

These guidelines are not intended to replace or over-ride the requirements of FRS 102. Credit unions remain subject to the requirements of FRS 102 when preparing year-end financial statements.

2. Responsibility in relation to Provisioning in Credit Unions

2.1. Overview

Section 108 of the Act requires that a credit union shall cause proper accounting records, whether in the form of documents or otherwise, to be kept on a continuous basis. A robust provisioning framework is important to ensure the adequacy and accuracy of the provisioning figure in the financial statements. The Board of Directors (the board) and management of a credit union have responsibility to ensure that an appropriate provisioning framework is in place and operating effectively in the credit union. They should ensure that the credit union has effective risk management practices in place to determine adequate provisions in accordance with stated policies and procedures, applicable accounting standards and regulatory guidance.

Overall responsibility in relation to ensuring the adequacy and accuracy of the provisioning figure in the financial statements rests with the board. The Central Bank expects directors of credit unions to apply a conservative and comparable approach in the measurement of provisions. In addition, directors should take into consideration the level of risk inherent in the loan book, being mindful of the current economic and financial environment.

The manager of a credit union is required to update the board on the financial position of the credit union, including submitting to them on a monthly basis unaudited financial statements that set out the financial position. This responsibility requires the manager to ensure that the provisioning figure in the credit union's accounts is calculated and recognised in the credit union's accounts in accordance with the credit union's approved provisioning policy.

The sections below set out the relevant requirements of both the board and the manager of a credit union in relation to provisioning.

2.2. Board of Directors Responsibilities

In accordance with section 27A of the Act, a credit union shall maintain appropriate oversight, policies, procedures, processes, practices, systems, controls, skills, expertise and reporting arrangements to ensure the protection of members' savings. In order to ensure an appropriate provisioning framework is in place in the credit union, the board are expected at a minimum to:

- set the credit union's appetite for credit risks;
- understand and determine the nature and level of credit risk in the credit union;
- adequately resource the credit and credit control functions with suitably qualified personnel;
- appoint a credit committee;
- ensure that the sophistication of the risk management process is appropriate in light of the credit union's risk profile and business plan;

- ensure that an impairment review of the loan book is carried out at least quarterly and that any resulting adjustments to provisions are incorporated into the management accounts submitted to the board;
- review the adequacy of provisions and loan amounts written off on a quarterly basis;
- review and approve the methodology on an annual basis contained in the provisioning policy for the calculation of provisions;
- review the provisioning policy at least every 3 years to ensure that it remains appropriate to the nature, scale and complexity of the credit union; and
- ensure that adequate supporting documentation is maintained in relation to the provisioning reviews conducted and signed off on.

2.3. Credit Union Manager Responsibilities

In accordance with section 63A of the Act, the manager of the credit union has responsibility for updating the board of directors on the financial position of the credit union, including submitting to the board of directors on a monthly basis unaudited financial statements that set out the financial position of the credit union. In the context of provisioning this includes, but is not limited to:

- establishing a provisioning policy document for credit risk management processes, to be approved by the board;
- establishing the methodology for determining provisions on loans to be approved by the board;
- reviewing on a regular basis, at least annually, the processes and systems in place (as outlined in the provisioning policy document) to monitor and manage the quality of the credit portfolio in a timely manner, and the methodology for determining provisions to ensure that it remains appropriate for the circumstances of the credit union;
- ensuring that the credit exposures are appropriately valued, with a suitable level of provisions for impairment made or uncollectable amounts written off;
- establishing a programme to periodically monitor and analyse security that is held on loans, which should be valued on a prudent basis and ensuring that such security is legally enforceable by the credit union. This is particularly important for house loans that are relying on the value of collateral in assessing whether an impairment provision is required;
- providing the board with regular reports on the adequacy of loan provisions and amounts written off; and
- providing appropriate disclosures to the Central Bank through the submission of the quarterly Prudential Return and other regulatory returns.

2.4. Internal Audit Function Testing

In accordance with section 76K of the Act, the board of a credit union shall appoint an internal audit function to provide for independent internal oversight and to evaluate and improve the effectiveness of the credit union's risk management, internal controls and governance processes. While it is not the responsibility of the internal audit function to assess the adequacy of the provisions in the credit union or to ensure compliance with the requirements of accounting standards, it is expected that the internal audit function would perform regular testing to ensure that the provisioning framework in the credit union is operating as required. This testing should ensure that:

- the provisioning policy is comprehensive and includes all necessary elements to ensure its effectiveness;
- the provisioning policy as approved by the board is appropriately implemented by all those with responsibility in relation to provisioning;
- the provisioning policy is regularly reviewed and updated as required with material updates being approved by the board;
- there is regular reporting to the board of the results of impairment reviews including evidence of challenge and consideration of the same by the board; and provisions are appropriately signed off by the board.

3. Provisioning Policy

Regulation 23 of the Credit Union Act 1997 (Regulatory Requirements) Regulations 2016 requires that a credit union establish and maintain a provisioning policy. This section provides detail and guidance on what should be included, at a minimum, in the provisioning policy and sets out the Central Bank's expectations in certain areas.

3.1. Objectives of the Provisioning Policy

The objectives which are to be achieved from implementation of the provisioning policy should be clearly documented.

3.2. Frequency

The provisioning policy should outline the frequency with which loan impairment reviews will be conducted.

FRS 102 requires that loan impairment reviews are conducted at the end of each reporting period. The Central Bank expects that credit unions undertake a loan impairment review on at least a quarterly basis (as part of preparation of the management accounts and quarterly prudential return) to help to ensure the recognition by credit unions of loan losses as early as possible within the context of accounting standards. This should ensure that a gradual approach to provisioning is taken throughout the year reflective of changing circumstances and should ensure that any additional provision required is recognised and accrued in a timely manner.

3.3. Organisational Arrangements

The provisioning policy should clearly state the roles, responsible persons and their related responsibilities in relation to provisioning within the credit union for those who are tasked with development, implementation and execution of the provisioning policy.

It is expected that there be a clear segregation of duties between the person responsible for undertaking loan impairment reviews and the person responsible for reviewing the results of loan impairment reviews and the related provision amounts (before presentation for sign off to the board). It is also expected that there is a clear segregation of duties between those persons involved in the credit function and those persons involved in loan impairment reviews.

3.4. Resourcing

Credit unions should ensure that the persons tasked with responsibility for performing loan impairment reviews and for analysing and signing off on the results of same, are suitably qualified and experienced individuals.

Detail on the minimum expected competency of persons involved in loan impairment reviews should be included in the provisioning policy. The Central Bank accepts that this minimum expected competency may vary depending on the nature, scale and complexity of the credit union and the methodology used to undertake loan impairment reviews.

3.5. Loan Classification

The provisioning policy should outline the classification of loans used by the credit union in the loan portfolio as determined by the underlying performance of the loans. The characteristics of loans which are performing, performing in arrears, in arrears and in default should be clearly outlined. The criteria, rationale and parameters for the determination of these specific loan classifications should be clearly documented in the provisioning policy. Further detail on common loan classifications is set out in section 6.

3.6. Reporting Arrangements

The provisioning policy should outline the frequency and form of reporting the results of loan impairment reviews and the related provisioning amounts to the board.

It is expected that a report on the results of loan impairment reviews and the movement in the overall provisions figure is presented to the board on at least a quarterly basis for review and sign off. The report provided at a minimum should include a breakdown of the provision amount attributable to each of the different loan classes, split by (i) loans which are performing, (ii) loans which are performing but in arrears and (iii) loans which are in arrears or have defaulted.

3.7. Accounting Policy

A credit union's accounting policy for provisioning should ensure consistency with the requirements of applicable accounting standards. Credit unions are required to report their annual accounts under FRS 102.

The accounting policy should outline the following at a minimum:

- (a) the method of measurement applied to loans e.g. amortised cost;
- (b) detail on what is considered by the credit union to be an event which would necessitate a review of loans to assess for potential impairment;
- (c) detail on what is considered by the credit union to be a loss event i.e. an event which has occurred which may have an adverse impact on future cashflows;
- (d) the estimation techniques used by the credit union to assess and measure loan loss impairment; and
- (e) the principal assumptions used in the estimation techniques used to assess and measure loan loss impairment.

The stated accounting policy contained within the credit union's provisioning policy should be consistent with the accounting policy for provisions disclosed in the annual audited financial statements.

3.8. Provisioning Methodology and Estimation Tools

All credit unions should have in place an appropriate methodology for provisioning which incorporates an impairment assessment tool to accurately estimate loan losses. Where necessary, this should be compatible with the credit union's IT software and loan system.

The provisioning policy should outline what categories of loans are to be assessed on an individual basis. This may be loans which are individually significant or which the credit union deem represent a specific risk due to the characteristics of those loans. Detail should also be included in the provisioning policy on how loans are assessed for impairment on a collective basis (where such assessment is undertaken) and what methodology is employed to achieve this. Further detail on assessing loans on an individual and collective basis is outlined in Section 5.

3.9. Accounting for Provisioning Movements

The provisioning policy should set out how changes in provision amounts are to be accounted for. This should ensure consistency with the requirements of FRS 102 which specifies that:

- where there is objective evidence of an impairment loss, credit unions are required to recognise an impairment loss in the income statement immediately;
- where, in a subsequent period, the amount of an impairment loss decreases and the decrease can be related objectively to an event occurring after the impairment was recognised, credit unions are required to reverse the previously recognised impairment loss directly or by adjusting an allowance account.

3.10. Loan Default

The provisioning policy should outline when the credit union considers that an event is deemed to have occurred which indicates that there may be no reasonable expectation that any amounts owing will be received on the loan and that the full amount of the outstanding loan may require write off i.e. the loan is in default.

It is considered that where a loan is in arrears for >180 days that this is strongly indicative that there may be no reasonable expectation that any amounts owing will be received on the loan. Where this is identified, it is expected that a 100% provision of the net value of the loan should be recognised by the credit union.

3.11. Loan Write Offs and Write Backs

The provisioning policy should outline the credit union's approach to loan write offs. Consideration should be given by the credit union on what is a reasonable time period for a loan to remain on the balance sheet after it has defaulted and before it is written off. This time period should allow the credit union sufficient time to engage with the borrower with a view to securing full or part recovery of the defaulted loan.

It is acknowledged that what is considered 'reasonable time' will depend on the loan category, to an extent the individual circumstances of each loan and other factors including whether or not there is collateral attached to the loan. The Central Bank expects, where a loan is in arrears of 53 weeks or more, that serious consideration should be given to writing off that loan from the credit union's balance sheet (i.e. thereby removing it from the balance sheet). Notwithstanding that a loan is written off, a credit union may of course continue to pursue recovery of that loan from a borrower in line with its credit control policy.

3.12. Income Recognition

The provisioning policy should outline clearly how income is to be recognised on loans which are in default or have been written off.

Income recognition where a loan is in default:

It should be clearly outlined in the provisioning policy how any income received on loans, which are deemed to be in default but which remain on the balance sheet, should be recognised. It is expected that any income received on such loans would be accounted for as a bad debt recovery through the income statement.

Income recognition where a loan has been written off:

It should be clearly outlined in the provisioning policy how any income received on a loan which has been written off should be recognised. It is expected that any income received on such loans would be accounted for as a bad debt recovery through the income statement.

3.13. Collateral

The provisioning policy should outline the credit union's approach to realising collateral which is held against loans which have defaulted. This should articulate the circumstances in which collateral will be realised. The credit union's approach to collateral contained in the provisioning policy should be consistent with the approach to collateral documented in the credit union's credit policy. This will be of particular significance in relation to house loans.

Credit unions should take the collateral held on a loan into consideration only where the collateral is held via a first legal charge and where the credit union has demonstrable evidence that it can affect the security. The provisioning policy should outline clearly the approach to be taken to the valuation of collateral which is held against an impaired loan. Generally, the collateral should be valued on the basis of market value being the estimated amount for which the collateral could be exchanged on a valuation date between a willing buyer and a willing seller in an arm's length transaction after proper marketing and where such parties had each acted knowledgeably, prudently and without compulsion. The valuation should take account of all costs associated with realising the collateral including legal and selling costs. In addition, the Central Bank expects that credit unions would give consideration to applying a discount to collateral held in order to ensure a sufficiently conservative approach when valuing collateral attached to loans which are in default. Valuations of collateral held against loans should be updated on a frequent basis. It is expected that where a loan is in default that any collateral held against that loan would be valued immediately at the time the loan goes into default and that updated valuations would be undertaken on at least an annual basis thereafter.

3.14. Review of Provisioning Policy

The provisioning policy should outline the frequency with which a review should be undertaken to ensure that the provisioning policy remains appropriate to the circumstances of the credit union. In line with the requirements of section 55(1)(o) of the Act, it is required that the provisioning policy be reviewed every three years at a minimum. Responsibilities in relation to undertaking a review of the policy should be outlined. The provisioning policy should also document who has authority to approve amendments to the provisioning policy and the level of authority required for both significant and minor amendments.

It should be clearly documented within the policy when the last review was undertaken and who undertook and signed off on such review. The Central Bank would also expect that the provisioning policy is updated more frequently than every three years if events in the credit union indicate that an early review may be required.

4. Guidelines for Assessing Impairment

The current accounting standard applicable to credit unions (FRS 102) requires the use of an incurred loss approach to the calculation of impairment provisions on loans. The core principle with respect to impairment is that there must be objective evidence of impairment before a provision is recognised.

Section 11.21 of FRS 102 requires that at the end of each reporting period a credit union is required to assess for objective evidence of impairment. Where it is deemed that there is objective evidence of impairment, the credit union shall recognise a provision in profit or loss immediately. In accordance with section 11.25 of FRS 102, the provision should be the difference between the carrying amount of the loan and the present value of the estimated future cash flows discounted at the loan's original effective interest rate.

Section 11.22 (e) permits that a provision may be required on a group of loans where there is observable data which indicates that there has been a measurable decrease in the estimated future cash flows on the group of loans since their initial recognition, even though the decrease cannot yet be identified with the individual loans in the group. This element of a credit union's overall provision is commonly known as incurred but not reported (IBNR).

Outlined below are guidelines in relation to assessing loans for impairment which may be of assistance to credit unions in informing their approach.

4.1. Assessment of Impairment

4.1.1. Frequency of Assessment for Impairment

The Central Bank expects that a credit union should assess, on at least a quarterly basis, whether there is objective evidence of impairment on all loans in their loan book. In accordance with FRS 102, assessment may be performed on either an individual or collective basis as appropriate and determined by the credit union.

4.1.2. Indication of Impairment

Impairment on a loan is generally deemed to have occurred where:

- (i) one or more objective events (impairment triggers) have occurred; and
- (ii) these triggers are likely to have a negative impact on the estimated future cash flows on the loan and indicate that a loss event has occurred.

(i) Impairment Triggers

Credit unions should assess all loans for objective evidence of impairment based on all available information including current information and events at the date of assessment. Certain information and events can be seen as impairment triggers that may affect the likelihood of loss events occurring, and therefore the appropriate levels of provisions for loans.

Examples of such impairment triggers include, but are not limited to:

- macroeconomic triggers
- national or local economic conditions that indicate a measureable decrease in estimated future cash flows of the loan asset class
- an increase in the unemployment rate
- a decrease in property prices for mortgages
- an adverse change in industry conditions
- general triggers
- significant financial difficulties of the borrower
- a breach of contract, such as default or delinquency in repayments (capital and/or interest amounts)
- it becoming probable that the borrower will enter bankruptcy or other financial reorganisation
- personal lending triggers
- any forbearance measure by the borrower including requests for payment holidays or restructuring/rescheduling of loans
- requests for multiple top-ups on loans
- share/loan transfers to cover repayments
- commercial or community lending triggers
- trading losses
- a material decrease in turnover or the loss of a major customer
- a default or breach of contract

Detail and examples of what is viewed to be an impairment trigger should be set out in the credit union's provisioning policy. Credit unions should review and revise their impairment triggers for each loan group to ensure that triggers identify potential loss events as early as possible.

Impairment triggers should also reflect localised factors which are specific to the individual credit union and which have the potential to impact on the repayment of loans in the credit union. An example of this may be where a large number of borrowers in the credit union rely on one local employer and should an adverse event occur with that employer, this may potentially impact on the loan servicing ability of the borrowers. Local specific impairment triggers should be documented, reviewed regularly and updated as necessary.

The following factors should also be taken into account when assessing an individual loan for impairment:

- the debt service capacity of the borrower;
- the financial performance of the borrower; and
- the prospects for support from any financially responsible guarantors and any collateral provided based on its current value.

(ii) Occurrence of Impairment

Where an impairment trigger indicates that a loss event may have occurred, the credit union should assess whether this is likely to have a negative effect on the estimated future repayments on a loan. Where it is established that this is the case then a loss event is deemed to have occurred and accordingly a provision should be made against the loan.

4.1.3. Calculating an impairment loss

As stated in FRS 102, an impairment loss should be calculated by reference to the difference between a loan's carrying amount and the present value of the estimated future cash flows discounted at the loan's original effective interest rate. The Central Bank expects that factors such as the time, costs and difficulties in recovering the loan and any security or collateral held on the loan would be taken into consideration when undertaking an estimate of the future cash flows on the loan. The value of collateral held against a loan should be arrived at after application of an appropriate discount to the market value of the loan. The cash outflows incurred during collateral execution and the sales process should include all legal costs, selling costs, taxes and other expenses and any additional maintenance costs to be incurred in relation to the repossession and disposal of collateral. A credit union should take a conservative and realistic approach in assessing these matters. The methodology for assessing loan impairment on an individual or collective basis and the calculation of the amount of the impairment provision is outlined in section 5.

5. Guidelines for Calculating Impairment Provisions

5.1. Methodology for Calculating Impairment

As set out in section 4, a credit union's provisioning policy should outline the methodology to be applied when assessing loans for objective evidence of impairment and should specify how impairment provisions are to be calculated and recognised. This is aimed at ensuring that a consistent approach is taken to the appropriate measurement and recognition of impairment provisions.

The following are two common and acceptable methodologies which may be employed when assessing loans for impairment.

(i) Individual assessment of loans:

This involves examining the loan files of specific loans on an individual basis to ascertain if loan losses have occurred on each individual loan.

(ii) Collective assessment of loans:

This involves examining specific groups within the loan portfolio which have common characteristics on a collective basis, using previous experience of losses in that specific group of loans, to estimate the expected future cash flows on that specific group of loans with a view to establishing the amount of losses in that specific group of the loan book.

5.2. Approach to using either Individual or Collective Assessment

The Central Bank expects that where collective assessment of the loan book is performed, analysis should also be performed on specific individual loans as identified by the credit union to assess for impairment. At a minimum, the loans selected for individual assessment by the credit union should be those which represent a significant exposure for the credit union. Where a loan is assessed in the first instance on an individual basis and it is deemed that no provision is necessary, this loan should be re-assessed for impairment as part of any collective assessment undertaken. The provisioning policy should specify those loans which are to be assessed on an individual basis. It is acceptable for a credit union to assess all loans for impairment on an individual basis if this is practicable.

5.2.1. Individual Assessment

Individual assessment may be performed on certain loans which are deemed to represent individually significant exposures for the credit union. A credit union may assess all loans on an individual basis if it is considered practical to do so. Credit unions should give consideration to the definition of an individually significant exposure, taking into account the nature, scale, complexity and risk profile of the credit union. The definition of what is deemed to be an individually significant exposure should be outlined in the credit union's provisioning policy.

Credit unions may also individually assess certain loans, that do not represent a significant exposure, due to specific risk characteristics of these loans. Examples of such categories may include, but are not limited to:

- top 100 loans;
- rescheduled loans;
- top up loans;
- loans to officers;
- interest-only loans;
- loans with atypical repayment schedules (including single or lump sum repayment loans); and
- loans where there have been share to loan transfers within a specified timeframe.

The specifics on what loans the credit union deems are necessary to be individually assessed for impairment should be outlined in the provisioning policy.

Where a credit union assesses a loan for impairment individually and deems that it is impaired and requires a provision, it should recognise a provision for this loan in the income statement immediately.

5.2.2. Collective Assessment

In general, due to their homogenous nature, a large proportion of credit union loans may be grouped together and assessed on a collective basis e.g. those loans which have similar credit risk characteristics that are indicative of a member's ability to repay according to the credit agreement. The following characteristics may be taken into consideration when grouping exposures:

- loan Category;
- geographical location;
- date of origination;
- security type;
- size of loans;
- other forbearance indicators including rescheduled loans; and
- past due status.

Where loans have been individually assessed and it is not deemed that they are impaired they should be included within the group of loans which are to be assessed on a collective basis.

An element of the overall impairment provision arrived at as a result of a collective assessment of the loan book will relate to the loans within the collective assessment pool which are currently performing based on the probability of these loans moving from the performing pool into the non-performing pool. This element of the overall provision is commonly referred to as IBNR.

Outlined below is an example of how a credit union could approach a collective assessment of its loan book.

The calculation of provisions for the collective assessment of loans may be done in a number of ways. One such way is for it to be based on analysis of 'days in arrears' payment performance. Similar loans are grouped (i.e. car loans, term loans, house loans) and split between arrears categories - each arrears category referring to the number of days in arrears (usually up until 90 days or an equivalent default event). Subsequently the behaviour of loans from a given arrears category is assessed (in terms of movement towards the 'default event'), over a defined length of time - normally designed to reflect an appropriate emergence period.

Careful attention must be given to the effect of any loan re-aging, forbearance or restructuring practices on both the categorisation of arrears and default identification, with appropriate adjustments made as necessary (for instance forbearance loans may need to be treated separately, considered as an indicator of default etc.). In addition, recoveries from the default event are accounted for - with a recovery rate estimated to reflect all cash flows post default (collateral related or otherwise); with cashflows discounted to reflect their inherent risk as well as the time value of money. The costs involved in making recoveries must also be taken into account.

Historical loss experience should be adjusted to reflect the effects of current economic conditions that did not impact the period that the historical loss experience covers, and historical conditions that do not currently exist.

The methodology and assumptions used for estimating cash flows should be reviewed regularly to minimise any differences between loss estimates and actual loss experience.

5.3. Miscellaneous Considerations

5.3.1. Concentration Risk

As part of the measurement of loan portfolio provisions, credit unions should be cognisant of large exposures and connected borrowers. This may help to reduce the risk of credit unions incurring large losses as a result of the failure of an individual borrower or group of connected borrowers, due to the occurrence of unforeseen events (see the Lending Chapter of the Credit Union Handbook for further guidance on large exposures and connected borrowers). Certain loans, while not individually significant, could represent in aggregate a concentration risk resulting from a shared characteristic across the loans. When assessing loans for impairment, loans which credit unions deem to represent a concentration risk should be assessed in conjunction with one another.

5.3.2. Post Balance Sheet Events

Where credit unions have prepared their year-end accounts and presented a balance sheet at the reporting date, they need to remain aware up to the date that the financial statements are authorised for issue, of circumstances which may have an impact on the amounts which are presented in the financial statements. Section 32 of FRS 102 outlines that the receipt of information after the end of the reporting period indicating that an asset was impaired at the end of the reporting period, or that the amount of a previously recognised impairment loss for that asset needs to be adjusted, is deemed to be an adjusting event after the end of the reporting period. Where such circumstances arise this would require a credit union to adjust the provisioning amount in its financial statements including making amendments to any related disclosures.

6. Supervisory Expectations

The Central Bank expects:

- credit unions to have in place a comprehensive provisioning framework which results in the recognition of loan losses as early as possible;
- that there is a clear understanding of the respective responsibilities of the board, management and internal audit with regard to provisioning in the credit union;
- that there is a 'fit for purpose' approved provisioning policy implemented by the credit union which will result in an adequate level of provisions being recognised on impaired loans;
- that there is appropriate oversight and approval of provisioning practices and the results of the same at board level; and
- that credit unions maintain a comprehensive understanding of the underlying risk profile of the loan book and be capable of identifying specific loans or group of loans which represent an increased credit risk for the credit union.

It is considered that the ageing of arrears and the number of repayments in arrears are key indicators of asset quality and are fundamental inputs into the assessment of loan impairments. It is important that credit unions are capable of accurately segmenting and reporting on their loan book in such a manner.

Specific categories of loans which should be carefully considered by credit unions and the Central Bank's expectations of an acceptable approach to provisioning on these loans are outlined below.

6.1. Performing Loans

A loan may be categorised as performing where the loan is not past due and does not present a risk of not being paid back to the credit union in full. The assessment of impairment on these loans should be based on the probability of such loans moving from the performing pool into the non-performing pool over a defined period. This provision is referred to as IBNR provision.

Performing Loans in Arrears

A loan which is up to 9 weeks past due may be categorised by a credit union as performing but in arrears. The likelihood of full recovery on a loan which is up to 9 weeks past due is less than that of a fully performing loan and as a result it is expected that the level of provisions for this category of loans should be higher than that for loans which are classified as fully performing.

6.2. Non-Performing Loans

The Central Bank considers that a loan which is greater than 9 weeks in arrears should be classified by the credit union as non-performing. The likelihood of these loans become fully recovered is less than that for a performing loan or a loan which is performing but in arrears and accordingly it is expected that the level of provisions on such loans would be higher.

6.3. Defaulted Loans

Where a loan is in arrears for ≥ 180 days it is viewed that this is strongly indicative that all amounts owing on the loan may not be received. The Central Bank would expect that such loans would have a 100% provision based on the net exposure (i.e. after security/collateral)² of the loan.

Where there is a deviation from this 100% provisioning expectation by a credit union, it is expected that the credit union can demonstrate with acceptable objective evidence, that a 100% provisioning amount is not warranted. Where such an explanation provided by a credit union is not deemed sufficient, the Central Bank may require the credit union to:

- (i) increase the level of provision held on the loan, provided that such an increase is permissible within the context of FRS 102; and/or
- (ii) hold the amount of the additional provision required to reach 100% provision as a non distributable reserve.

6.4. Rescheduled Loans

Rescheduled loans are those loans where the repayment conditions have been altered by the credit union so that:

- (i) the duration of the loan is extended; or
- (ii) the repayment amounts have been reduced for 4 or more consecutive months within the period of the loan; and
- (iii) the loan was in arrears at the time of the repayment conditions being altered, or the loan would have fallen into arrears if the repayment conditions were not altered because the terms of the original loan agreement would no longer be met.

Where a loan is rescheduled this may be indicative of objective evidence of impairment having occurred and accordingly all rescheduled loans should be reviewed for impairment on an individual basis at the time that the loan is being rescheduled. Where it is assessed that the loan is not impaired at the time of this review, the loan should be collectively assessed within a pool of loans with similar credit characteristics. Where a loan is deemed to be impaired, a provision should be made.

It is expected that rescheduled loans are closely monitored for impairment by credit unions given that such loans are likely to represent an increased credit risk for the credit union.

² The value of security/collateral should be arrived at based on the open market value of the property after application of an appropriate discount and taking account of all costs likely to be incurred during collateral execution including legal costs, selling costs/taxes/expenses and any additional maintenance costs to be incurred in relation to the repossession and disposal of the collateral.

Rescheduling should not interrupt the ageing of arrears of a rescheduled loan unless the borrower repays all amounts which were in arrears without new financing provided by the credit union for such purposes.

6.5. Top Up Loans

A top up loan can be defined as further credit granted to an existing borrower. Credit unions should remain cognisant of the potential increased credit risk which is posed by such loans.

Where a borrower requests a top up loan, the credit union should undertake an individual impairment assessment of the borrower's existing loans, to assess whether or not they are impaired and if a provision is required. Where impairment is not evident on the borrowers existing loans, the credit union should assess whether they could potentially become impaired should the top up loan not be granted and make any provision which is considered necessary following this assessment. The Central Bank would expect that top up loans are only granted to borrowers where it is assessed that there no specific concerns with regards the borrowers repayment capacity in relation to the initial and any subsequent loans granted.

6.6. Cured Loans

A cured loan can be defined as a loan which was once non-performing but simultaneously the financial situation of the borrower has improved to the extent that full repayment of the loan is likely to be made and the borrower no longer has any amount in arrears on the loan.

Credit unions should retain a cautious approach on such loans when assessing loan books for impairment as they are likely to represent an increased credit risk as a borrower who has a cured loan is more likely to re-default than a borrower who has loans which have never been classified as non-performing.

The Central Bank would not expect to see any reversal of a provision on a loan, which was previously classified as non-performing but is now classified as cured, until such time that there is demonstrable evidence that the loan is performing in line with the terms and conditions of the credit agreement and should continue to perform in such a way. An appropriate time period for assessing such performance should be contained in the provisioning policy of the credit union.

7. Loan Write Offs

As detailed in section 3, a credit union's provisioning policy should state when loans, which are considered to be in default, should be written off.

When assessing the recoverability of a loan credit unions should pay particular attention to those loans which have prolonged arrears. In general, where a loan is in arrears for 53 weeks or more this is strongly indicative that the loan should be written off and removed from the credit union's balance sheet. In certain instances, a partial write off may be warranted where there is reasonable financial evidence to demonstrate an inability on the borrower's behalf to fully repay all amounts outstanding on the loan.

Loans deemed irrecoverable should be presented to the board for review and approval. These should be written off as they arise during the year and not left to the financial year end for write off.

Where a loan has prolonged arrears for a period of greater than 53 weeks and following an assessment for write off, a decision is made that the loan should remain on the credit union's balance sheet, this should be supported by appropriate evidence. A list of all such loans and the supporting evidence should also be presented to the board for approval. All such loans should be re-reviewed at regular intervals to ensure that it remains appropriate for them to be kept on the balance sheet.

The provisioning policy should clearly document how any monies subsequently received on loans previously written off should be accounted for in the credit union's accounts. It is expected that these should be accounted for as bad debt recoveries through the income statement.

8. Supporting Documentation

Credit unions should maintain supporting documentation on each individual loan or group of loans, including:

- documentation of the rationale for determining whether an exposure should be assessed individually or collectively for impairment;
- documentation of the rationale for determining appropriate groupings of exposures, including observable data supporting the conclusion that the exposures in each grouping have similar attributes or characteristics. This data must be assessed periodically as circumstances change or as new data that is more relevant and more directly representative of loss becomes available; and
- if there is objective evidence of impairment, the credit union should document the type of objective evidence existing. If no objective evidence of impairment exists, the credit union should document the steps taken in arriving at this conclusion.

In addition to the supporting documentation required above, the following supporting documentation should be maintained on files (particularly loan files) in relation to the calculation of the impairment provision:

- the method and result of the impairment provision calculation for each individually measured exposure, including where relevant how the most appropriate technique for measurement was determined;
- when using the discounted future cash flows method:
 - the amount and timing of cash flows;
 - the effective interest rate used to discount the cash flows; and
 - the basis for the determination of cash flows, including consideration of current environmental factors and other information reflecting past events and current conditions;
- for collectively assessed exposures, the supporting rationale for adjustments made to the historical loss experience of each group, and the quantity of the adjustment; and
- documentation supporting the opinion that the credit union's estimates have an economic relationship to, and are representative of, impairment of a group of exposures.

Appendix A: Extract from Section 11 of FRS 102 outlining the main requirements in relation to Provisioning

The below represents an extract from FRS 102 only. Please revert to FRS 102 in its entirety for the full accounting requirements in relation to provisioning.

Impairment of financial instruments measured at cost or amortised cost

Recognition

11.21 At the end of each reporting period, an entity shall assess whether there is objective evidence of impairment of any financial assets that are measured at cost or amortised cost. If there is objective evidence of impairment, the entity shall recognise an impairment loss in profit or loss immediately.

11.22 Objective evidence that a financial asset or group of assets is impaired includes observable data that come to the attention of the holder of the asset about the following loss events:

- (a) significant financial difficulty of the issuer or obligor;
- (b) a breach of contract, such as a default or delinquency in interest or principal payments;
- (c) the creditor, for economic or legal reasons relating to the debtor's financial difficulty, granting to the debtor a concession that the creditor would not otherwise consider;
- (d) it has become probable that the debtor will enter bankruptcy or other financial reorganisation; and
- (e) observable data indicating that there has been a measurable decrease in the estimated future cash flows from a group of financial assets since the initial recognition of those assets, even though the decrease cannot yet be identified with the individual financial assets in the group, such as adverse national or local economic conditions or adverse changes in industry conditions.

11.23 Other factors may also be evidence of impairment, including significant changes with an adverse effect that have taken place in the technological, market, economic or legal environment in which the issuer operates.

11.24 An entity shall assess the following financial assets individually for impairment:

- (a) all equity instruments regardless of significance; and
- (b) other financial assets that are individually significant.

An entity shall assess other financial assets for impairment either individually or grouped on the basis of similar credit risk characteristics.

Measurement

11.25 An entity shall measure an impairment loss on the following instruments measured at cost or amortised cost as follows:

- (a) For an instrument measured at amortised cost in accordance with paragraph 11.14(a), the impairment loss is the difference between the asset's carrying amount and the present value of estimated cash flows discounted at the asset's original effective interest rate. If such a financial instrument has a variable interest rate, the discount rate for measuring any impairment loss is the current effective interest rate determined under the contract.
- (b) For an instrument measured at cost less impairment in accordance with paragraph 11.14(c) and (d)(ii) the impairment loss is the difference between the asset's carrying amount and the best estimate (which will necessarily be an approximation) of the amount (which might be zero) that the entity would receive for the asset if it were to be sold at the reporting date.

Reversal

11.26 If, in a subsequent period, the amount of an impairment loss decreases and the decrease can be related objectively to an event occurring after the impairment was recognised (such as an improvement in the debtor's credit rating), the entity shall reverse the previously recognised impairment loss either directly or by adjusting an allowance account. The reversal shall not result in a carrying amount of the financial asset (net of any allowance account) that exceeds what the carrying amount would have been had the impairment not previously been recognised. The entity shall recognise the amount of the reversal in profit or loss immediately.

1. Legislation

Section 85 – Assets and liabilities

- (1) A credit union shall at all times keep a proportion of its total assets in liquid form (hereinafter referred to as "liquid assets"), being such a proportion and having such a composition as to enable the credit union to meet its liabilities as they arise.
- (2) For the purpose of complying with subsection (1), a credit union shall have regard to the range and scale of its business and the composition of its assets and liabilities; but nothing in this Act shall be taken to prevent a credit union keeping liquid assets in addition to those required for complying with subsection (1).
- (3) The Bank may from time to time by notice in writing require a credit union to maintain, between its assets and its liabilities—
 - (a) a ratio specified in the requirement,
 - (b) a ratio which does not exceed a ratio so specified, or
 - (c) a ratio which is not less than a ratio so specified,and a ratio may be so specified as a percentage of the assets or liabilities concerned.
- (4) A requirement of the Bank under subsection (3) may be expressed to apply in one or, more of the following ways—
 - (a) in relation to all credit unions or to credit unions of a category or categories specified in the requirement;
 - (b) in relation to the total assets or total liabilities of the credit unions concerned or in relation to such assets or kinds of assets or such liabilities or kinds of liabilities as may be specified in the requirement;
 - (c) in relation to such time or times or during such period or periods as may be so specified.
- (5) ≠ The Bank may, from time to time, by notice in writing specify, as respects a credit union, requirements as to the composition of its assets or, subject to regulations made under section 27(2), the composition of its liabilities.

(6) In this section—

(a) "liabilities" include such contingent liabilities as the Bank may from time to time specify by notice in writing for the purposes of this section; and

(b) "liquid assets" mean such assets as the Bank may from time to time specify by notice in writing for the purposes of this section; and, until the Bank specifies assets as mentioned in paragraph (b), "liquid assets" include assets held in a form provided for by section 43.

(7) Where, under the preceding provisions of this section, the Bank by notice in writing imposes a requirement or specifies any matter, and the requirement is to apply or the matter is specified otherwise than in relation to a particular credit union, the power to give the notice shall be exercisable by rules.

Section 85A - Liquidity*

(1) In this section—

'liquid assets' means the assets held by a credit union to enable it to meet its obligations as they arise;

'maturity mismatch' means the ongoing or possible future divergence between a credit union's assets and liabilities because non liquid assets of the credit union have not or, at the appropriate time, will not have matured;

'total assets' means all the assets of a credit union having due regard to the accounting principles in section 110 after deducting provisions for bad and doubtful debts.

(2) A credit union shall at all times keep a proportion of its total assets in liquid form (in this section referred to as 'liquid assets') so as to enable the credit union to meet its obligations as they arise. The proportion of assets kept in liquid form shall take into account the nature, scale and complexity of the credit union, and the composition and maturity of its assets and liabilities.

(3) The Bank may prescribe the liquidity requirements that a credit union is required to maintain at a minimum as well as conditions on the application of the liquidity requirements. Regulations made by the Bank for the purpose of this section may deal with other matters related to minimum liquidity requirements, including—

- (a) the proportion and nature of assets to be held in liquid form,
 - (b) the holding of liquid assets based on the duration of loans,
 - (c) in relation to maturity mismatches, and
 - (d) the liquid assets to be held as a safeguard on the basis of stressed conditions that may arise.
- (4) In prescribing matters for the purposes of this section, the Bank shall have regard to the need to ensure that the requirements imposed by the regulations made by it are effective and proportionate having regard to the nature, scale and complexity of credit unions, or the category or categories of credit unions, to which the regulations will apply.

Section 85B - Supplemental provisions to Sections 85 and 85A*

(1) In this section—

'liquid assets' has the meaning given by section 85 or 85A, as appropriate in the circumstances;

'maturity mismatch' has the meaning given by section 85A(1);

'stress test', in relation to a credit union, means the analysis of its cash flows under various headings and the placing of such cash flows in pre-determined time periods subject to specified conditions, including monetary limits where appropriate, to estimate the extent to which a credit union may have a maturity mismatch in respect of its assets and liabilities.

(2) (a) Pending the prescribing by the Bank of minimum liquidity requirements for the purposes of section 85A in respect of a category of credit unions, the liquidity requirements applicable to credit unions under section 85 shall continue to apply to such category of credit unions in respect of matters so prescribed.

(b) Where minimum liquidity requirements have been prescribed by the Bank for the purposes of section 85A in respect of a category of credit unions, then section 85 shall cease to apply to that category of credit unions in respect of the matters so prescribed.

(3) The Bank may, from time to time, require any credit union or credit unions (either generally or a particular category of credit union) to undertake stress tests into what would be the consequences for its liquidity if one or more scenarios were to arise.

The terms of the stress test shall be laid down by the Bank including without limitation requirements on the frequency of stress tests, reporting arrangements for stress test results and requirements to develop contingency plans.

- (4) In requiring a credit union to undertake any matter for the purposes of this section, the Bank shall have regard to the need to ensure that the requirements are effective and proportionate having regard to the nature, scale and complexity of the credit union.

(1A) If a credit union maintains on each day during a maintenance period, as defined in the minimum reserve requirement regulation, a balance in its minimum reserve deposit account that is equal to the average daily balance that would be required to satisfy that credit union's reserve requirement for that maintenance period, any balance in the account in excess of that amount may be included in relevant liquid assets.

(2) Where a credit union is failing, or likely to fail to comply, with the liquidity requirements in this Part or in the Act, it shall notify the Bank in writing no later than close of business on the next business day.

3. Guidance

3.1 Liquidity management policy

The liquidity management policy should cover the following at a minimum:

- objectives of the credit union's liquidity management policy;
- organisational arrangements setting out the roles and responsibilities of officers involved in liquidity management;
- strategy setting out the quantity and quality of liquid assets to be maintained by the credit union over time, including the setting of liquidity targets, to enable the credit union to meet its obligations as they arise and to meet stress conditions taking account of:

- the minimum liquidity to be maintained by the credit union in compliance with the legal and regulatory requirements and guidance;
- the strategic plan of the credit union;
- the current economic climate and business operating environment;
- the nature, scale and complexity of the credit union;
- the risk profile of the credit union including the level of credit and market risk in the credit union;
- the risk tolerance of the credit union; and
- any liquidity buffers to be maintained as a safeguard on the basis of stressed conditions that may arise;
- plans for the generation of any additional liquidity required to support the above;
- procedures for:
 - complying with minimum legal and regulatory requirements and guidance in relation to liquidity;
 - monitoring, reviewing and reporting on the credit union's liquidity position against liquidity targets; and
 - regular stress testing of liquidity and scenario analysis taking account of potential risks;
- contingency plans to be put in place if the liquidity targets are not met, including:
 - actions to be taken to protect the credit union's liquidity position;
 - raising of additional liquidity, if necessary; and
 - notifying the Central Bank where liquidity falls below the regulatory minimum;
- reporting arrangements, including the frequency, form and content of reporting on the adequacy of liquidity to the board of directors; and
- the process and timelines for the approval, review and update of the liquidity management policy by the board of directors.

Credit unions should ensure that any significant deviations from the liquidity management policy, the reasons for these deviations and proposed action to address the deviations are communicated to the board of directors in accordance with the reporting arrangements set out in the liquidity management policy.

3.2 Asset and liability management policy

The asset and liability management policy should cover the following at a minimum:

- objectives of the credit union's asset and liability management policy;
- organisational arrangements setting out the roles and responsibilities of officers involved in managing and monitoring the asset liability position of the credit union;

- strategy for the management of assets and liabilities taking account of:
 - legal and regulatory requirements and guidance including those relating to liquidity, lending, savings, borrowings and investments;
 - the strategic plan of the credit union taking account of the funding strategy proposed to support the projected balance sheet structure;
 - the current economic climate and business operating environment;
 - the nature, scale and complexity of the credit union;
 - the risk profile of the credit union including the level of credit and market risk in the credit union;
 - the risk tolerance of the credit union; and
 - the credit union's policy in relation to the type, maturity and limits for lending, borrowings, savings and investments and pricing strategies for lending and savings;
- the process for measuring and monitoring risks arising from asset and liability mismatches;
- procedures on how the credit union responds to changes in the economic climate and business operating environment including stress testing;
- the credit union's policy in relation to members' savings (shares and deposits) including the setting of a maximum number of shares a member can hold and a maximum amount that a member may deposit;²
- the credit union's policy in relation to borrowings;²
- reporting arrangements, including the frequency, form and content of reporting on asset and liability management to the board of directors; and
- the process for the approval, review and update of the asset and liability management policy by the board of directors.

Credit unions should ensure that any significant deviations from the asset and liability management policy, the reasons for these deviations and proposed action to address the deviations are communicated to the board of directors in accordance with the reporting arrangements set out in the asset and liability management policy.

3.3 Definition of liquid assets

The Regulations provide a definition of relevant liquid assets for the purposes of calculating the minimum liquidity ratio.

The definition provides that cash and investments with a maturity of less than 3 months qualify as liquid assets, excluding any amount held in the credit union's: (i) minimum reserve deposit account for the purpose of complying with its reserve requirement under the minimum reserve requirement regulation; (ii) deposit protection account. While the Central Bank does not consider balances in the minimum reserve deposit account to be investments for the purpose of the Regulations, balances in the minimum reserve deposit account in excess of the ECB minimum reserve requirement come within the definition of "relevant liquid assets". The definition also provides that certain bonds, namely government bonds, supranational bonds and bank bonds which meet the minimum credit rating requirements required under the investments regulations, may qualify for liquidity (subject to a maximum of 10% of unattached savings) where they have a remaining maturity of greater than 3 months. In determining the amount of bonds which may qualify as liquid assets, a discount must be applied to the market value of the bonds. The discounts which are required to be applied are outlined in the liquidity regulations and are dependent on the remaining time to maturity of the bonds.

² These policies may be included within the asset and liability management policy or may be maintained as separate policies.

Where a credit union holds an investment which has a maturity of greater than 8 days or 3 months but such investments have an explicit written guarantee to say that the investments can be accessed within 8 days or 3 months, the credit union may count such investments as liquid assets for the purposes of meeting the applicable requirements of the minimum liquidity ratio.

3.4 Reporting requirements

Where a credit union is notifying the Central Bank that it is failing, or likely to fail to comply, with the liquidity requirements imposed by the Regulations, the credit union should set out the steps it proposes to take to restore the liquidity ratio(s) and indicate the timeframe in which the ratio(s) will return to compliance.

- (4) A credit union shall not enter into an agreement with a service provider for the performance of any of the functions exercisable by the board of directors of the credit union under section 55(1) but, subject to any matter that may be prescribed by the Bank, this shall not prevent the credit union from entering into an agreement under subsection (1) with a service provider for the provision of services in respect of any business activity (other than any such function) that is preliminary to or consequential upon the exercise by that board of the function concerned.¹
- (5) The following conditions shall form part of every agreement to provide outsourced activities between a credit union and a service provider:

 - (j) the service provider shall keep any confidential information relating to the credit union or its members in a safe and secure manner.
- (6) For the purposes of every agreement to provide outsourced activities between a credit union and a service provider, the credit union shall—

 - (b) retain the necessary expertise to supervise the outsourced activities effectively, manage the risks associated with the outsourcing and supervise those activities and manage those risks,
 - (c) establish methods for assessing the standard of performance of the service provider, and
 - (d) be capable of resuming direct control over any outsourced activity or ensure that alternative arrangements are in place to provide the outsourced activities without detriment to the proper operation and functioning of the credit union or the continuity and quality of its provision of services to members.

(7) Where—

(a) an agreement under this section has been entered into between a credit union and a service provider, and

(b) it is necessary having regard to the activities that have been outsourced, then the credit union and the service provider shall both establish, implement and maintain a business continuity plan and the credit union shall ensure that such plan is integrated, as necessary, within the business continuity plan referred to in section 76I.

(8) An outsourced activity shall not impair—

(a) the orderliness of the conduct of the credit union's business,

(b) the credit union's ability to manage and monitor its business,

(d) the ability of the credit union to comply with requirements imposed under financial services legislation,

(9) Where a credit union has outsourced activities, the credit union remains legally responsible for compliance with requirements imposed under financial services legislation in respect of those activities.

(10) Nothing in this section shall be construed—

(a) as applying to any person in his or her capacity as an officer of the credit union, or

(b) as affecting any contract (whether oral or in writing) entered into between the credit union and any person for the performance by that person of any minor non-business activity where a defect or failure in its performance could not impair—

- (i) the continuing compliance with the conditions and obligations of the credit union's registration or its other obligations under the financial services legislation,
- (ii) the credit union's financial performance,
- (iii) the soundness or continuity of the credit union's financial performance, or
- (iv) the soundness or continuity of the credit union's business.

(11) (a) A credit union shall notify the Bank, in writing—

- (i) when it is proposed to outsource to a service provider a material business activity, or
- (ii) of any material development affecting the service provider and the service provider's ability to fulfil its obligations.

(b) In this subsection and subsection (12) 'material business activity' means an activity where a defect or failure in its performance would materially impair-

- (i) the continuing compliance with the conditions and obligations of its registration or its other obligations under the financial services legislation,
- (ii) its financial performance,
- (iii) the soundness or continuity of its financial performance, or
- (iv) the soundness or continuity of its business.

(12) (a) The Bank may prescribe the matters that a credit union shall have regard to when selecting a service provider.²

² The Central Bank has not yet prescribed Regulations under this subsection.

(b) Without prejudice to the generality of paragraph (a), requirements for the purposes of that paragraph may include any of the following:

- (ii) the arrangements for notifying the Bank in writing when a material business activity is proposed to be outsourced;
- (iii) the arrangements for notifying the Bank in writing of a material development affecting a service provider and what constitutes a material development.

(13) In prescribing matters for the purposes of this section, the Bank shall have regard to the need to ensure that the requirements imposed by the regulations made by it are effective and proportionate having regard to the nature, scale and complexity of credit unions, or the category or categories of credit unions, to which the regulations will apply.

Section 55 – Functions of board of directors*

(This Chapter has not reproduced the entirety of section 55 – please consult the Credit Union Act, 1997 for the full provision.)

2. Guidance

2.1 Exercising due skill, care and diligence

Before making a decision on outsourcing, a credit union should carry out an assessment of the following at a minimum:

- the available options for outsourcing;
- the business case for outsourcing the business activity, including the financial analysis and underlying assumptions supporting the business case;
- whether outsourcing the business activity could impair the credit union in relation to the matters set out in section 76J(8) of the 1997 Act; and
- the operational risks involved in outsourcing a business activity to a service provider which may include the following at a minimum:
 - loss of control over the service;
 - interruption of service due to financial or other difficulties experienced by the service provider;
 - legal risk including the precision and enforceability of the agreement between the credit union and the service provider, especially where foreign jurisdictions are involved; and
 - risks associated with the adequacy of ongoing monitoring of the service provider.

Where the credit union decides to outsource a business activity, it should ensure at a minimum:

- that the outsourcing arrangement does not impair the credit union in relation to matters set out in section 76J(8) of the 1997 Act;
- that any operational risks identified are managed and mitigated in accordance with the risk management system;
- that it carries out a due diligence review of the service provider to ensure that the service provider has the ability, capacity and any authorisation required by law to perform the outsourced activity reliably and professionally; and
- that the internal audit function, the risk management system and the compliance programme are updated to take account of the outsourced activity.

2.2 Outsourcing agreement

Notwithstanding section 76J(5) of the 1997 Act, the outsourcing agreement should cover the following at a minimum:

- the nature and scope of the business activity that is to be outsourced;
- clearly defined roles and responsibilities for the credit union and the service provider;
- service level and performance requirements; and

- reporting and monitoring arrangements to enable the credit union to effectively monitor the performance of the service provider.

The outsourcing agreement should be reviewed on a regular basis, at least annually, to ensure the continued appropriateness of the agreement. The outsourcing agreement should be sufficiently flexible to accommodate changes that may be required to outsourced activities such as those arising from changes to the strategic plan and legal and regulatory requirements and guidance.

2.3 Outsourcing policy

The outsourcing policy should cover the following at a minimum:

- the objectives of the outsourcing policy;
- organisational arrangements setting out the roles and responsibilities of officers involved in outsourcing, including those responsible for monitoring and managing each outsourcing arrangement;
- the decision making process for the outsourcing of business activities;
- the selection process for service providers;
- the processes for the ongoing supervision and management of the risks associated with outsourcing;
- business continuity plan for outsourced activities;
- procedures for:
 - notification to the Central Bank (i) where it is proposed to outsource to a service provider a material business activity or (ii) where any material development affects the service provider and his or her ability to fulfil their obligations;
 - appropriate monitoring and assessment by the credit union of the service provider's financial performance and changes in the service provider's organisation structure;
- reporting arrangements, including the frequency, form and content of reporting on outsourcing to the board of directors; and
- the process and timelines for the approval, review and update of the outsourcing policy by the board of directors.

Any significant deviations from the outsourcing policy, the reasons for these deviations and proposed action to address the deviations should be communicated to the board of directors in accordance with the reporting arrangements set out in the outsourcing policy.

2.4 Business continuity plan

The business continuity plan, required under section 76I of the 1997 Act,³ should include the business continuity arrangements in relation to outsourced activities where a defect or failure in its performance would materially impair:

- the continuing compliance with the conditions and obligations of the credit union's registration or its other obligations under the financial services legislation;
- the credit union's financial performance;
- the soundness or continuity of the credit union's financial performance; or
- the soundness or continuity of the credit union's business.

2.5 Supervision of outsourced activities

The credit union should ensure that it retains the necessary expertise to supervise outsourcing arrangements. The credit union should review the performance of service providers on a regular basis, at least annually, to ensure that the outsourced activities are performed in accordance with the service level and performance requirements set out in the outsourcing agreement. The credit union should take any steps necessary to address any deficiencies identified in the review in a timely manner. The credit union should ensure that the outcome of the review, and any action taken or proposed to be taken, is reported to the board of directors.

2.6 Notification requirements to the Central Bank

The Central Bank should be notified in writing by the credit union:

- where the credit union is proposing to outsource a material business activity, prior to entering into an agreement with a service provider; and
- within one working day where there is a material development affecting the service provider. A material development is any development which would materially impair:
 - the continuing compliance with the conditions and obligations of the credit union's registration or its other obligations under the financial services legislation;
 - the credit union's financial performance;
 - the soundness or continuity of the credit union's financial performance; or
 - the soundness or continuity of the credit union's business.

Please see the 'Reporting Requirements' area in the credit union section of the Central Bank website for details on notifying the Central Bank in line with requirements referred to above.

³ See the Chapter on "Operational Risk".

2.7 Review by the board of directors

The board of directors should review the credit union's outsourcing policy on a regular basis, at least every 3 years, ensuring that it takes account of any changes to the following at a minimum:

- legal and regulatory requirements and guidance; and
- the credit union's strategic plan. This should include any proposals in relation to new products and services, material modifications to existing products and services and major management initiatives, such as transfers of engagements or amalgamations.

 - (b) which shall not be less than those required under any additional reserve requirement applicable to it in respect of operational risk by virtue of subsection (6).
- (6) Either or both the level of additional reserves to be maintained by a credit union and the basis for calculating the additional reserves to be maintained by a credit union under this section in respect of operational risk may be prescribed by the Bank. For that purpose the Bank may also prescribe in respect of ancillary matters related to the additional reserves held in respect of operational risks.
- (7) A credit union that fails to meet any reserve requirement under this section—
- (a) may be required by the Bank to transfer all or part of its surplus to reserves, and
 - (b) shall secure the written approval of the Bank before paying a dividend or loan interest rebate.
- (8) In prescribing matters for the purposes of this section, the Bank shall have regard to the need to ensure that the requirements imposed by the regulations made by it are effective and proportionate having regard to the nature, scale and complexity of credit unions, or of the category or categories of credit unions, to which the regulations will apply.
- (9) (a) Pending the prescribing by the Bank of reserve requirements for the purposes of this section in respect of credit unions generally or a category of credit unions, the reserve requirements applicable to credit unions under section 85 shall continue to apply generally or to such category of credit unions, as the case may be.
- (b) Where reserve requirements have been prescribed by the Bank for the purposes of this section in respect of credit unions generally or a category of credit unions, then section 85 shall cease to apply generally to that category of credit unions, as the case may be, in respect of the matters so prescribed.

CREDIT UNION ACT 1997 (REGULATORY REQUIREMENTS) REGULATIONS 2016 (S.I. No. 1 of 2016)

(This Chapter has not reproduced the entirety of Part 1 – please consult the Credit Union Act 1997 (Regulatory Requirements) Regulations 2016 for the full provision.)

PART 1

Interpretation

In these Regulations, unless the context otherwise requires: -

"assets" means all of the assets referred to in section 85A of the Act;

"the Bank" means the Central Bank of Ireland;

"the Act" means the Credit Union Act, 1997;

PART 2

RESERVES

Reserves Perpetual in Nature and Available to Absorb Losses

3. (1) A credit union shall ensure that all reserves held in accordance with, and for the purpose of, this Part and section 45 of the Act are:
- (a) perpetual in nature;
 - (b) freely available to absorb losses;
 - (c) realised financial reserves that are:
 - (i) unrestricted; and
 - (ii) non-distributable.
- (2) For the purpose of paragraph (1), any instrument classified or contributing to a reserve shall, in order to be eligible:
- (a) not be secured or subject to a guarantee which enhances its seniority;
 - (b) be permanent and without an obligation for repayment of principal;
 - (c) have no preferential distribution rights;
 - (d) rank below all other claims in the event of a liquidation;
 - (e) qualify as a reserve for accounting purposes.

Regulatory Reserve Requirement

4. (1) Subject to paragraph (2), a credit union shall establish and maintain a minimum regulatory reserve requirement of at least 10 per cent of the assets of the credit union.

- (2) A newly registered credit union shall establish and maintain an initial reserve requirement that:
 - (a) is sufficient to meet the credit union's anticipated growth over 3 years;
 - (b) takes account of operating losses that can be expected to occur until the credit union reaches an operationally viable performance level; and
 - (c) is at least equal to the greater of:
 - (i) €10,000; or
 - (ii) minimum regulatory reserve requirement specified in paragraph (1).

Reporting Requirements

5. (1) A credit union shall monitor its reserves on a continuous basis to ensure compliance with this Part and section 45 of the Act.
- (2) Where a credit union fails, or is likely to fail, to comply with its reserve requirement in this Part or section 45 of the Act, the credit union shall notify the Bank in writing no later than close of business of the next business day.

Dividends

6. Where a credit union has complied with the requirements in this Part and section 45 of the Act, but has recorded a deficit in its annual accounts and is proposing to pay a dividend and/or a loan interest rebate, the credit union shall inform the Bank in writing at least 3 weeks before it gives notice of its Annual General Meeting, as required under section 80(3) of the Act.

3. Guidance

3.1 Initial Reserve Requirement

A newly registered credit union will have zero or close to no assets. As the regulatory reserve requirement is calculated as a percentage of total assets, a newly established credit union could have a regulatory reserve requirement of zero or close to zero. An initial reserve requirement is necessary to ensure that a newly registered credit union has adequate reserves to meet the credit union's anticipated growth and to take account of operating losses that can be expected to occur until the credit union reaches an operationally viable performance level. Until such time as a new credit union's regulatory reserve requirement exceeds €10,000 they are required to hold an initial reserve of €10,000.

The amount a newly registered credit union is required to hold in initial reserves will be determined on a case by case basis taking account of factors including the proposed business model, common bond, financial information and projections and the credit union's strategic plan. The minimum amount that a newly registered credit union will be required to hold in initial reserves is €10,000.

The initial reserve requirement is not additional to the regulatory reserve requirement. Reserves held for the regulatory reserve requirement also qualify as reserves for the purposes of the initial reserve requirement. When a credit union's regulatory reserve requirement equals or exceeds the initial reserve requirement the requirement to hold an initial reserve will fall away.

3.2 Regulatory Reserve Requirement

Adequate reserves support a credit union's operations, provide a base for future growth and protect against the risk of unforeseen losses. Credit unions need to maintain sufficient reserves to ensure continuity and to protect members' savings.

Regulatory reserves are required to meet the definition of reserves, set out in section 45 of the 1997 Act, as inserted by section 13 of the 2012 Act and to have the characteristics set out in regulation 3 of the Regulations. Commencement of section 13 of the 2012 Act, has removed any reference to the requirement for credit unions to hold a statutory reserve from the 1997 Act.

The regulatory reserve requirement sets out the minimum reserve requirement for credit unions. However, credit unions are expected to operate with a level of reserves above the regulatory reserve minimum requirement. It is for the board of directors of each credit union to decide on the amount of reserves to hold in excess of this minimum requirement having taken prudent account of the scale and complexity of the credit union's business, its risk profile and prevailing market conditions.

Notwithstanding that credit unions are no longer required to maintain a statutory reserve, credit unions are expected to continue to allocate surplus funds to maintain reserves at an appropriate level having taken prudent account of the scale and complexity of the credit union's business, its risk profile and prevailing market conditions.

The Central Bank expects that credit unions whose total regulatory reserves are currently in excess of 10 per cent of total assets will continue to maintain reserves at existing levels on the basis that these continue to reflect the board of directors' assessment of the appropriate level of reserves for the credit union.

3.3 Operational Risk Reserve

Credit unions are required to hold reserves in relation to operational risk. The reserves that credit unions hold against operational risk are separate, distinct and in addition to the reserves that the credit union is required to hold under the regulatory reserve requirement. All reserves that are held as operational risk reserves must have the characteristics, set out in regulation 3 of the Regulations.

Where operational risks are identified in a credit union the credit union's priority should be the mitigation of these risks through the implementation of appropriate processes and controls. The existence of an operational risk reserve does not impact on the need to appropriately mitigate operational risks.

When determining the appropriate level of operational risk reserves for a credit union, credit unions should assess the level of operational risk they are exposed to. The Central Bank expects that the amount the credit union is to hold in its operational risk reserve would be based, at a minimum, on the predicted impact of operational risk events that may have a material impact on the credit union's business. This will be impacted by the business mix and risk profile of the activities being undertaken in the credit union. This assessment may be supported by considering available information including:

- operational risks identified by internal processes:
 - operational risks to which the credit union is exposed, as identified by the Risk Management Officer and risk management system including operational risks recorded on the credit union's risk register;
 - reports of the internal auditor;
 - reports of the compliance officer;
 - the Annual Compliance Statement; and
 - previous operational risk events including inadequate or failed internal processes or systems of the credit union;
- operational risks identified in external reports:
 - reports from external consultants;
 - external auditor management letter issues;

- relevant asset review findings; and
- reports from whistle-blowers;
- other operational risk considerations:
 - implementation of the credit union's operational risk management system including the effectiveness of the credit union's internal control systems; and
 - external events.

Existing reserves in excess of 10 per cent of total assets may be allocated to the operational risk reserve where the board of directors have determined that it is appropriate to do so having taken account of the appropriate level of reserves for the credit union, taking prudent account of the scale and complexity of the credit union's business, its risk profile and prevailing market conditions.

3.4 Reserve Management Policy

The reserve management policy should cover the following at a minimum:

- objectives of the policy;
- organisational arrangements setting out the roles and responsibilities of officers involved in reserve management;
- strategy setting out the quantity and quality of reserves to be maintained by the credit union over time, including the setting of reserve targets, to protect the credit union against unexpected losses taking account of:
 - the regulatory reserve requirement to be maintained by the credit union in compliance with the 1997 Act, the 2012 Act, the Regulations and any regulations made thereunder;
 - the risk profile of the credit union including the level of credit, market and operational risk in the credit union;
 - the risk tolerance of the credit union;
 - any reserve buffers the credit union requires such as a reserve conservation buffer;¹
 - additional reserves required to support the strategic plan of the credit union; and
 - the current economic climate and business operating environment;
- plans for the generation of any additional reserves required to support the above;
- dividend and loan interest rebate policy;
- procedures for:
 - complying with minimum legal and regulatory requirements and guidance in relation to reserves;
 - monitoring, reviewing and reporting on the credit union's reserves position against reserves targets; and

ReservesPublication date: September 2024

- regular stress testing of reserves and scenario analysis taking account of potential risks;
- contingency plans to be put in place if reserve targets are not met, including:
 - actions to be taken to protect the credit union's reserves position such as changes to dividend and loan interest rebate policy;
 - raising of additional reserves, if necessary; and
 - notifying the Central Bank where reserves fall below the regulatory minimum;
- reporting arrangements, including the frequency, form and content of reporting on the adequacy of reserves to the board of directors; and
- the process and timelines for the approval, review and update of the reserve management policy by the board of directors.

Credit unions should ensure that any significant deviations from the reserve management policy, the reasons for these deviations and proposed action to address the deviations are communicated to the board of directors in accordance with the reporting arrangements set out in the reserve management policy.

3.5 Reporting Requirements

Where a credit union is notifying the Central Bank that it is failing, or likely to fail to comply, with the reserve requirement under the Regulations or section 45 of the 1997 Act the credit union should set out the steps it proposes to take to restore the reserve requirement and indicate the timeframe in which the reserve requirement will return to compliance.

1.3 Guidance

A credit union's risk management system should include policies, processes and controls that provide adequate, timely and continuous identification, assessment, measurement, monitoring, management and reporting of risks that the credit union is, or might reasonably be exposed to, through its current activities and the external environment.

A credit union should document its risk tolerance statement, setting out the quantified level of risk that the credit union is willing to accept in various risk areas in pursuit of its strategic objectives. There is an important link between a credit union's strategies or goals and its risk tolerance. A credit union's strategic goals should be aligned with its risk tolerance. Risks within a credit union's risk management system should be managed and mitigated to ensure that they are consistent with the credit union's risk tolerance and commensurate with its sound operation, financial strength and strategic objectives.

The board of directors should promote a strong risk management culture within the credit union, including the communication of the policies, roles and responsibilities relating to risk management to all officers of the credit union.

The risk management system, which shall be clearly set out and documented, should cover the following at a minimum:

- a risk management policy;
- a risk management process;
- a risk register;
- systems and controls; and
- review by the board of directors.

1.4 Risk management policy

The risk management policy should cover the following at a minimum:

- the objectives of the risk management policy;
- organisational arrangements setting out the roles and responsibilities of officers involved in risk management including the board of directors, manager and risk management officer;
- the risk tolerance statement of the credit union;
- the risk management process including how risks are identified, assessed, measured, monitored, and managed and the nature and extent of reporting and oversight of this process;
- reporting arrangements, including the frequency, form and content of reporting of risks to the board of directors and the manager; and

- the process and timelines for the approval, review and update of the risk management policy by the board of directors.

The risk management officer should communicate any significant deviations from the risk management policy, the reasons for these deviations and proposed action to address the deviations to the board of directors (or the risk committee where one exists) and the manager where appropriate.

The board of directors should ensure that the risk management policy is communicated to all officers of the credit union.

1.5 Risk management process

The key elements of a risk management process should include the following:

1.5.1 Identification

Risk identification should provide a comprehensive 'credit union-wide' view of risk across all material risk types relevant to a credit union. It would be expected that areas of risk to be considered when identifying risk for each credit union would include the following at a minimum:

- Capital risk: capital is required to act as a cushion to absorb losses arising from business operations and to allow a credit union to remain solvent under challenging conditions. Capital risk arises mainly as a result of the quality or quantity of capital available, the sensitivity of a credit union's exposures to external shocks, the level of capital planning and the capital management process. Capital risk could potentially impair a credit union's ability to meet its obligations in an adverse situation;
- Credit risk: credit risk is the risk of financial loss arising from a borrower, issuer, guarantor or counterparty that may fail to meet its obligations in accordance with agreed terms. Credit risk arises anytime credit union funds are extended, committed or otherwise exposed;
- Environmental risk: environmental risk encompasses all risks to the credit union stemming from its external operating environment. This includes risks arising from the macro-economy and credit union sector specific risks;
- Governance risk: governance covers the overall oversight and control mechanisms which a credit union has in place to ensure that it is soundly and prudently managed. It refers in particular to the processes, structures and information flows which are used to allow the board of directors and management to satisfy themselves that effective control mechanisms are in place to protect all stakeholders. Governance risk may arise from factors including:

- failure to establish documented governance arrangements setting out clear organisational structures with well-defined transparent and consistent reporting lines and roles, responsibilities and accountabilities;
 - the quality of the board of directors, management and committees;
 - lack of transparency in decision making;
 - conflicts of interest; and
 - inadequate succession planning.
- Liquidity risk: liquidity risk is the risk that a credit union will not be able to fund its current and future expected and unexpected cash outflows as they fall due without incurring significant losses. This may occur even where the credit union is solvent. Examples of liquidity risk include loss of existing funding, new lending or investments and timing mismatches between asset maturities/realisation and liability cash flows;
 - Market risk: market risk is the risk that the value of an investment will decrease. This risk can arise from fluctuations in values of, or income from, assets or changes in interest rates;
 - Operational risk:¹ operational risk means the risk of loss (financial or otherwise) resulting from -
 - inadequate or failed internal processes or systems of the credit union;
 - any failure by persons connected with the credit union;
 - legal risk (including exposure to fines, penalties or damages as well as associated legal costs); or
 - external events;but does not include reputational risk. Examples of operational risks include hardware or software failures, inadequate business continuity plans, misuse of confidential information, data entry errors and natural disasters; and
 - Strategy/business model risk: strategy/business model risk refers to the risk which credit unions face if they cannot compete effectively or operate a viable business model. Strategy/business model risk also includes the inherent risk in the credit union's strategy. Risks in a credit union's strategy may include projections based on unrealistic assumptions, risks arising from transfers of engagements or amalgamations and/or risks arising from taking on significant additional business activities. Strategy/business model risk may also arise from ineffective implementation of strategies.

1.5.2 Assessment and measurement

Risk assessment and measurement includes considering the likelihood of a risk occurring and the potential impact of the risk on the credit union. The product of likelihood and impact of a risk occurring provides the credit union with a risk rating, which indicates the magnitude or severity of a risk. In assessing and measuring risks, consideration should be given to potential impact on the regulatory reserve position of the credit union.

When assessing and measuring risk, consideration should be given by the credit union to inherent risk and residual risk. Inherent risk represents the risk posed before the systems and controls which relate to the risk are considered. Residual risk represents the level of risk after consideration of the effectiveness of systems and controls that the credit union has put in place to manage and mitigate the risk.

The credit union should ensure that the risk information collected is appropriate, complete and in a standardised format that will facilitate a complete examination of risks across the credit union. A risk register provides a standardised format for the management of information relating to identified risks.

1.5.3 Management

In order to manage risk, the credit union should develop, adopt, implement, monitor, document and maintain systems and controls to manage inherent risk. This should be done by the manager with the assistance of the risk management officer. The credit union should analyse the effectiveness of the systems and controls that the credit union has put in place and assess the residual risks to ensure that these are consistent with the credit union's risk tolerance.

1.5.4 Monitoring

The credit union should monitor significant risks on an ongoing basis to ensure that risks are actively managed and should ensure that timely action is taken, where appropriate, to reduce risk to acceptable levels. This should include the identification of new and emerging risks and take account of any proposals in relation to new products and services, material modifications to existing products and services and major management initiatives. Changes in the external environment should also be monitored. This should also include an assessment of existing risks to ensure that risk ratings and systems and controls remain appropriate.

1.5.5 Reporting

The risk management officer should provide reports on a monthly basis to the board of directors (or risk committee where one exists). Copies of these reports should be provided to the manager.

Reports should cover the following at a minimum:

- significant risks and the effectiveness of systems and controls;

- any risk events that have occurred and the actions taken or proposed to mitigate the risk;
- likely or actual deviations from risk tolerance levels or established systems and controls and should include the timeframe and status of any activities that are proposed to address these;
- any negative trends in higher risk areas and any recommended changes to risk management activities;
- any new risks including their risk assessment, risk rating and systems and controls;
- any material emerging risks and recommended course of action;
- updates on risk management actions arising from previous reports that have been approved by the board of directors (or risk committee where one exists); and
- any recommended remedial action required.

Where a significant risk event occurs, the risk management officer should bring this to the attention of the board of directors (or risk committee where one exists) immediately. The board of directors should ensure that any risks arising from the risk event are managed and mitigated in a timely manner.

1.6 Risk register

A risk register should cover the following at a minimum, for all risks identified:

- risk description;
- risk area;
- inherent impact of risk;
- inherent probability of risk;
- inherent risk rating;
- risk mitigating systems and controls;
- systems and controls owners;
- effectiveness of systems and controls;
- residual impact of risk;
- residual probability of risk; and
- residual risk rating.

1.7 Systems and controls

In order to manage and mitigate the risks identified by the risk management system, systems and controls should be put in place by a credit union. Such systems and controls should, at a minimum, enable the credit union to:

- safeguard its assets and members' savings;
- ensure compliance with all applicable legal and regulatory requirements and guidance;

- protect against fraud, misstatement and error;
- provide assurance as to the reliability and completeness of financial and management information;
- counter any risk that the credit union might be used to further financial crime; and
- promote the efficient use of resources within the credit union.

Systems and controls should be an integral part of the daily activities of a credit union. An effective systems and controls structure should be established by the credit union, with systems and controls for every business area. At an operational level such systems and controls should include the following at a minimum:

- checking for compliance with limits and follow up on non-compliance;
- a system of approvals and authorisations;
- a system of verification and reconciliation;
- appropriate segregation of duties including ensuring that personnel are not assigned conflicting responsibilities;
- accurate, timely, accessible, consistent and comprehensive management information including internal financial, operational and compliance information and external market information about events and conditions that are relevant to decision making;
- secure, reliable information systems in place that cover all significant activities of the credit union and are supported by adequate contingency arrangements;
- approval processes in place where the credit union proposes to introduce new products or services; and
- effective channels of communication to ensure officers fully understand and adhere to policies and procedures affecting their duties and responsibilities.

1.8 Review by the board of directors

In reviewing the risk management system the board of directors should review the following at a minimum:

- the risk management policy;
- the risk management process;
- the risk register; and
- systems and controls.

The review by the board of directors should be informed by the following at a minimum:

- risk events;
- changes in the financial position of the credit union;
- changes in the external environment; and

- any changes to the credit union’s strategic plan. This should include any proposals in relation to new products and services, material modifications to existing products and services, such as outsourcing to service providers and major management initiatives, such as transfers of engagements or amalgamations.

The board of directors should ensure that any steps necessary to address deficiencies identified in the risk management system are taken, including deficiencies identified in systems and controls.

1. Legislation

Section 27 – Raising of funds by shares and deposits*

(1) A credit union may raise funds to be used for its objects—

(a) by the issue to its members of shares in the credit union (which may be withdrawable or non-withdrawable), and

(b) by the acceptance of money on deposit from a member, and the cumulative amount of such shares in, and money on deposit (if any) with, the credit union is referred to in this Act as 'savings'.

(2) For the adequate protection of the savings of members of credit unions the Bank may prescribe requirements and limits for savings, including—

(a) the maximum amount of savings (expressed as a monetary amount or as a percentage of some monetary amount or determinable monetary amount) or category of savings a credit union member may hold,

(b) the ratio of total deposits from members that may be held by a credit union to total shares issued to members, and

(c) any other requirement or limit which the Bank considers necessary to prescribe.

(3) In prescribing matters for the purposes of this section, the Bank shall have regard to the need to ensure that the requirements imposed by the regulations made by it are effective and proportionate having regard to the nature, scale and complexity of credit unions, or the category or categories of credit unions, to which the regulations will apply.

Section 27A- Protection of members' savings*

(1) In addition to its reporting functions under the Credit Union Acts 1997 to 2012 and complying with any matter prescribed under those Acts, a credit union shall maintain appropriate oversight, policies, procedures, processes, practices, systems, controls, skills, expertise and reporting arrangements to ensure the protection of members' savings and that it complies with requirements imposed under the financial services legislation.

- (2) Without prejudice to the generality of subsection (1), the Bank may make regulations prescribing-
- (a) certain oversight, policies, procedures, processes, practices, systems, controls, skills, expertise and reporting arrangements which the credit union is required to maintain where the Bank considers this is appropriate in the interest of protecting members' savings or otherwise appropriate to ensure compliance with the requirements imposed under financial services legislation;
 - (b) requirements in relation to the oversight, policies, procedures, processes, practices, systems, controls, skills, expertise and reporting arrangements required to be maintained under this section.

Section 28 - Shares: general provisions

- (1) All shares in a credit union shall be of €1 denomination and, subject to the rules of the credit union, may be subscribed for either in full or by periodical or other subscriptions, but no share shall be allotted to a member until it has been fully paid in cash.
- (2) A credit union shall not issue to a member a certificate denoting ownership of a share.
- (3) All withdrawable shares in a credit union shall have equal rights.
- (4) All non-withdrawable shares in a credit union shall have equal rights, and repayments in respect of such shares shall not be capable of being made except as provided by this Act.
- (5) ≠ Notwithstanding subsection (1), whenever its board of directors so recommends, a credit union may apply any sum standing to the credit of its reserves (other than the reserves required to be held under section 45) to the payment up of shares, and may issue the shares to members as fully paid-up bonus shares in the proportions to which the members would have been entitled if the sum concerned had been distributed by way of dividend.

Section 29 – Transfer of shares

- (1) A member of a credit union may transfer a share in the credit union to another member so long as—

- (a) the number of shares held by that other member does not exceed the limit imposed under this Act; and
- (b) if the credit union so requires in any case, the transfer has the approval of the credit union.
- (2) No charge shall be made by a credit union in respect of a transfer of shares by a member, and such a transfer shall entitle the transferee to any dividends in respect of the transferred shares which are unpaid at the date of the transfer.
- (3) If, in a case where the credit union has imposed a requirement under subsection (1)(b), the credit union refuses to approve the proposed transfer of shares in the credit union by a member, the member may appeal against the refusal to a Judge of the District Court for the district in which the registered office of the credit union is situated.
- (4) Notice of appeal under subsection (3) shall be in writing and shall set out the grounds on which the appeal is based; and, on the hearing of the appeal, the District Court may either confirm the refusal or direct the credit union to approve the transfer.
- (5) A decision of the District Court on an appeal under subsection (3) shall be final, except that any question of law arising on the appeal may be referred to the Court for its determination; and, by leave of the Court, an appeal shall lie to the Supreme Court from every such determination.

Section 30 – Dividends on shares

- (1) At each annual general meeting of a credit union, a dividend on shares, not exceeding the permitted maximum, may be declared in respect of the preceding financial year by a resolution passed by a majority of the members present and voting.
- (2) A dividend so declared shall be paid on all shares in the credit union but, in the case of shares which have been held during part only of the financial year to which the dividend relates, only a proportional part of the dividend shall be paid and, in determining such a proportional part, a part of a month may be disregarded.
- (3) The permitted maximum referred to in subsection (1) is ten per cent. of the nominal value of the shares of the credit union or such other percentage of that value as may for the time being be prescribed.

- (4) The rate of dividend declared under subsection (1) shall not exceed the rate recommended to the members by the board of directors.
- (5) No dividend on shares shall be paid otherwise than out of—
- (a) ≠ surplus funds in respect of the year in question which are available for that purpose and have been accumulated after meeting the requirements to hold reserves in accordance with section 45; or
- (b) a reserve set aside previous years to provide for dividends.

Section 31 – Interest on deposits

- (1) Subject to subsections (2) and (3), a credit union may pay interest on deposits at different rates determined from time to time by the board of directors.
- (2) The rate of any interest payable at any time by a credit union on deposits of a particular class shall be the same for all deposits of that class.
- (3) ≠A credit union shall ensure that the rate of interest offered at any time on deposits of any class does not exceed the rate of return received by the credit union from the employment of its funds, whether in the form of loans or investments.

Section 32 – Restrictions on the withdrawal of shares and deposits

- (1) Notwithstanding anything in the rules of a credit union or in any contract, a credit union may require not less than 60 days' notice from a member of the member's intention to withdraw a share in the credit union and a member may not withdraw any shares at a time when a claim due on account of deposits is unsatisfied.
- (2) Notwithstanding anything in the rules of a credit union or in any contract, a credit union may require not less than 21 days' notice from a member of the member's intention to withdraw a deposit.
- (3) ≠(a) If a member of a credit union seeks to withdraw savings in the credit union at a time when the member has an outstanding liability (including a contingent liability) to the credit union, whether as borrower, guarantor or otherwise, that withdrawal shall only be permitted—
- (i) if the savings are not attached savings; or

(ii) where the savings are attached savings, if the withdrawal of such attached savings is approved by the credit committee or a credit officer.

(b) Any savings that existed in the credit union immediately before the commencement of this provision (inserted by the Credit Union and Cooperation with Overseas Regulators Act 2012) that were not withdrawable under this subsection immediately before that commencement shall be treated as attached savings after that commencement.

(c) Where the outstanding liability reduces below the level of attached savings, the amount of the attached savings shall not be greater than the outstanding balance of the loan.

(d) In this subsection—

'attached savings' means a share in, or deposit with, a credit union which is pledged in writing by a member as security for a loan at the time of the issuing of the loan to the member or guaranteed by the member;

'savings' means a share in, or deposit with, the credit union.

(4) If the Bank sees fit to do so in the circumstances of a credit union, it may, on such terms as it thinks proper, by notice in writing addressed to the credit union provide that subsection (3) shall apply in relation to the credit union with the substitution of a higher or lower percentage than that for the time being applicable to the credit union under that subsection.

(5) Where a member of a credit union is indebted to the credit union and consents in writing to the credit union acting under this subsection, the credit union may, by way of set-off against the indebtedness, withdraw any of the member's shares or deposits; and such a withdrawal may be made notwithstanding anything in subsections (2) and (3).

3. Guidance

3.1 Savings Limit

The individual member savings limit of €100,000 in the Regulations applies on a per member basis. In calculating the total savings of each individual credit union member, the credit union needs to take account of monies held by each member in the credit union across all types of accounts held by the member. This means that each member can only hold savings up to the total savings limit of €100,000 regardless of the number of accounts that the member holds. In general, savings in excess of €100,000 must be repaid to members. The repayment should be made as soon as possible and in any event within 12 months of the commencement of the Regulations.

The following are examples of the types of accounts that are included when calculating the total savings held by an individual member in a credit union:

- deposit accounts;
- share accounts;
- dormant accounts;
- joint accounts;
- saving stamps;
- budget accounts;
- clubs / associations;
- minor accounts.

The Central Bank expects that credit unions maintain sufficient records to ensure that money in all accounts can be attributed to individual members.

3.1.1 Joint accounts

Where a member holds one or more accounts in the credit union, the limit on individual member savings applies on an aggregate basis, regardless of the manner in which savings are held in the credit union. Money in joint accounts is assumed to be split equally unless evidence shows that it should be split otherwise. The Central Bank expects credit unions to maintain sufficient records to ensure that members and their associated savings can be readily identified for calculation of total savings held by each individual member.

3.1.2 Saving stamps

Under the Regulations, credit unions are required to maintain adequate records to allow savings stamps to be attributed to individual member accounts. In calculating the total savings a member holds in the credit union the amount a member holds in savings stamps needs to be taken into account. This includes savings stamps held in both hardcopy and on virtual cards. The Central Bank expects that savings stamps are non-transferable between members and each saving stamp issued is attributable to an individual member.

3.1.3 Budget accounts

Where a credit union member holds a budget account, any positive balance in this account is included in the total members' savings calculation. Where this account is in a negative balance, the total amount overdrawn from the account is not taken into account when calculating total members' savings.

3.1.4 Clubs / associations

Where clubs and associations hold savings in a credit union, the savings limit applies in respect of the total savings of the club or association. The club or association is treated as a single member for the purposes of applying the individual members' savings limit.

3.1.5 Minor accounts

Where a minor has an account in their own name, where a member is the signatory on the account, the individual member's savings limit applies in respect of the minor, whose name is on the account.

3.2 Calculation of the Savings Limit

The following are matters that credit unions should consider in relation to the application of the individual member's savings limit:

- interest payable / payment of dividends;
- attached savings.

3.2.1 Interest payable / Payment of Dividends

Where payment of interest or a dividend would result in an individual member's savings exceeding €100,000 the Central Bank expects the credit union to take steps to avoid this situation arising. Credit unions should give consideration to paying out such amounts to the member to avoid such breaches occurring.

3.2.2 Attached savings

Attached savings are to be included when calculating the total savings held by an individual member in a credit union.

3.3 Savings Club Accounts

Where a credit union operates a savings club account it should remain cognisant to the risks posed by such accounts including operational and reputational risks. A credit union may operate a savings club account where pooled savings of members of the credit union are held in one account. Typically, such accounts will be opened by two or more credit union members who will be named signatories on the account. These members will collect savings from other members of the credit union and deposit these in the account over a defined period of time. When this defined period has expired, the named signatories on the account will withdraw all funds in the account and return these funds to the individual members/savers (in the proportion with which they saved the funds over the defined period). Typically such accounts operate as Christmas savings clubs which are opened in January with disbursements in December of each year.

The Central Bank expects credit unions to have operational procedures in place for such accounts in order to ensure compliance with all legislative and regulatory requirements including the Credit Union Act, 1997, the Credit Union 1997 (Regulatory Requirements) Regulations 2016 and the Criminal Justice (Money Laundering and Terrorist Finance) Act 2010, as amended.

The guidance set out below should be followed at a minimum by all credit unions who operate savings club accounts of this nature. Only where a credit union is in a position to ensure that the below guidance can be followed should savings club accounts of this nature be operated.

- (1) The credit union should maintain a written policy which details the procedures for the operation of savings club accounts. This policy should be approved by the board of directors and reviewed at least every three years.

This policy should at a minimum outline:

- (i) The organisational arrangements setting out the roles and responsibilities in relation to the operation of savings club accounts;
- (ii) The minimum number of account holders required for each savings club operated by the credit union;
- (iii) The operational procedures to be followed in the credit union in relation to the receipt and disbursement of funds from the savings club;
- (iv) The maximum amount which may be accepted into any savings club account, both in aggregate and from any individual saver. This should be determined in accordance with the credit union's risk appetite and to ensure compliance with all regulatory requirements and must take account of other savings which are held by members of the savings club with the credit union. This is particularly relevant in the context of ensuring compliance with the €100,000 individual member savings limit prescribed by Regulation 35 of the 2016 Regulations or any approval granted under Regulation 36 of the 2016 Regulations;
- (v) Any operational risks posed by the operation of a savings club and the risk mitigants proposed by the credit union to address such risks including ensuring that the operation of the savings club by the account holders of the savings club is operated to ensure that the savings of the beneficial owners of the funds (i.e. the relevant member) in the savings club are protected at all times;
- (vi) The dividend policy in relation to savings club accounts;
- (vii) Operational procedures for disbursements from savings club accounts. The Central Bank would expect that disbursements from savings club accounts are made payable to the beneficial owner of the funds (i.e. the relevant member) only in order to minimise the risk of misappropriation of saving club members' funds; and
- (viii) Details on the customer due diligence to be undertaken on all members of the savings club to ensure compliance with AML legislation.

(2) The credit union should ensure that a comprehensive and up to date list is maintained which includes the name and address of each member of each savings club.

(3) The credit union should ensure that, at any point in time, the monies owed to each individual member of an individual savings club can be clearly identified.

(4) A monthly reconciliation should be undertaken of each savings club account to ensure that the beneficial owners of all savings held in the account are known.

(5) The credit union should ensure that the monies held by an individual member with the credit union and the monies held by that individual member within a savings club can be readily identified for the purposes of assessing compliance with the €100,000 individual member savings limit, where applicable.

(6) The credit union should ensure that appropriate documentation is maintained on file for each individual member of the savings club for the purposes of assessing compliance with AML legislation.

(7) For the purposes of Prudential Return reporting to the Central Bank, the credit union should report the total savings held by each individual member in the credit union and this should include the savings held by the credit union member in a savings club account where applicable.

(8) A reconciliation should be performed at the end of each year or at the end of the defined period over which the savings club has operated to ensure that all monies received into the savings club account have been reimbursed to the individual members of the savings club in accordance with the amounts saved by each individual member of the savings club.

Where a credit union operates savings club accounts the Central Bank expects that such accounts and the operational procedures in relation to these accounts would be subject to periodic reviews by the internal audit function in the credit union with reports on the same supplied to the board of directors for review.

- (4) The functions of the manager of a credit union include the following:

- (a) without prejudice to the exercise by the board of directors of its functions under subsection (1)(a) of section 55, preparing and proposing to the board of directors for debate, scrutiny and approval, strategies for the strategic plan that the board of directors are required to prepare and approve under that subsection;
- ...
- (b) implementing the strategies agreed by the board of directors to the standards set out in the strategic plan or as otherwise required by the board of directors;

...

2. Guidance

2.1 Preparation of the strategic plan

The board of directors of the credit union should ensure the following are considered, at a minimum, when the strategic plan is being prepared and proposed strategies are being identified:

- the goals and objectives of the credit union;
- analysis of the credit union's economic, social, technological and competitive environment including:
 - the current economic climate and economic forecasts; and
 - the evolving market conditions and current and anticipated member product and service needs;
- a comprehensive and realistic appraisal of the existing business model, including analysis of the credit union's income and expenditure and financial position, membership and common bond, competitive capabilities, governance arrangements, risk management and operational capabilities;
- the regulatory framework including upcoming changes in legal and regulatory requirements and guidance;
- the risk tolerance of the credit union and the risks that the credit union is, or might reasonably be, exposed to; and
- the outcome of independent reports and evaluations such as any reports made by the auditor, asset reviews, operational reviews, internal audit reports, inspection reports and any other third party report.

2.2 The strategic plan

The board of directors should determine the feasibility of any proposed strategies, including strategies proposed by the manager, and identify the cost and benefit of each strategy. This should include financial analysis supported by assumptions. The assumptions should be documented and include an explanation for the basis of the assumptions. The board of directors should challenge any assumptions made to ensure they are realistic.

When considering strategies, including proposals for new products or services, material modifications to existing products and services, or major management initiatives, the board of directors should ensure any risks associated with the strategies are identified and assessed and that the risk management system required under section 76B of the 1997 Act and other relevant areas are reviewed and updated.²

The board of directors should ensure that the strategic plan is communicated to all officers of the credit union.

2.3 Strategies and policies for achieving strategic objectives

The strategies and policies for achieving the strategic objectives of the credit union should be set out clearly in the strategic plan and should cover the following at a minimum:

- the activities to be undertaken to implement the objectives;
- organisational arrangements for the implementation of the strategic plan, setting out the roles and responsibilities of officers of the credit union;
- standards for the implementation of strategies by the manager;
- targets and criteria for assessing the performance of the credit union against the strategic plan; and
- reporting arrangements, including the frequency, form and content of reporting to the board of directors on the implementation of the strategic plan.

2.4 Maintaining adequate resources

The strategic plan should include an assessment of key financial and non-financial resources needed to support the activities undertaken or to be undertaken in the strategic plan. This assessment should have regard to the nature, scale, complexity and risk profile of the credit union. In ensuring that the credit union maintains adequate resources in relation to the nature, scale and complexity of activities to be undertaken by the credit union, the board of directors should ensure that the information systems are appropriate to support those objectives, as required under section 76G(2) of the 1997 Act.³

2.5 Monitoring implementation of the strategic plan and reviewing performance against the strategic plan

The board of directors should monitor the credit union's implementation of the strategic plan and should review the performance of the credit union against the strategic plan on a regular basis, at least quarterly. In monitoring implementation of, and reviewing the performance of the credit union against, the strategic plan the board of directors should, at a minimum:

² See the Chapter on "Risk Management and Compliance".

³ See the Chapter on "Operational Risk".

- receive reports from the manager on the implementation of the strategic plan, including the credit union's actual financial performance in comparison to the financial projections contained in the strategic plan; and
- assess the performance of the credit union against targets and criteria set out in the strategic plan.

The board of directors should ensure it receives timely reports of any deviations from financial projections, targets or criteria set out in the strategic plan so that they may be discussed by the board of directors at an early stage.

The board of directors should also ensure that necessary actions are taken to address any deviations from financial projections, targets or criteria set out in the strategic plan.

2.6 Review of the strategic plan by the board of directors to ensure continued relevance

In reviewing the strategic plan, at least annually, the board of directors should, in addition to guidance under the "Preparation of the strategic plan" Section of this Chapter, consider the following at a minimum:

- outcomes of the review of the credit union's performance against the measurements defined in the strategic plan;
- risk events that have occurred;
- any proposals in relation to new products and services, material modifications to existing products and services, such as outsourcing to service providers and major management initiatives, such as transfers of engagements or amalgamations; and
- changes in the financial position of the credit union.

Following this review, the board of directors should update the strategic plan as necessary to take account of the above.

Where a significant event occurs outside of the formal review process that could affect implementation of the strategic plan, the strategic plan should be reviewed and updated to take account of this event.

1. Legislation

Section 128 – Amalgamations of credit unions

- (1) Subject to compliance with section 130, any two or more credit unions may amalgamate by forming a credit union as their successor.
- (2) In order to form a credit union as their successor the amalgamating credit unions shall—
 - (a) agree on the rules for the regulation of their successor which comply with the requirements of the First Schedule;
 - (b) each approve the terms of the amalgamation by a special resolution, which also approves the rules of their successor; and
 - (c) jointly make an application under section 131 to the Bank for the confirmation of the amalgamation and send to the Bank three copies of the rules of their successor, each copy signed by the secretary of each of the credit unions.
- (3) If the Bank—
 - (a) confirms the amalgamation under section 131, and
 - (b) is satisfied as respects the matters as to which it must be satisfied before it registers the rules of a credit union, the Bank shall register the rules of the successor credit union and issue to it a certificate of confirmation of its approval of the amalgamation and specify a date ("the specified date") as from which the registration takes effect.
- (4) On the specified date, all the property, rights and liabilities of each of the credit unions whose amalgamation was confirmed by the Bank shall by virtue of this subsection stand transferred to and vested in the credit union so registered as their successor.
- (5) On the specified date, each of the credit unions to which the successor succeeds shall be dissolved by virtue of this subsection; but the transfer effected by subsection (4) shall be deemed to have been effected immediately before the dissolution.

Section 129 – Transfer of engagements between credit unions

(1) Subject to compliance with section 130, a credit union may transfer its engagements to another credit union which, in accordance with this section, undertakes to fulfil the engagements.

(2) A credit union, in order—

(a) to transfer its engagements, or

(b) to undertake to fulfil the engagements of another credit union, shall resolve to do so by a special resolution or, if the Bank consents in either case in circumstances where it considers it expedient to do so, by a resolution of the board of directors.

(3) The transfer shall be recorded in an instrument of transfer of engagements.

(4) A transfer of engagements between credit unions shall be of no effect unless—

(a) the transfer is confirmed by the Bank under section 131; and

(b) a certificate of confirmation of the transfer is issued in respect of the transfer under subsection (5)(b).

(5) Where the Bank confirms a transfer of engagements between credit unions, it shall—

(a) register a copy of the instrument of transfer of engagements; and

(b) issue to the credit union taking the transfer a certificate of confirmation of the transfer;

and, on such date as is specified in the certificate, all the property, rights and liabilities of the credit union transferring its engagements shall, by virtue of this subsection, stand transferred to and vested in the credit union taking the transfer.

(6) Where its engagements have been transferred, a credit union shall, by virtue of this subsection, be dissolved on the date specified in the certificate issued under subsection (5)(b); but the transfer effected by subsection (5) shall be deemed to have been effected immediately before the dissolution.

(7) (a) Where the engagements of a credit union (in this subsection referred to as the 'transferor credit union') are transferred to another credit union (in this subsection referred to as the 'transferee credit union'), the common bond of the transferee credit union is taken to include the common bond of the transferor credit union and the rules of the transferee credit union are amended accordingly, on and from the date on which the transfer takes effect in accordance with this section.

(b) Section 14 shall not apply to the amendment of the rules of the transferee credit union effected by paragraph (a).

Section 130 – Statement for members relating to proposed amalgamation or transfer of engagements

(1) ‡ A credit union which proposes—

(a) to amalgamate with one or more other credit unions,

(b) to transfer its engagements to another credit union, or

(c) to undertake to fulfil the engagements of another credit union, shall, subject to subsection (2), cause to be sent to every member entitled to notice of a general meeting of the credit union and to the auditor of the credit union a statement, in such form as the Bank may specify in writing, showing the matters specified in subsection (3), together with a copy of the annual accounts for each credit union concerned for the most recent financial year.

(2) ‡ If, in the case of a credit union proposing to transfer its engagements or to fulfil the engagements of another credit union, the Bank has consented under section 129 to the credit union proceeding by a resolution of its board of directors, subsection (1) shall not apply but, within the seven days following the meeting of the board at which that resolution is passed, the secretary of the credit union shall send to every member and to the auditor of the credit union—

(a) a notice of the resolution passed by the board of directors,

(b) a statement, in such form as the Bank may prescribe, showing the matters specified in subsection (3), and

(c) a copy of the annual accounts for each credit union concerned for the most recent financial year.

(3) The matters referred to in subsection (1) are—

(a) the financial position of each credit union concerned (as appearing from the most recent unaudited monthly statements);

(b) details of any payments proposed to be made to members of each credit union concerned in consideration of the proposed amalgamation or transfer;

(c) any changes to be made, in connection with the amalgamation or transfer, in the terms governing outstanding loans;

(d) the details of the arrangements proposed in relation to employees of each credit union; and

(e) any other matter which the Bank may require in the case of a particular amalgamation or transfer.

(4) † No statement shall be sent to the members of a credit union under subsection (1) or (2) unless its contents have been approved by the Bank but, subject to that, such a statement shall be so sent that every member referred to in that subsection receives it not later than the date on which it receives notice of any resolution which—

(a) is in favour of the proposal concerned; and

(b) is to be moved at a general meeting of the credit union.

Section 131 – Confirmation of amalgamation or transfer

(1) An application for confirmation by the Bank of an amalgamation of credit unions or a transfer of engagements shall be made in such manner as the Bank may specify.

(2) A credit union which makes, or joins in making, an application for confirmation of an amalgamation or a transfer shall, within seven days after the date of the application, cause to be published, in at least two daily newspapers published in the State and circulating in the areas in which the registered offices of the credit unions concerned in the proposal are situated, a notice giving particulars of the application and indicating that representations relating to it (whether for or against) may be made in writing to the Bank within such period (being not less than 21 days after the date of publication of the notice) as may be specified in the notice.

- (3) A notice under subsection (2) shall be in such form as the Bank may specify and shall indicate that a copy of the statement prepared under section 130 may be obtained on demand at the registered office of the credit union during the ordinary office hours of the credit union.
- (4) Representations relating to an application under subsection (1) may be made to the Bank within the period specified in the relevant notice published under subsection (2).
- (5) The Bank shall allow the credit union or credit unions seeking confirmation of an amalgamation or transfer an opportunity to comment on any representations made before the expiry of such period as the Bank may specify in a notice to the credit union or credit unions.
- (6) The Bank, having considered any application, representation and comment under this section, shall either—
 - (a) confirm the amalgamation or transfer, subject to such conditions (if any) as it considers appropriate; or
 - (b) subject to subsection (7), refuse to confirm the amalgamation or transfer if it is satisfied that—
 - (i) confirmation would be contrary to the public interest or the Bank's functions as respects credit unions; or
 - (ii) in the case of an amalgamation or in the case of a transfer which was the subject of a special resolution, some information material to the members' decision about the amalgamation or transfer was not made available to all the members eligible to vote; or
 - (iii) some relevant requirement of this Act (including, in particular, section 6) or the rules of any of the credit unions participating in the amalgamation or transfer was not fulfilled or not fulfilled as regards that credit union.
- (7) The Bank shall not be precluded from confirming an amalgamation or transfer by virtue only of the non-fulfilment of some relevant requirement of this Act or the rules of a credit union if it appears to the Bank that it could not have been material to the members' decision about the amalgamation or transfer and the Bank is satisfied that the failure may be disregarded for the purposes of this section.

- (8) A failure to comply with a requirement of this Part or any rules of a credit union shall not invalidate an amalgamation or transfer, but a credit union which and any person who fails to comply with a requirement of this Part shall be guilty of an offence.

Section 132 – Distribution to members

(1) Where the terms, of an amalgamation of, or transfer of engagements between, credit unions include provision for the distribution among any of the members of the participating credit unions of part of the funds of one or more of those credit unions in consideration of the amalgamation or transfer, then in the case of each of the credit unions concerned in the amalgamation or transfer—

(a) that provision must be approved by the special resolution referred to in section 128(2)(b) or, as the case may be, section 129(2); or

(b) the Bank must give consent as mentioned in subsection (2).

(2) Where, in the case of a credit union proposing to transfer its engagements or to fulfil the engagements of another credit union—

(a) the terms of the proposed transfer of engagements include provision for a distribution of funds as in subsection (1), and

(b) the Bank is considering under section 129(2) whether to give consent to the credit union proceeding by way of a resolution of its board of directors, rather than by special resolution, the Bank shall not give that consent unless it is satisfied that the distribution proposed to be made by each credit union concerned is, in all the circumstances, justified and reasonable.

(3) Any reference in this section to a distribution of funds, with reference to members, includes a reference to a distribution by means of a special rate of interest available to members for a limited period.

Section 97 – Cancellation of registration

(This Chapter has not reproduced the entirety of section 97 – please consult the Credit Union Act, 1997 for the full provision.)

 - (b) wound up under section 133 or section 134, or dissolved under section 135.
- (3) The Bank shall not cancel the registration of a credit union otherwise than—
- (a) at its own request, or
 - (b) under subsection (2), unless it has given the credit union at least 2 months' notice in writing specifying the ground on which it is proposed to cancel that registration.

- (4) Notice of every cancellation under this section of a credit union's registration shall, as soon as practicable after it takes place, be published in Iris Oifigiúil and in any other manner which the Bank considers necessary for bringing the cancellation to the notice of the persons affected by it.
- (5) From the date of publication in Iris Oifigiúil under subsection (4) of a notice of the cancellation of a credit union's registration, the credit union shall cease to be entitled to any of the privileges of this Act as a credit union.
- (6) Subsection (5) is without prejudice to any liability incurred by a credit union before the cancellation of its registration; and any such liability may be enforced against it as if the cancellation had not taken place.

APPENDIX 1 - DOCUMENTATION REQUIRED TO BE MAINTAINED PURSUANT TO THE 1997 ACT

1. Introduction

The 1997 Act places obligations on credit unions in relation to requirements for specified documentation. To assist credit unions in this regard this Appendix refers to certain documentation credit unions are required to maintain pursuant to the 1997 Act that are referred to in the Handbook. The list below is an indicative list provided for assistance and may not be complete. Credit unions should consult the 1997 Act in order satisfy themselves of their compliance with all of their obligations to maintain and hold documentation under that Act. Please note that this Appendix refers to certain documentation required to be maintained pursuant to the 1997 Act only and not pursuant to any other provision of financial services legislation or any other enactment or requirement. Credit unions are required to satisfy themselves of their compliance with all of their obligations to maintain and hold documentation pursuant to all other applicable legislation.

The documentation that credit unions are required to maintain includes policies, plans and other documentation. In relation to policies required to be kept by a credit union, the Central Bank does not only look for evidence that credit unions have appropriate policies in place but also for indicators that these policies are understood, are being followed and that, as a result, they are effective.

The documentation set out below is grouped by Chapter. Where documentation is referred to both in the Chapter on "Governance" and another chapter, it is listed under the other Chapter, for example, the investments policy is listed under the Chapter on "Investments".

APPENDIX 2 - ENFORCEMENT

1. Introduction

Documents and full details about the Central Bank's enforcement process can be found on the Enforcement section of the Central Bank's website at the following link.

Prior to the 1 August 2013 the Administrative Sanctions Procedure did not apply to credit unions, except in relation to prescribed contraventions of Anti-Money Laundering and Payment Services legislation. However, the 2012 Act contains amendments, which, since 1 August 2013, have applied the Administrative Sanctions Procedure to credit unions for breaches of any obligation which amounts to a "prescribed contravention"¹ (including breaches of the 1997 Act) occurring after that date.

2. Enforcement tools

The imposition of formal sanctions, whether by way of the Administrative Sanctions Procedure or otherwise, is only one of the regulatory tools available to the Central Bank. The Central Bank also has a wide range of other regulatory powers (for example, the imposition of directions) which may also be suitable depending on the circumstances. The use of other regulatory tools does not preclude the taking of an administrative sanctions case pursued for contraventions of legislative or regulatory requirements.

Whether or not an administrative sanctions case is pursued is a matter for the discretion of the Central Bank. The Central Bank will consider all relevant facts before commencing the Administrative Sanctions Procedure.

3. Administrative Sanctions Procedure

Part IIIC of the Central Bank Act 1942 ("the 1942 Act") provides the Central Bank with the power to administer sanctions in respect of prescribed contraventions by regulated entities and persons concerned in the management of regulated entities. Sections 34 and 36 of the

2012 Act apply Part IIIC of the 1942 Act to credit unions.² Where the Central Bank has concerns that a prescribed contravention is being or may have been committed, an investigation into the issue may be commenced to establish whether there are reasonable grounds for the Central Bank's suspicion, after which an Inquiry may be held.³ The Inquiry shall decide if the prescribed contravention has occurred and determine the appropriate sanctions.⁴

The following sanctions may be imposed:

- caution or reprimand;
- direction to refund or withhold all or part of an amount of money charged or paid, or to be charged or paid, for the provision of a financial service;
- imposition of a monetary penalty (in the case of a corporate and unincorporated body an amount not exceeding €10,000,000 or 10% of the annual turnover of the regulated financial service provider in the last financial year, whichever is the greater, or in the case of a natural person an amount not exceeding €1,000,000)⁵;
- a direction disqualifying a person from being concerned in the management of a regulated financial service provider;
- suspension of the authorisation⁶ of a regulated entity, in respect of one or more of its activities, for a period not exceeding 12 months;
- revocation of a regulated entity's authorisation⁷;
- direction to cease a contravention, if it is found the contravention is continuing; and
- a direction to pay to the Central Bank all or a specified part of the costs incurred by the Central Bank in holding the Inquiry and in investigating the matter to which the Inquiry relates.⁸

Credit unions can learn more about the administrative sanctions procedure and Part IIIC of the 1942 Act by accessing the following documents on the Central Bank's website:

- Inquiry Guidelines prescribed pursuant to section 33BD of the Central Bank Act 1942 \(2014\)
- Outline of Administrative Sanctions Procedure \(2014\)

² Credit unions should also be aware of the Central Bank (Supervision and Enforcement) Act 2013 which contains provisions relating to the Administrative Sanctions Procedure.

⁴ In determining sanctions, all of the circumstances of the case will be taken into account.

⁵ In both cases this will be subject to the overriding requirement that any monetary penalty imposed under section 33AQ or 33AR of the Act will not cause a corporate entity to cease business or cause an individual to be adjudicated bankrupt (section 33AS(1) and (2) of the Act).

⁶ In this context, 'authorisation' has the same meaning as provided for in section 33AQ(9) of the Act.

APPENDIX 1: Preliminary Inquiry Procedures	26
APPENDIX 2: Order of proceedings at hearing without oral evidence	27
APPENDIX 3: Order of proceedings at hearing with oral evidence	28

1. Introduction

- 1.1 The Central Bank of Ireland (“the Central Bank”) may conduct an Inquiry under Part IIIC of the Central Bank Act 1942, as amended (“the Act”) where it suspects on reasonable grounds that a prescribed contravention is being or has been committed¹. Such Inquiries will be conducted with as little formality and technicality, and with as much expedition, as a proper consideration of the matters before the Inquiry will allow.²
- 1.2 These Inquiry Guidelines, published pursuant to section 33BD of the Act, (“the Guidelines”) set out the procedures which the Central Bank ordinarily proposes to follow when holding an Inquiry under Part IIIC of the Act. It may be necessary to depart from the Guidelines in certain instances where compliance with the Guidelines is not appropriate in the circumstances of the individual case. The Guidelines may be altered from time to time by the Central Bank as it considers appropriate and in particular may be altered to take into account any legal or other developments.
- 1.3 The Guidelines should be read in conjunction with another information publication - Outline of the Administrative Sanctions Procedure 2014 (“the Outline”), which provides a general overview of the Administrative Sanctions Procedure operated by the Central Bank. The Guidelines and the Outline do not purport to represent a definitive legal interpretation of Part IIIC of the Act and in case of doubt it is recommended that reference be made to the text of the legislation itself and/or individual legal advice sought, as appropriate.
- 1.4 For the purposes of these Guidelines reference to “regulated entities” or a “regulated entity” can be taken to include both present and former regulated financial service providers, as well as persons presently or formerly concerned in their management and any other person subject to Part IIIC of the Act. Similarly, in this regard, reference to regulated entities or a regulated entity having committed a prescribed contravention, can be taken to include situations where persons presently or formerly concerned in the management of a regulated entity, or any other person subject to Part IIIC of the Act, have participated in that prescribed contravention.

² Section 33AY(1) of the Act.

2. Referral

Referral to Inquiry

- 2.1 Where the Central Bank suspects on reasonable grounds that a prescribed contravention is being, or has been committed, it may decide to hold an Inquiry.^{3 4}
- 2.2 The Enforcement Directorate (“ENF”) will inform the Regulatory Decisions Unit (“RDU”) within the Central Bank of a decision to hold an Inquiry and will refer the case to the RDU. The work and role of the RDU is outlined in further detail at paragraph 2.10 below.
- 2.3 At the time of referral ENF will provide the RDU with the following:
- an outline of the prescribed contraventions that the regulated entity is suspected of committing or having committed and the grounds upon which the suspicions are based;
 - an Investigation Report, which will detail the Investigation carried out by ENF and contain a schedule of the categories of materials and information gathered during the Investigation;
 - copies (hard copy or electronic) of documentation relied upon in preparing the Investigation Report; and
 - copies of any Investigation Letter(s) issued to the regulated entity and any responses.

Appointment of Inquiry Members

- 2.4 One or more persons, internal officers or employees of the Central Bank and/or external individuals⁵, will be appointed to an Inquiry, (“the Inquiry Members”). Following the notification to the RDU of the decision to hold an Inquiry, the RDU will arrange for the appointment of the Inquiry Members. Where appropriate, the RDU will arrange the nomination of a presiding person on the Inquiry, who shall be known as the Chairperson. In certain cases, the RDU may arrange for the appointment of a sole member and in such cases, references in these Guidelines to the “Inquiry Members” and the “the Chairperson” shall be understood as referring to “the Sole Member”.

³ Either under section 33AO or, if the prescribed contravention is admitted, but the sanction cannot be agreed, under section 33AR of the Act.

⁴ See footnote 1 above in relation to the Single Supervisory Mechanism.

⁵ Section 33BE(2) of the Act provides that: “Without prejudice to the generality of subsection (1), the Bank may for the purposes of that subsection designate a person who is not an officer or employee of the Bank. A person so designated is an agent of the Bank for performing and exercising the functions and powers of the Bank under this Part or the part of those functions and powers for which the Bank designated him or her”.

- 2.5 Each proposed Inquiry Member shall confirm in writing that he or she is not prevented from participating in the Inquiry by virtue of any actual or apparent conflict of interest.
- 2.6 All decisions of the Inquiry shall be determined by a simple majority of the Inquiry Members, with each member having one vote. Where the RDU arranges for the appointment of a Sole Member, he or she shall decide the matter.
- 2.7 Once appointed, the Inquiry Members will not meet with, correspond or discuss matters relating to the Inquiry with supervisory or ENF staff involved in the case without the regulated entity either being offered the opportunity to be present, or sent a copy of any correspondence.
- 2.8 The Inquiry will commence once the Inquiry Members are appointed. The Inquiry Members will decide how the Inquiry will proceed and the procedures to be followed.
- 2.9 The RDU will furnish all materials provided to it at referral by ENF to the Inquiry Members.

Regulatory Decisions Unit

- 2.10 The RDU will provide administrative support to the Inquiry. The RDU will act as registrar to the Inquiry and will be the point of contact within the Central Bank for the regulated entity in relation to all Inquiry matters. The RDU will not give the Inquiry or the regulated entity legal advice but can provide assistance on procedural matters. The RDU will have no role in deciding matters before the Inquiry. RDU staff supporting the Inquiry will have had no prior involvement in the subject matter of the Inquiry or the supervision or authorisation of the regulated entity.

Enforcement

- 2.11 ENF will be available during the Inquiry to provide any assistance, information or evidence requested by the Inquiry Members. Such assistance might include asking ENF to explain or provide (including by way of submissions) any or all of the following:

- (i) additional information about the matter before the Inquiry;
- (ii) further explanation of any aspect of the papers furnished to the Inquiry by ENF;
- (iii) information about Central Bank policies (including as to ENF's view on the law or on the correct legal interpretation of legislative provisions relevant to the matter at Inquiry);
- (iv) information relevant to any sanctions hearing;
- (v) information relevant to the publication of Inquiry Members' findings; and/or
- (vi) any other relevant matter.

2.12 Any information furnished by ENF as outlined above will also be furnished to the regulated entity, which will be afforded an opportunity to respond.

2.13 At least one representative of ENF will attend any Inquiry management meetings, the Inquiry hearing and any sanctions hearing. Should further relevant information come to the attention of ENF during the course of the Inquiry it will bring this to the attention of the Inquiry.

Legal Representation

2.14 The regulated entity may choose to be represented at the Inquiry by a legal practitioner or, with the leave of the Inquiry Members, any other person.⁶

Legal Practitioner

2.15 The Act provides that the Inquiry may be assisted by a legal practitioner.⁷ In certain potentially lengthy and complex matters more than one legal practitioner may be appointed to assist the Inquiry and different roles may be assigned to different legal practitioners. Any decision to appoint a legal practitioner and the precise role to be played by the legal practitioner in any given Inquiry will be a matter for the Inquiry Members.

⁶ Section 33AY(4) of the Act.

⁷ Section 33AY(3) of the Act.

3. Preliminary Inquiry Procedures

Notice of Inquiry

3.1 The RDU will send a written Notice of Inquiry⁸ to the regulated entity at least 25 working days in advance of an Inquiry hearing being held. The Notice of Inquiry shall:

- (a) set out the suspected prescribed contravention(s) and the grounds upon which the suspicions are based, as outlined by ENF at referral; and
- (b) append an Inquiry Management Questionnaire, as outlined further at paragraph 3.6 below.

The Notice of Inquiry will be accompanied by a copy of all documentation provided to the RDU by ENF at the time of the referral and a copy of the written confirmation(s) referred to at 2.5 above.

3.2 Inquiry hearings (including any Inquiry management meetings) will usually be held in public.⁹ An Inquiry hearing may only be held in private (or part in private) in the following circumstances:¹⁰

- by agreement: the Inquiry and the regulated entity agree that the Inquiry should be held in private (or part in private); or
- by decision of the Inquiry: the Inquiry decides that the Inquiry shall be held in private (or part in private) being satisfied that:
 - (a) evidence may be given, or a matter may arise during the Inquiry that is of a confidential nature or relates to the commission, or the alleged or suspected commission, of an offence against a law of the State, or
 - (b) a person's reputation would be unfairly prejudiced.

3.3 A notice will appear on the Central Bank website advising of the time and location of the Inquiry hearing. The public and media will be able to watch and listen to the proceedings in a public gallery located within the Inquiry Room or adjacent to it.

⁸ Section 33AP of the Act.

⁹ Section 33AZ(1) of the Act provides that except as provided by section 33AZ(2), the Central Bank shall hold its inquiries in public.

¹⁰ See Section 33AZ(2) of the Act.

- 3.4 If the Inquiry hearing or part of the Inquiry hearing is to be held in private a Notice will appear on the Central Bank's website outlining the fact that an Inquiry hearing is commencing which is being held in private, or is being conducted in part in private, unless the Inquiry Members direct otherwise based on the considerations outlined in paragraph 3.2.
- 3.5 A stenographer will be in attendance at all Inquiry hearings. A copy of the transcript will be made available to the Inquiry Members and the regulated entity as soon as practicable. The RDU will provide a copy of transcripts to ENF.

Inquiry management

- 3.6 Appended to the Notice of Inquiry will be an Inquiry Management Questionnaire ("the Questionnaire"), which must be completed and returned to the RDU by the regulated entity within the time specified in the Questionnaire (allowing at least 10 working days for response). If the regulated entity fails to respond within the time specified, the RDU will notify the Inquiry Members who may proceed to confirm the date and arrangements for the hearing without further consultation with the regulated entity.
- 3.7 The purpose of the Questionnaire is to enable the Inquiry Members to establish whether an Inquiry management meeting is required for the purpose of issuing directions prior to the Inquiry hearing. The Questionnaire may seek responses on the following topics:
- Inquiry arrangements (confirmation of suggested dates when the Inquiry will sit, estimated length of the Inquiry, legal representation);
 - any submissions in relation to the public nature of the Inquiry;
 - whether the regulated entity intends to deliver written submissions;
 - matters of evidence;
 - proposed witnesses; and
 - any other relevant matters.
- 3.8 Where the Inquiry Members decide that an Inquiry management meeting is required, the regulated entity will be invited to attend and may make submissions to the Inquiry. The Inquiry Members may agree to hold the Inquiry management meeting in private where the regulated entity wishes to make submissions in relation to the public nature of the Inquiry.

- 3.9 It should be emphasised that the purpose of an Inquiry management meeting is to assist in the timely and efficient running of the Inquiry. It ensures that the issues to be determined at Inquiry are narrowed to the greatest extent possible. Effective Inquiry management meetings enable, for example:
- any material factual disputes to be identified at an early stage;
 - arrangements to be put in place to ensure that evidence, whether disputed or not, is presented clearly and effectively;
 - the needs of any witnesses to be taken into account; and
 - an effective programme and timetable to be established for the conduct of the Inquiry.
- 3.10 Following review of the completed Questionnaire and any Inquiry Management meeting, the Inquiry Members will issue directions to the regulated entity together with a timeframe for compliance and confirm the Inquiry hearing date and location.
- 3.11 The regulated entity will have the opportunity to provide written legal submissions in accordance with the timetable laid down in any directions given by the Inquiry Members. All submissions must be accompanied by a copy of the case law to be relied upon in the course of legal submissions.
- 3.12 If the regulated entity fails to comply with a direction made by the Inquiry Members and the Inquiry Members are satisfied of adequate notification to the regulated entity, the Inquiry hearing may proceed on the date confirmed by the Inquiry or on any other date which has been notified to the regulated entity by the RDU.
- 3.13 The Inquiry Members may direct the RDU to furnish to ENF a copy of correspondence issued to and received from the regulated entity. The Inquiry Members may also direct the RDU to furnish a copy of any written submissions received from the regulated entity to ENF and may seek ENF's response to any submissions. A copy of any response from ENF will be sent to the regulated entity.
- 3.14 A sample running order for Preliminary Inquiry Procedures is set out at Appendix 1.

4. The Inquiry Hearing

Form and order of proceedings

- 4.1 The Inquiry is not a court of law, and the procedure at the Inquiry hearing will be kept as informal as possible. The Central Bank has a statutory duty to undertake the Inquiry with as little formality and technicality, and with as much expedition, as proper consideration of the matter will allow.¹¹ However, an Inquiry into suspected prescribed contravention(s) is a serious matter and the procedure at Inquiry must reflect this fact. The Inquiry will at all times observe the rules of procedural fairness, but is not bound by the rules of evidence.¹²
- 4.2 The Central Bank is not proposing that the Inquiry necessarily adopts the approach of a hearing adducing oral evidence. In exercising its discretion whether to hold a hearing with oral evidence, the Inquiry Members will consider whether oral evidence is necessary for a fair determination of the suspected prescribed contravention(s), having considered any submissions by the regulated entity on the matter.

Standard of proof

- 4.3 The Inquiry Members shall make findings as to whether the regulated entity is committing or has committed the prescribed contravention(s) to which the Inquiry relates on the balance of probabilities.

Legal submissions

- 4.4 As outlined in paragraph 3.11, the regulated entity will have the opportunity to provide written legal submissions prior to the Inquiry hearing date and in accordance with the directions of the Inquiry. In the context of a hearing, with or without oral evidence, the regulated entity will also be afforded the opportunity of making oral legal submissions.

Applications during an Inquiry

- 4.5 The Inquiry Members must act fairly and must consider and deliberate upon such applications as may be made to them in the course of the Inquiry.

¹¹ Section 33AY(1) of the Act.

¹² Section 33AY(2) of the Act.

4.6 The Inquiry Members may be required to deal with a number of preliminary applications and issues, including inter alia:

1. A decision to proceed in the absence of the regulated entity

The Inquiry may proceed in the absence of the regulated entity provided that the regulated entity has been given an opportunity to participate in an Inquiry or to make written submissions to it.¹³

2. A request for an adjournment

The Inquiry Members may, at any point during an Inquiry, be requested to adjourn any Inquiry hearing. The Inquiry Members have the discretion to grant or refuse an application for an adjournment. In considering any such request the Inquiry Members shall exercise their discretion fairly, in accordance with fair procedures, taking into account the circumstances of the application and any submissions made, and where granted shall ensure that the regulated entity is notified of the date, time and place at which any Inquiry hearing is to be resumed.¹⁴

Commencement of the Inquiry Hearing

4.7 At the beginning of a hearing, the Chairperson shall state the purpose of the Inquiry and introduce the Inquiry Members and explain the manner and order of the Inquiry. Appendices 2 and 3 outline sample running orders but these formats are flexible and may be varied by the Inquiry Members.

4.8 Following this introduction, the suspected contraventions, as per the Notice of Inquiry, will be set out by the Chairperson with the main facts, dates and persons involved outlined. If minor or clerical amendments are to be made to the Notice of Inquiry by the Inquiry Members, they will be raised at this stage. If more substantive amendments are required and the regulated entity has not agreed to such amendments in advance, the hearing may be adjourned in order to give the regulated entity adequate time to consider the amendments. The regulated entity will then be invited to make any preliminary submissions.

¹³ Section 33AP(5) of the Act.

¹⁴ Section 33AP(4) of the Act.

Hearing without oral evidence

- 4.9 A hearing may be convened for the purpose of hearing oral submissions only. The Inquiry Members may decide, following consideration of any submissions by the regulated entity, that the matter is suited to resolution without adducing oral evidence. The Inquiry Members will then conduct their review based on relevant documents, any witness statements, written submissions and oral submissions.
- 4.10 A sample running order for this type of Inquiry is set out at Appendix 2.

Hearing with oral evidence

- 4.11 Once the suspicions against the regulated entity have been set out and the regulated entity has been invited to make preliminary submissions, witnesses may be called. The Inquiry Members will call such witnesses as they wish to hear from to give evidence at the Inquiry. A legal practitioner assisting the Inquiry Members may be required to lead evidence or cross-examine witnesses as appropriate. The legal or other representative of the regulated entity may also lead evidence or cross-examine witnesses as appropriate. In addition Inquiry Members may question witnesses as appropriate.
- 4.12 During the course of an Inquiry, at any time from the appointment of the Inquiry Members to the conclusion of the Inquiry, the Inquiry Members may, in writing:
- summons a person to appear before the Inquiry Members to give evidence and/or produce specified documents; and
 - require the person to attend each day of the hearing unless excused or released from attendance.¹⁵
- 4.13 The Chairperson may require the oral testimony of a witness to be given on oath. He or she may also:
- require a witness at the Inquiry to answer a question put to the witness; and
 - require a person appearing at the Inquiry pursuant to a summons to produce any document specified in the summons.¹⁶

4.14 The Chairperson may also allow a witness at the Inquiry to give evidence by tendering a written statement, verified by oath.¹⁷ The witness may be required to attend the Inquiry hearing for the purposes of examination.

4.15 An answer to a question put to a person, or information provided by a person, in response to a requirement shall not be admissible as evidence against the person in criminal proceedings, other than proceedings for perjury, if the information was provided on oath.¹⁸

4.16 A person may be held to have committed a criminal offence where they:

- obstruct the Inquiry in the exercise of a power conferred under Part IIIC of the Act;
- without reasonable excuse, fail to comply with a requirement or request made by the Inquiry under Part IIIC of the Act;
- in purported compliance with such a requirement or request, give information that the person knows to be false or misleading; or
- refuse to comply with a summons to attend before, or to be examined on oath by, the Inquiry.¹⁹

4.17 The Inquiry has the same powers with respect to the examination of witnesses (including witnesses who are outside the State) that a judge of the High Court has when hearing civil proceedings that are before the High Court. A person who is summoned to appear before the Inquiry will be entitled to the same rights and privileges as a witness appearing in civil proceedings before the High Court.²⁰

4.18 A sample running order for this type of Inquiry is set out at Appendix 3.

No oral hearing or evidence

4.19 The Inquiry Members may decide to proceed on an entirely written basis, i.e. without oral submissions or evidence. This may occur where the Inquiry Members do not intend to take oral evidence and:

¹⁶ Section 33BA(2)-(4) of the Act specifically reserves these powers to the person presiding at the Inquiry.

¹⁷ Section 33BA(5) of the Act also specifically reserves this power to the person presiding at the Inquiry.

¹⁸ Section 33BA(8) of the Act.

¹⁹ Section 33BA(9) of the Act.

²⁰ Section 33BA(6)&(7) of the Act.

- i) the regulated entity has indicated in the Questionnaire that it does not intend to make oral submissions; or
- ii) the regulated entity has been afforded an opportunity to be present at the Inquiry hearing, but has failed to appear.²¹

Referral to the High Court on a point of law

4.20 The Inquiry Members may, on their own initiative or at the request of the regulated entity or ENF, refer a question of law arising during the Inquiry to the High Court for decision.²² This procedure constitutes a consultative case-stated procedure, the main purpose of which is to seek clarification on a point of law. The Inquiry Members are not obliged to state a case upon being requested to do so.

4.21 Where a question of law is referred to the High Court, the Inquiry will be temporarily stayed in full or in part (depending on whether the question is relevant to all of the prescribed contraventions), pending a decision by the High Court.

4.22 The question of law shall be drafted by or for the Inquiry Members taking into account any submissions and shall be sent by the RDU to the High Court, accompanied by all documents before the Inquiry that are relevant to the matter in question.²³

Applications for an adjournment to pursue settlement

4.23 The Central Bank has authority and discretion to enter into a settlement agreement with the regulated entity at any stage before completion of the Inquiry.²⁴

4.24 Where the regulated entity wishes to settle the matter immediately prior to or during the course of the Inquiry, the regulated entity and/or its legal adviser should contact ENF. The Inquiry Members may adjourn any hearing in order to facilitate settlement but shall have no other role in relation to settlement. The settlement discussions shall be carried out in private. The details of any settlement discussions should not be disclosed to the Inquiry

²¹ In accordance with section 33AP(5) of the Act.

²² Section 33BB(1) of the Act.

²³ Section 33BB(3) of the Act.

²⁴ Section 33AV of the Act.

Members. Where the matter is successfully settled, the Inquiry Members shall be informed of the fact of settlement. Where settlement discussions are unsuccessful, the Inquiry shall, where it has been adjourned, be resumed.

- 4.25 Settlement agreements will be concluded only where the basis for settlement is consistent with the general approach to regulation adopted by the Central Bank, is fair having regard to all the facts known, and will contribute to the efficient, effective and economic use of resources.

5. The Findings of the Inquiry Members

Written Findings

- 5.1 Following any closing submissions and a review of all the evidence, the Inquiry Members shall set out in writing their finding(s) as to whether the regulated entity is committing or has committed the prescribed contravention(s) to which the Inquiry relates.²⁵
- 5.2 In all circumstances, the Inquiry Members shall produce written findings, which shall set out:
- their findings as to whether or not the regulated entity:
 - (a) is committing or has committed a prescribed contravention, or
 - (b) is participating or has participated in the commission of the prescribed contravention to which the Inquiry relates; and
 - the grounds on which their findings are based.
- 5.3 The written findings will be delivered to the regulated entity as soon as the written findings are available. The regulated entity will be kept informed of any delays in the completion of the written findings.
- 5.4 If necessary, the Inquiry Members will invite the regulated entity to attend before them on a specified date for a sanctions hearing.

Sanctions

- 5.5 A sanctions hearing will either: (a) follow the Inquiry Members' written findings; or (b) constitute a standalone hearing in circumstances where the regulated entity acknowledges that the regulated entity is committing or has committed the contravention.²⁶
- 5.6 The Inquiry Members will invite submissions regarding sanctions from the regulated entity and ENF.
- 5.7 The regulated entity will be entitled to submit any documentation relevant to the Inquiry Members' decision on sanctions once the Inquiry Members have delivered their findings on the prescribed contravention(s). Oral submissions may also be made directly to the Inquiry Members at the sanctions hearing.

²⁵ Section 33AQ(1) and (2) of the Act.

²⁶ Section 33AR of the Act.

5.8 If the Inquiry Members find that a regulated entity is committing or has committed a prescribed contravention, or is participating or has participated in the commission of such a contravention, the Inquiry Members may, pursuant to Part IIIC of the Act²⁷, impose one or more of the following sanctions:

- (a) a caution or reprimand;
- (b) a direction to refund or withhold all or part of an amount of money charged or paid, or to be charged or paid, for the provision of a financial service by the regulated financial service provider;
- (c) a direction to pay to the Central Bank a monetary penalty (not exceeding the prescribed maximum amount, see paragraph 5.10 below);
- (d) except where the provisions of Council Regulation (EU) No 1024/2013 apply, suspension of the regulated financial service provider's authorisation²⁸ in respect of any one or more of its activities, for such period, not exceeding 12 months, as the Central Bank considers appropriate;
- (e) except where the provisions of Council Regulation (EU) No 1024/2013 apply, revocation of the regulated financial service provider's authorisation²⁹;
- (f) a direction disqualifying a person from being concerned in the management of a regulated financial service provider for such period as is specified in the order;
- (g) if the contravention is found to be on-going, a direction ordering the contravention to cease;
- (h) a direction to pay the Central Bank all or a specified part of the costs incurred by it in holding the Inquiry and investigating the matter.³⁰

²⁷ It may arise that other sanctions, further or in addition to the sanctions outlined in section 33AQ of the Act, may be available to the Inquiry Members. For example, Regulations 54 and 55 of the European Union (Capital Requirements) Regulations 2014 provide that particular sanctions may be imposed in respect of certain contraventions as set out therein.

²⁹ As per Section 33AQ(9) of the Act 'authorisation', in this context, means an authorisation, licence, or any other permission required to carry on business as a regulated entity granted by the Central Bank pursuant to any provision of financial services legislation, and includes registration.

³⁰ See Sections 33AQ(3) and (5) of the Act.

5.9 All the circumstances of the case will be taken into account by the Inquiry Members in determining the appropriate sanction(s) and, in doing so, regard may be had to the following factors³¹ –

1. The Nature, Seriousness and Impact of the Contravention

- (a) whether the contravention was deliberate, dishonest or reckless;
- (b) duration and frequency of the contravention;
- (c) the amount of any benefit gained or loss avoided due to the contravention;
- (d) whether the contravention reveals serious or systemic weaknesses of the management systems or internal controls relating to all or part of the business;
- (e) the extent to which the contravention departs from the required standard;
- (f) the impact or potential impact of the contravention on the orderliness of the financial markets, including whether public confidence in those markets has been damaged or put at risk;
- (g) the loss or detriment or the risk of loss or detriment caused to consumers or other market users;
- (h) the effect, if any, of the contravention on vulnerable consumers;³²
- (i) the nature and extent of any financial crime facilitated, occasioned or otherwise attributable to the contravention;
- (j) whether there are a number of smaller issues which individually may not justify administrative sanction, but which do so when taken collectively;
- (k) any potential or pending criminal proceedings in respect of the contravention which will be prejudiced or barred if a monetary penalty is imposed pursuant to the Administrative Sanctions Procedure.

2. The Conduct of the Regulated entity after the Contravention

- (a) how quickly, effectively and completely the regulated entity brought the contravention to the attention of the Central Bank or any other relevant regulatory authority;
- (b) the degree of co-operation with the Central Bank or other agency provided during the investigation of the contravention;

³² The term “vulnerable consumer” has the same meaning as the definition set out in Chapter 12 (‘Definitions’) of the Consumer Protection Code 2012 at p.75.

- (c) any remedial steps taken since the contravention was identified, including identifying whether consumers have suffered loss or detriment and compensating them, taking disciplinary action against staff involved (where appropriate), addressing any systemic failures, and taking action designed to ensure that similar problems do not arise in the future;
- (d) the likelihood that the same type of contravention will recur if no administrative sanction is imposed;
- (e) whether the contravention was admitted or denied.

3. The Previous Record of the Regulated entity

- (a) whether the Central Bank has taken any previous enforcement action including instances resulting in a settlement or sanctions or whether there are relevant previous criminal convictions;
- (b) whether the regulated entity has previously undertaken not to do a particular act or engage in particular behaviour;
- (c) whether the regulated entity has previously been requested to take remedial action, and the extent to which such action has been taken.

4. Other General Considerations

- (a) prevalence of the contravention;
- (b) the appropriate deterrent impact of any sanction on the regulated entity and on other regulated entities;
- (c) action taken by the Central Bank in previous similar cases;
- (d) the level of turnover of the regulated entity in its last complete financial year prior to the commission of the contravention; and
- (e) any other relevant consideration.

5.10 Where a monetary penalty is imposed, pursuant to section 33AQ or section 33AR of the Act, the amount shall not exceed: ³³

- (a) in the case of a body corporate or an unincorporated body, the greater of
 - i) €10,000,000, and
 - ii) an amount equal to 10% of the turnover of the body for its last complete financial year before the finding is made;

³³ Notwithstanding Part IIIC of the Act and the sanctions set out in section 33AQ of the Act, Regulations 54 and 55 of the European Union (Capital Requirements) Regulations 2014 provide for administrative pecuniary penalties which may be imposed in respect of particular contraventions by regulated entities.

- (b) in the case of a natural person, €1,000,000; or
- (c) such other amount as may be prescribed by regulations.

The monetary penalty shall not be of an amount that would be likely to cause the regulated entity to cease business, or in the case of a natural person would be likely to cause the person concerned to be adjudicated bankrupt.³⁴ If more than one contravention is found in respect of the same conduct, only one monetary penalty may be imposed.³⁵

- 5.11 If a monetary penalty is imposed in respect of a contravention which is also an offence under the law of the State, the regulated entity is not liable to be otherwise prosecuted or punished for the offence.³⁶ Where a regulated entity has already been tried for an offence and found either guilty or not guilty, and the offence involved a prescribed contravention, a monetary penalty may not be imposed.³⁷
- 5.12 At the conclusion of a sanction hearing the Inquiry Members shall issue their written decision, which will set out their findings, the sanctions, if any, imposed and the reasons for same.³⁸

Appeal to the Irish Financial Services Appeals Tribunal

- 5.13 A decision of the Inquiry may be appealed by the regulated entity to the Irish Financial Services Appeals Tribunal ("IFSAT") within 28 days of being notified of that decision, or within such time as agreed with the Registrar and Chairperson of IFSAT.³⁹ IFSAT may affirm, vary, substitute or set aside the decision or remit the matter back to the Inquiry for reconsideration, together with any recommendation or direction as to the matters to be reconsidered.

Appeal to the High Court

- 5.14 The regulated entity or the Central Bank may appeal the decision of IFSAT to the High Court within 28 days of being notified of the decision, or within such time as the High Court may allow.⁴⁰ An appeal to the High Court does not affect the operation of the IFSAT decision appealed against, or prevent the taking of action to implement the decision, unless the High Court

5.15 The High Court may make such order as it sees fit in light of its decision, including, but not limited to, affirming or setting aside the decision of IFSAT, or remitting the matter to IFSAT with such directions as it sees fit. The decision of the High Court is final, save that an appeal may be brought to the Supreme Court on a point of law only, with leave of either Court.⁴²

When a decision of the Inquiry takes effect

5.16 A decision by the Inquiry Members to impose a caution or reprimand will take effect:⁴³

- if an appeal is lodged with IFSAT and the decision is confirmed by IFSAT (with or without variation), at the time when the period allowed for lodging an appeal with the High Court has ended, no appeal against IFSAT’s determination having been lodged within that period (28 days after the affected person is notified of IFSAT’s decision or such extended period as the High Court allows);⁴⁵ or
- where an appeal is lodged with IFSAT and withdrawn, at the time of withdrawal; or
- where an appeal is subsequently made to the High Court against IFSAT’s determination and the determination is confirmed (with or without variation), at the time of confirmation; or Inquiry are set out in section 33BC of the Act⁵⁰. Pursuant to section 33BC of the Act, where the Inquiry Members have found that a regulated entity is committing or has committed a prescribed contravention and/or the Inquiry Members have imposed a sanction, the Central Bank must, subject to paragraph 5.21, publish in such form and manner as it considers appropriate the Inquiry Members' findings and such (if any) of the particulars of the contravention(s)⁵¹ as it thinks appropriate, which will ordinarily include:

- (a) the name of the regulated entity on whom a sanction has been imposed;
- (b) details of the prescribed contravention(s) in respect of which the sanction has been imposed;
- (c) details of the sanction imposed; and
- (d) the grounds on which the finding is based.⁵²

5.21 Notwithstanding this, the Central Bank is not required to publish a finding or particulars:

- if publication of the finding or particulars involves the disclosure of confidential information the disclosure of which is prohibited by the 'Rome Treaty'⁵³; the ECSB Statute or the Supervisory Directives (within the meaning of section 33AK(10) of the Act); or
- if the Inquiry Members determine:
 - (i) that the finding or particulars are of a confidential nature or relate to the commission of an offence against a law of the State; or
 - (ii) that publication of the finding or particulars would unfairly prejudice a person's reputation.⁵⁴

5.22 The regulated entity shall be entitled to make submissions in relation to publication. Such submissions shall not affect the timeframe within which

⁵⁰ There are, however, circumstances where different publication provisions apply in respect of the imposition of sanctions. For example where the prescribed contravention constitutes a breach of the European Union (Capital Requirements) Regulations 2014 and/or Regulation (EU) No 575/2013 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 26 June 2013 on prudential requirements for credit institutions and investment firms and amending Regulation (EU) No 648/2012 Regulation 56 of European Union (Capital Requirements) Regulations 2014 applies.

- 5.23 Separate to the publication of the Inquiry Members' findings, the Central Bank may issue a market commentary on the outcome of the Inquiry, which will outline the Central Bank's view of how the findings in the case apply more broadly to the market at issue.
- 5.24 The Central Bank will publish annually, in summary form, information on its actions under Part IIIC of the Act⁵⁵, including on the decisions of any Inquiry conducted.

1. Introduction

- 1.1 This Outline of the Administrative Sanctions Procedure (“the Outline”) describes the structures and procedures of the Administrative Sanctions Procedure of the Central Bank of Ireland (“the Central Bank”) under Part IIIC of the Central Bank Act 1942 (as amended) (“the Act”). Reference in the Outline to the Administrative Sanctions Procedure refers only to the Administrative Sanctions Procedure under Part IIIC of the Act. While the Outline indicates the procedure that the Central Bank will generally follow, it may be necessary to depart from the procedure outlined herein in appropriate circumstances.
- 1.2 The Outline does not purport to represent a definitive legal interpretation of Part IIIC of the Act and, in case of doubt, you should refer to the relevant legislative provisions and the Inquiry Guidelines published pursuant to section 33BD of the Act (“the Inquiry Guidelines”)¹, or seek legal advice, if required.
- 1.3 This document, which replaces the “Outline of Administrative Sanctions Procedure” published by the Central Bank in October 2005, is a “live” document that will be updated from time to time and brought specifically to the attention of regulated financial service providers and/or persons concerned in their management at the time they are notified of an Investigation² having been commenced.
- 1.4 References in the Outline to “regulated entities” or “regulated entity” can be taken to include both present and former regulated financial service providers, as well as persons presently or formerly concerned in their management and any other person subject to Part IIIC of the Act. Similarly, in this regard, reference to regulated entities having committed a prescribed contravention, can be taken to include situations where persons presently or formerly concerned in their management, or any other person subject to Part IIIC of the Act, have participated in that prescribed contravention.

2. An Overview of the Administrative Sanctions Procedure

2.1 Introduction

2.1.1 The Central Bank and Financial Services Authority of Ireland Act 2004 introduced Part IIC of the Act to give the Central Bank additional, stronger powers to enable it to promote compliance with regulatory requirements. Under the Act, the Central Bank has the power to impose sanctions in respect of breaches of regulatory requirements (referred to in the Act and throughout the Outline as “prescribed contraventions”) by regulated entities and to publicise the findings and sanctions imposed. The Central Bank (Supervision and Enforcement) Act 2013 (“the 2013 Act”) and transposition of European Directives³ further strengthened these powers by introducing additional sanctions under the Administrative Sanctions Procedure, and substantially increasing the fines available thereunder.

2.1.2 Generally, where a concern arises that a prescribed contravention has been or is being committed, the Central Bank may investigate⁴. Following any investigation, an Inquiry⁵ may be held where there are reasonable grounds to suspect that a prescribed contravention has been or is being committed. The Inquiry shall decide if the prescribed contravention has occurred and determine the appropriate sanctions. The final decision of an Inquiry may be appealed to the Irish Financial Services Appeals Tribunal (“IFSAT”)⁶ and subsequently to the High Court.

2.1.3 As an alternative, the Administrative Sanctions Procedure provides that, at any time before the conclusion of an Inquiry, the matter may be resolved by entering ³ For example, the European Union (Capital Requirements) Regulations 2014.

⁴ An investigation may also arise on foot of a requirement of the European Central Bank pursuant to Article 18(5) of Council Regulation (EU) No 1024/2013 (SSM Regulation). Additionally, where under the Single Supervisory Mechanism the European Central Bank is competent (as referred to at paragraph 2.2 below) for the supervision of certain entities the Central Bank may not be competent to impose monetary sanctions.

into a Settlement Agreement.⁷ This is a written agreement which binds both the Central Bank and the regulated entity. The settlement procedure is discussed in detail in Part 4 of the Outline.

2.2 The Single Supervisory Mechanism and CRDIV

An important progression within the area of banking supervision is the creation of the Single Supervisory Mechanism⁸ (the “SSM”) which involves, amongst other things, the direct supervision of certain entities⁹ by the European Central Bank. Consequently, in certain instances the European Central Bank will be competent for the investigation and sanctioning of regulatory breaches. In other instances the European Central Bank may require the Central Bank to open proceedings with a view to taking action in order to ensure that appropriate penalties are imposed.

In addition, following the commencement of the European Union (Capital Requirements) Regulations 2014¹⁰ certain specific sanctions, as provided for in Regulations 54 and 55 of those Regulations, may now be imposed by the Central Bank following an Inquiry under section 33AO of the Act.

This document does not purport to present a definitive legal interpretation of the legislation underpinning the SSM or of the European Union (Capital Requirements) Regulations 2014 but does reference where SSM or CRDIV are relevant to or impact on the ASP and its operation under Part IIIC of the Act.

⁹ Tasks conferred on the ECB are set out at Article 4 of Council Regulation (EU) No 1024/2013 of 15 October 2013.

¹⁰ The European Union (Capital Requirements) Regulations 2014, give effect to the Capital Requirements Directive (Directive 2013/36/EU) and the European Union (Capital Requirements) (No. 2) Regulations 2014, give effect to a number of technical requirements in order that the Capital Requirements Regulation (Regulation 575/2013) (the “CRR”) can operate effectively in Irish law. That Directive and the CRR (together referred to as “CRD IV”) form a package of reforms to the European Union’s capital requirements regime for credit institutions and investment firms, the main purpose being to implement key Basel III reforms.

2.3 What is a Prescribed Contravention?

2.3.1 A prescribed contravention is a breach of:

- a provision of a designated enactment, including any instrument made thereunder, or a designated statutory instrument; or
- a code made, or a direction given, under such a provision; or
- any condition or requirement imposed under a provision of a designated enactment, designated statutory instrument, code or direction; or
- any obligation imposed on any person by Part IIIC of the Act or imposed by the Central Bank pursuant to a power exercised under Part IIIC of the Act.¹¹

The list of designated enactments and designated statutory instruments is located in Schedule 2 of the Act.¹²

2.3.2 As there are many instances where the Central Bank issues statutory instruments, or imposes conditions, directions or requirements, pursuant to a designated enactment or statutory instrument, Schedule 2 of the Act will not provide a definitive list of the legal provisions which may give rise to a prescribed contravention under Part IIIC of the Act. Some obligations, in the form of conditions, directions or requirements, are imposed on a bilateral basis. These obligations will be known only to the Central Bank and the regulated entity involved.

2.3.3 Administrative sanctions cases may also be taken where a regulated entity:

- attempts to commit a prescribed contravention;
- aids, abets, counsels or procures a person to commit a prescribed

¹¹ Section 33AN of the Act.

¹² For the purposes of Part IIIC of the Act, the phrases “designated enactment” and “designated statutory instrument” do not include:

- Parts 4 or 5 of the Investment Funds, Companies and Miscellaneous Provisions Act 2005;
- Part 3 of the Investment Funds, Companies and Miscellaneous Provisions Act 2006;
- The Market Abuse (Directive 2003/6/EC) Regulations 2005 (S.I. 342/05);
- The Prospectus (Directive 2003/71/EC) Regulations 2005 (S.I. 324/05);
- Part 5 of the European Union (European Markets Infrastructure) Regulations 2014; and that amendment to section 33AN; or
- Regulations for the time being in force made under section 20 of the Investment Funds, Companies and Miscellaneous Provisions Act 2006.

- contravention;
- induces, or attempts to induce, a person (whether by threats or promises or otherwise) to commit a prescribed contravention;
 - is (directly or indirectly) knowingly concerned in, or a party to, a prescribed contravention; and
 - conspires with others to commit a contravention.¹³

¹³ Section 33AN of the Act.

3. Investigations

3.1 Introduction

3.1.1 The investigatory phase of the Administrative Sanctions Procedure will be referred to as the “Investigation”. This is without prejudice to the fact that Supervisory Divisions¹⁴ may engage in their own investigations in the ordinary course of their functions.

3.1.2 The purpose of the Investigation is to allow the gathering of sufficient information to enable the Central Bank to determine whether it has reasonable grounds to suspect that a prescribed contravention has been, or is being, committed by a regulated entity, and accordingly whether to refer the matter to Inquiry, or take such other action as is appropriate in the circumstances. The Central Bank will only establish an Inquiry in circumstances where the Central Bank has brought the relevant matters to the attention of the regulated entity and they have had a reasonable opportunity to respond.

3.2 Commencement of an Investigation

3.2.1 Concerns that prescribed contraventions may have been committed will arise in the normal course of work undertaken by a Supervisory Division, or may arise from other sources. Information gathered pursuant to any such concerns may be referred by the relevant Supervisory Division to the Enforcement Directorate¹⁵, whereupon the Enforcement Directorate will become the regulated entity’s point of contact for all matters relating to the Investigation. The relevant Supervisory Division will continue to be the regulated entity’s point of contact for matters outside the remit of the Investigation.

3.2.2 An investigation may also be commenced where the Central Bank is required to open proceedings by the European Central Bank pursuant to Article 18(5) of

Council Regulation (EU) No 1024/2013 of 15 October 2013 (the “SSM Regulation”).

3.3 Investigation Letters

- 3.3.1 Once an Investigation has commenced, the Enforcement Directorate will issue letters to the regulated entity in relation to matters relevant to the Investigation (“Investigation Letters”). The Central Bank may issue a number of Investigation Letters during the course of an Investigation.
- 3.3.2 Investigation Letters may contain an outline of the suspected prescribed contraventions, and/or may call upon the regulated entity to provide information, responses to specific questions, or responses to the suspected prescribed contraventions. Investigation Letters may also enclose key documents and materials, where appropriate. Where suspected prescribed contraventions are outlined in an Investigation Letter, these may be subject to later amendment or addition in light of the responses received from the regulated entity and/or any other information or evidence gathered during the course of the Investigation or otherwise in the possession of the Central Bank.
- 3.3.3 The Investigation Letters will place the regulated entity on notice that the matter may be referred to Inquiry and will indicate that the Central Bank will consider any responses from the regulated entity to the Investigation Letters in deciding whether to refer the matter to Inquiry.
- 3.3.4 The Investigation continues notwithstanding the issuance of Investigation Letters and further information may be sought from the regulated entity. During the Investigation the Central Bank will consider the responses and information received from the regulated entity. The responses, if any, from the regulated entity to the Investigation Letters should be on an open basis¹⁶ and will inform the decision as to whether or not the matter will be referred to Inquiry. Prior to the decision to refer the matter to Inquiry, the suspected prescribed contraventions will have been outlined to the regulated entity through the Investigation Letters, and an opportunity given to reply.

¹⁶ Where information or documents are sought in an Investigation Letter any response should be provided in open correspondence, by which it is meant that full and complete disclosure of information should be provided on the record.

3.4 Gathering of Evidence in the Investigation

3.4.1 During the course of the Investigation it may be necessary for the Central Bank to invoke its statutory powers to assist it in gathering evidence. For example, in the course of an Investigation, the Central Bank may interview persons whom it suspects have knowledge of matters pertaining to the suspected prescribed contravention(s). These may include persons both internal and external to a regulated entity, as well as individuals both concerned and not concerned in its management. Persons being interviewed may have recourse to their own legal advice, and, where appropriate, may be provided with documentation by the Central Bank in advance.

3.4.2 Delay in the provision of information and/or documentation by the regulated entity can have a significant impact on the efficient progression of an Investigation. Accordingly, prompt responses to requests for information and documentation from the regulated entity will be required and may be a factor taken into account in determining any sanction imposed.¹⁷ In general the relevant date(s) for response will be set out in the Investigation Letter(s), or other correspondence from the Central Bank, taking into account the circumstances of the case and complexity or accessibility of the materials requested. Once a timeframe has been agreed or set, the Central Bank will generally only agree to an extension of time for complying with the requirement where it can be shown that there are reasonable grounds for doing so.

3.5 Referral to Prosecuting or Disciplinary Bodies

3.5.1 The Central Bank has various reporting obligations in circumstances where the information obtained by it at any stage prior to, during, or after the Investigation, gives rise to a suspicion of a criminal offence, a breach of company law, or a breach of competition law. In such circumstances, the Central Bank has an obligation to refer the matter to the relevant authority.¹⁸

3.5.2 If information obtained by the Central Bank gives rise to a suspicion that the regulated entity, a professional person or firm, either internal to the regulated entity or engaged by it, has committed acts of misconduct or has failed to properly perform its functions or responsibilities, the Central Bank may refer the matter to the relevant professional body.

3.6 Criminal Prosecution

3.6.1 If a suspected breach of a designated enactment or designated statutory instrument gives rise to a concern that a criminal offence may have been or is being committed, the Central Bank will generally adopt the following approach¹⁹:

a) Where both the Administrative Sanctions Procedure and summary criminal prosecution are available:

The Central Bank may decide to pursue prescribed contraventions through the Administrative Sanctions Procedure instead of bringing a summary prosecution. However, the Central Bank will consider the circumstances of each case on its merits and may decide to pursue matters which constitute both a prescribed contravention and a criminal offence via the criminal courts. In deciding whether to pursue criminal proceedings, the Central Bank will exercise its discretion, having regard to the Director of Public Prosecution's "Guidelines for Prosecutors".²⁰

¹⁸ Relevant authorities include An Garda Síochána, the Revenue Commissioners, the Director of Corporate Enforcement, the Competition Authority, and the National Consumer Agency. See section 33AK(3) of the Act.

²⁰ See: <http://www.dppireland.ie/filestore/documents/GUIDELINES - Revised NOV 2010 eng.pdf>

b) Where only criminal prosecution is available:

In deciding whether to pursue criminal proceedings, the Central Bank will exercise its discretion, having regard to the Director of Public Prosecution's "Guidelines for Prosecutors".

3.6.2 No criminal prosecution may be brought if the prescribed contravention(s) in question has already been the subject of an Inquiry under the Administrative Sanctions Procedure which led to the imposition of a monetary penalty under sections 33AQ or 33AR of the Act.

3.6.3 If a criminal prosecution has been brought in respect of an offence that also involves a prescribed contravention, and a regulated entity is found either guilty or not guilty, then no monetary penalty may be imposed pursuant to the Administrative Sanctions Procedure under sections 33AQ or 33AR of the Act.²¹

3.7 Finalising an Investigation

3.7.1 Where a prescribed contravention is suspected to have been committed the Central Bank may deal with the issue in a number of ways. The Central Bank may, in appropriate circumstances,:

- decide to take no further action;
- issue a Supervisory Warning²²;
- resolve the matter by taking supervisory action;
- agree a settlement; or
- refer the case to Inquiry for determination and sanction.

3.7.2 The decision to take enforcement action will be determined on a case-by-case basis, taking into account the full circumstances of each case. The following objectives may, amongst others and where appropriate, be considered:

- the promotion of compliance by the regulated entity;
- the promotion of compliance within the industry or sector;

²¹ Section 33AT of the Act.

²² See Section 3.7.5 below.

- the proportionality of the enforcement action; and
- support of the strategy, objectives and policies of the Central Bank, including the proper and effective regulation of financial institutions and markets, and ensuring that the best interests of consumers of financial services are protected.

No Further Action

3.7.3 The Central Bank may decide to discontinue an Investigation and take no further action in a number of circumstances, including where:

- the information obtained leads the Central Bank to conclude that no prescribed contravention has been committed;
- the matter giving rise to concern:-
 - is very minor in nature,
 - immediate remedial action has been taken, and
 - full co-operation has been provided;
- the Central Bank considers that resources could be more effectively directed to other uses; and/or
- other policy considerations of the Central Bank are of relevance.

3.7.4 Where an Investigation Letter has been issued and an Investigation is subsequently discontinued, the regulated entity will be informed of this fact by letter. However, where relevant information becomes available to the Central Bank at a later date, the Central Bank may commence a new Investigation into the same matter.

Supervisory Warnings

3.7.5 Where, upon consideration of the evidence, the Central Bank considers that the matter does not warrant an administrative sanction, but there are nonetheless reasonable grounds to suspect a prescribed contravention has occurred, the Central Bank may, in appropriate circumstances, issue a Supervisory Warning. A Supervisory Warning may be issued, regardless of whether or not an Investigation Letter has been issued to the regulated entity.

3.7.6 A Supervisory Warning is a written warning notifying the regulated entity that the Central Bank considers that it has not complied with certain regulatory requirements, and calling upon the regulated entity to rectify the matter(s) identified. Prior to the issuance of a Supervisory Warning, the Central Bank will outline in writing to the regulated entity the basis upon which the Central Bank is minded to issue a Supervisory Warning and the regulated entity will be afforded an opportunity to respond. The responses, if any, from the regulated entity will inform the decision as to whether or not a Supervisory Warning will be issued.

3.7.7 Supervisory Warnings may be issued in a number of circumstances, including where:

- the matter giving rise to concern is minor in nature;
- immediate remedial action has been taken;
- full co-operation has been received; and,
- considerations supporting another enforcement approach do not apply.

3.7.8 The decision to issue a Supervisory Warning will be within the sole discretion of the Central Bank, made on the basis that the regulated entity has disclosed all relevant information.²³ If a Supervisory Warning is issued it will form part of the regulated entity's compliance record. Where further suspicions of prescribed contraventions occur, the prior issuance of a Supervisory Warning may influence the Central Bank's decision as to whether to commence an Investigation against a regulated entity. Supervisory Warnings will also be considered cumulatively, taking into account the date on which the Supervisory Warning was issued. Supervisory Warnings are not published by the Central Bank.

Supervisory Action

3.7.9 Notwithstanding any other action taken, and whether or not an Investigation has been undertaken, the Central Bank may decide that further action should be taken in relation to its supervision of the regulated entity. Such action may include utilising any of the supervisory or other legislative powers as the Central Bank considers appropriate in the circumstances, for example the issuing of directions or conditions.

Settlement

3.7.10 It is open to a regulated entity to seek to settle a matter under Investigation. The Central Bank is under no obligation to settle and will only do so where it is satisfied that it is appropriate in the given circumstances. Settlement is dealt with in more detail in Part 4 of the Outline below.

Notice of Inquiry

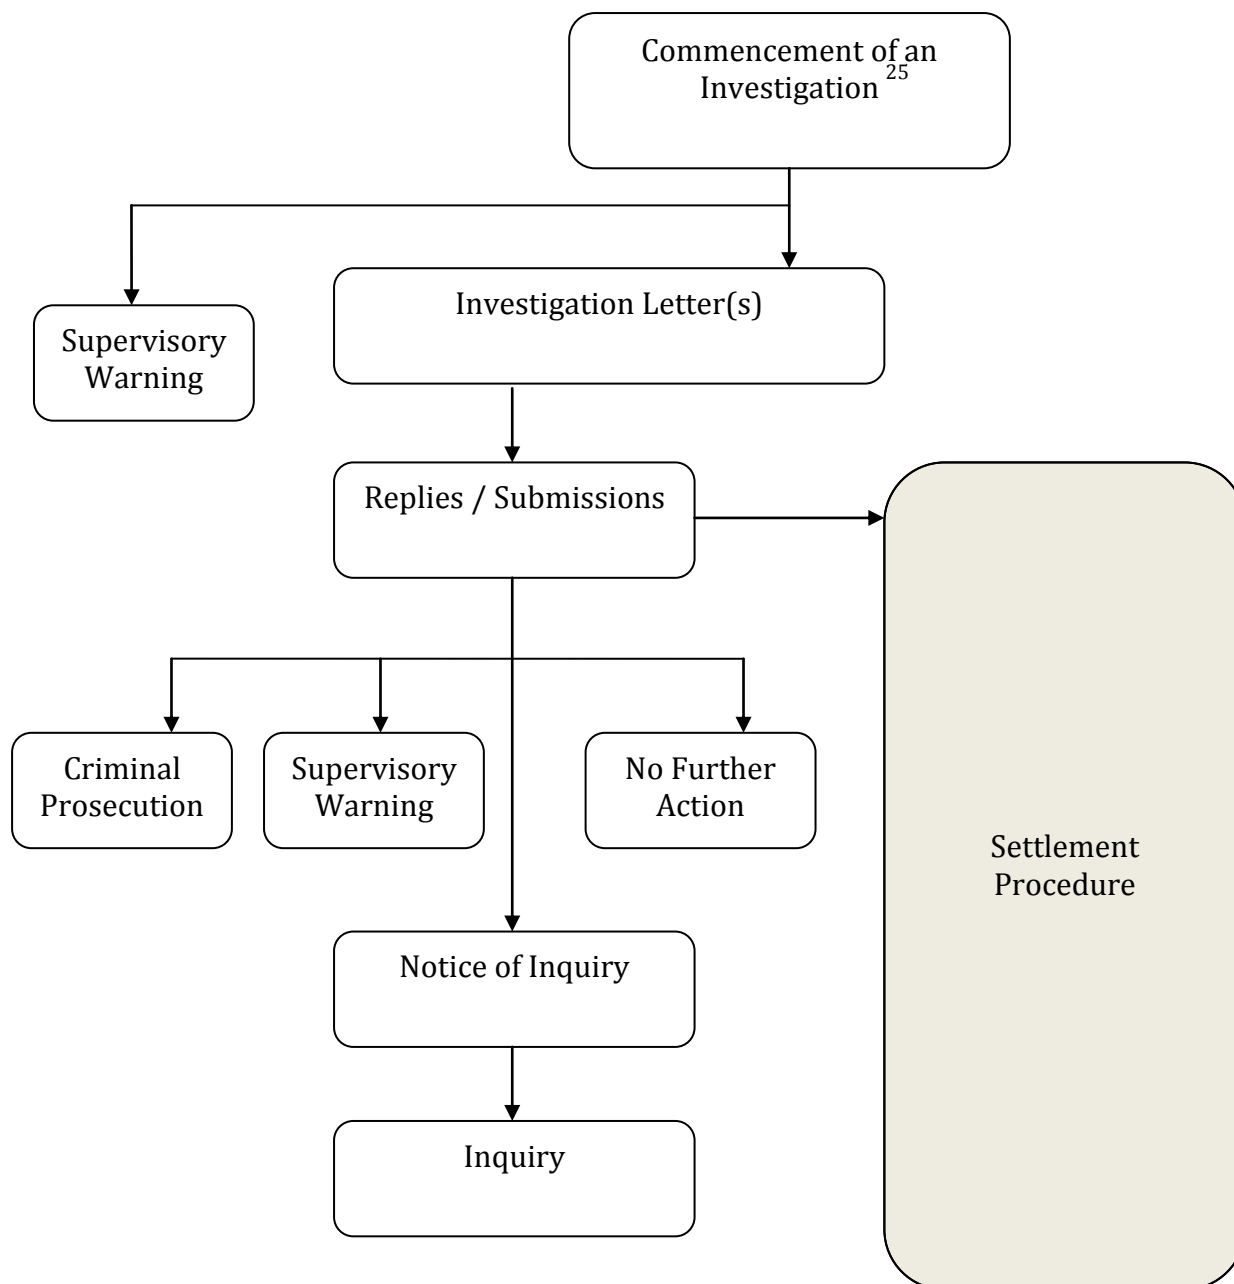

3.7.11 If the Central Bank suspects on reasonable grounds that a regulated entity is committing or has committed a prescribed contravention and the matter has not otherwise been concluded (for example by way of settlement), the Central Bank may issue a Notice of Inquiry²⁴, see Section 5.2 of the Outline below.

3.7.12 The Enforcement Directorate will provide the following to the Inquiry:

- an outline of the prescribed contraventions that the regulated entity is suspected of committing or having committed and the grounds upon which the suspicions are based;
- an Investigation Report, which will detail the Investigation carried out by Enforcement and contain a schedule of the categories of materials and information gathered during the Investigation;
- copies (hard copy or electronic) of documentation relied upon in preparing the Investigation Report; and
- copies of any Investigation Letter(s) issued to the regulated entity and any responses.

²⁴ This is subject to the provisions of the SSM Regulation.

Diagram 1: Flow diagram of Investigations

²⁵ The decision to commence an Investigation may come from a number of sources, including, but not limited to: (i) supervisory divisions; (ii) themed inspections; (iii) whistleblowers; or (iv) publicly available information. Additionally, an Investigation will be commenced where the Central Bank is required, by the European Central Bank, to open proceedings pursuant to Article 18(5) of the SSM Regulation.

4. Settlement Policy and Procedure

4.1 Legislative Provisions on Settlement

4.1.1 The Act provides that if the Central Bank suspects on reasonable grounds that a regulated entity is committing or has committed a prescribed contravention, the Central Bank may enter into an agreement with the regulated entity to resolve the matter²⁶ (“the Settlement Agreement”).

4.1.2 The Settlement Agreement must be in writing and is binding on the Central Bank and the regulated entity. The terms of the Settlement Agreement may contain sanctions of a kind referred to in section 33AQ of the Act and will stipulate that a public statement containing details of the Settlement Agreement will be published.

4.1.3 On occasion it may be necessary for the Central Bank to depart from all or any part of the settlement procedure set down in this Outline, where appropriate, having regard to the circumstances of the case.

4.2 The Central Bank’s Approach to Settlement

4.2.1 The Central Bank considers that, in appropriate cases, it may be in the public interest for Administrative Sanctions Procedure cases to settle, and settle as early as possible. However, the Central Bank must be satisfied that the basis for settlement is appropriate taking into account all relevant facts, including the determination of the appropriate sanction, whether all concerns have been addressed to the Central Bank’s satisfaction, and any other relevant considerations.²⁷ The level of co-operation from the regulated entity with the Central Bank during an Investigation will be relevant to settlement.

²⁶ Section 33AV(1) of the Act.

²⁷ Entry into a Settlement Agreement will be conditional upon all relevant facts known to the regulated entity having been openly disclosed by the regulated entity.

- 4.2.2 The settlement procedure offers both the Central Bank and the regulated entity a means of achieving early resolution of the matter. Early settlement is an efficient use of the Central Bank's resources, and provides timely resolution and transparency through the publication of the details of the case. Where settlement is agreed, it results in the avoidance of the additional costs and administrative burden of extended administrative sanctions proceedings for both the Central Bank and the regulated entity.
- 4.2.3 In each case, the Central Bank will consider its statutory objectives in determining whether it is appropriate to settle a case, and on what terms, and whether the agreed settlement terms will result in an acceptable regulatory outcome. The Central Bank expects that the regulated entity will admit the contravention(s) and that the terms of the settlement will be published.²⁸
- 4.2.4 There is no obligation on the Central Bank to engage in the settlement procedure or to settle once the settlement procedure has been commenced, and the Central Bank will decide in its sole discretion whether a particular case is suitable for settlement. The settlement procedure runs in parallel with an Investigation and it should be noted that an indication of willingness to enter into settlement discussions by the regulated entity does not cause the suspension of an Investigation. The Central Bank expects full information in response to questions raised in any Investigation Letter(s) to be provided in open correspondence before it will consider scheduling a settlement meeting.
- 4.2.5 The settlement procedure may be considered by the Central Bank at any time from the time at which full information in response to questions raised in any Investigation Letter(s) are provided in open correspondence until the date on which the Inquiry makes a finding as to whether a regulated entity has committed, or is committing, a prescribed contravention.²⁹ However, generally the Central Bank will not consider the settlement procedure option once the Notice of Inquiry has issued.

²⁹ Section 33AV(3)(b) of the Act.

4.2.6 The entire settlement procedure will be conducted on a “without prejudice” basis. Any discussion contained in writing should be made under cover of a separate letter which only addresses settlement. In such circumstances, statements made during the settlement procedure will not be used at any subsequent Inquiry or Court procedure. This is to ensure that, in the event that discussions break down, neither party is prejudiced as a result of a position taken in the course of trying to resolve the matter.

4.2.7 The settlement procedure is voluntary and any party may withdraw at any stage, should they choose to do so. No settlement will be concluded unless and until all concerns in the Investigation have been addressed to the Central Bank’s satisfaction.

4.3 Commencement of the settlement procedure

4.3.1 Once an Investigation has commenced, the Central Bank may issue a letter offering the possibility of settlement (“the Settlement Letter”) to the regulated entity. The Settlement Letter will be issued on a without prejudice basis.

4.3.2 The Central Bank will not, however, issue a Settlement Letter until such time as it has sufficient factual information to understand the nature and gravity of the suspected prescribed contraventions to allow it to make an assessment of the suitability or otherwise of the case for the settlement procedure.

4.4 Early Settlement Discount Scheme

4.4.1 Where a regulated entity settles a matter at an early stage with the Central Bank³⁰, a discount may be applied to the sanction³¹ (“the Early Settlement Discount Scheme”).

4.4.2 Under the Early Settlement Discount Scheme, the Central Bank may allow a discount up to a set maximum to be applied to a sanction that it would otherwise expect to be imposed on a regulated entity after considering the sanctioning factors. Any discount applied pursuant to the Early Settlement Discount Scheme will be applied to the overall sanction, which will have been arrived at by reference to the relevant sanctioning factors.³² The Central Bank has identified two stages of the Administrative Sanctions Procedure for these purposes:

³⁰ Having met the conditions already set out in Section 4.3 above.

³¹ After consideration of any relevant sanctioning factors.

- from the issuance of the Settlement Letter for such period as the Central Bank indicates in the Settlement Letter (“Stage 1”);
- from the end of Stage 1 until the date on which a Notice of Inquiry is issued (“Stage 2”).

The maximum percentage discount for sanctions (both monetary penalty and/or period of disqualification) will be up to as follows:

Stage at which agreement reached	Percentage discount
Stage 1	Up to 30%
Stage 2	Up to 10%

4.4.3 In order to avail of the Stage 1 percentage discount the regulated entity will be required, within a period specified by the Central Bank in the Settlement Letter, to confirm its willingness to enter into the settlement procedure and to settle within the timeframe indicated by the Central Bank.

4.4.4 If the regulated entity does not confirm its willingness to enter into the settlement procedure and/or fails to settle within the indicated timeframe, the Stage 1 percentage discount will no longer be allowed. The Stage 2 percentage discount will only be allowed until such time as a Notice of Inquiry is issued.

4.4.5 Where the regulated entity has not confirmed in writing, before the date a Notice of Inquiry is issued, its willingness to enter into the settlement procedure, the case will progress towards Inquiry.

4.4.6 Where settlement is agreed after the Notice of Inquiry has issued³³ no discount will apply, and the sanction will take into account the costs incurred by the Central Bank, including any costs incurred as part of the Investigation and the Inquiry process.

4.4.7 Any Settlement Agreement between the Central Bank and the regulated entity will include a statement as to any discount applied in accordance with the Early Settlement Discount Scheme. Further discussion on Settlement Agreements is contained in Section 4.6 below.

4.4.8 In deciding upon the appropriate sanctions in the settlement procedure which will be subject to the discount, the Central Bank will take into account all of the circumstances of the case. In so doing, the Central Bank will consider the sanctioning factors set out in Part 6 of the Outline and in the Inquiry Guidelines.³⁴

4.5 Settlement Meeting

4.5.1 Where the regulated entity indicates in writing its willingness to enter into the settlement procedure and the regulated entity has provided full and open information in response to matters raised in the Investigation Letter(s), such that the Central Bank is satisfied that settlement is appropriate, a settlement meeting between the respective parties will be scheduled for an agreed date and time.

4.5.2 Prior to the settlement meeting taking place (but only after the regulated entity has indicated its willingness to enter into the settlement procedure), the Central Bank will write to the regulated entity notifying it of the sanction (monetary or otherwise) which the Central Bank considers as appropriate, taking into account relevant sanctioning factors. This letter will be on a without prejudice basis.

³³ As noted above, generally, the Central Bank will not consider entering into settlement discussions once the Notice of Inquiry has issued.

³⁴ Paragraph 5.9 of the Inquiry Guidelines.

4.5.3 It is envisaged that the settlement procedure shall consist of one meeting only, attended by representatives of the Central Bank and representatives of the regulated entity. Those persons who attend the settlement meeting must have authority to agree any terms of settlement. All information which the regulated entity wishes to rely on at the settlement meeting should be provided to the Central Bank in advance of the meeting, and a copy brought to the meeting. Likewise, the Central Bank will provide copies of all information it will seek to rely on at the meeting and bring copies to the meeting. The settlement meeting will be held on a without prejudice basis as explained at Section 4.2.6 above. The without prejudice format of the settlement meeting will give the regulated entity an opportunity to discuss the case in detail with the Central Bank with a view to agreeing settlement terms.

4.6 Settlement Agreement

4.6.1 The terms of any proposed settlement will be put in writing and will be agreed by the Central Bank and by the regulated entity in the Settlement Agreement. The Settlement Agreement is conditional upon all relevant facts known to the regulated entity at the time of entry into the Settlement Agreement having been openly disclosed (in the context of responses to the Investigation Letters) and is legally binding.³⁵ The regulated entity should have carried out such internal enquiries as are necessary to ensure that it is satisfied that it has disclosed all such relevant facts known to it or which ought to have been known to it at the time of entry into the Settlement Agreement.

4.6.2 A Settlement Agreement will only be concluded where it is consistent with the objectives of the Central Bank³⁶ and:

- the basis for settlement is consistent with the general approach to regulation of the Central Bank;

³⁵ Section 33AV(2) of the Act.

³⁶ See Section 3.7.2 above.

- it is fair having regard to all the known facts; and
- the Settlement Agreement will contribute to the efficient, effective and economic use of resources.

4.6.3 A Settlement Agreement will include the following:

- admissions by reference to the prescribed contraventions;
- a statement that the prescribed contraventions have ceased or are being addressed;
- a statement from the regulated entity that it has disclosed all relevant information in its possession;
- appropriate sanctions;
- any discount for early settlement;
- a detailed public statement; and
- other relevant terms.

4.6.4 The Settlement Agreement will represent the final agreed position between the parties and will specify the prescribed contraventions in respect of which a settlement has been agreed. The Central Bank expects that all Settlement Agreements will contain admissions by the regulated entity in respect of the prescribed contraventions contained therein.

4.6.5 The Settlement Agreement will contain details of the sanction(s) imposed on the regulated entity and, where a monetary penalty has been imposed, the manner in which such monetary penalty is to be paid. Where applicable, the Settlement Agreement will also include any discount applied pursuant to the Early Settlement Discount Scheme.

4.6.6 Both parties shall adhere to the terms of the Settlement Agreement. However, if the regulated entity fails to comply with the terms of the Settlement Agreement the Central Bank may apply to the High Court for an order requiring the regulated entity to comply with the terms of the agreement³⁷, and/or may seek to recover any monetary amount agreed to in a court of competent jurisdiction as a debt due to the Central Bank.³⁸ Further, should additional material information emerge, which was not brought to the attention of the Central Bank during the course of the Investigation, the Central Bank may, if the circumstances warrant it, commence a further Investigation into the regulated entity.

4.6.7 Where the prescribed contraventions are admitted by the regulated entity but agreement cannot be reached as to the sanctions to be imposed, a Settlement Agreement cannot be entered into.³⁹

4.7 Public statement

4.7.1 Public statements are an important tool in promoting the transparency of the Central Bank's decision-making process. They inform the general public as well as the market, and help to maximise the deterrent and educational effect of enforcement action. The Central Bank expects that a public statement will be released in all administrative sanctions cases which are settled pursuant to the settlement procedure.

4.7.2 Once the terms of a Settlement Agreement have been agreed by the Central Bank and the regulated entity, the Central Bank will prepare a statement for publication ("the public statement"). The public statement will provide a detailed account of the admitted prescribed contraventions and will contain:

- the name of the regulated entity;
- the prescribed contraventions;
- the facts of the case;
- the sanctions imposed, including any discount applied for early settlement; and
- other relevant factors.

³⁸ Section 33AV(4) of the Act.

A sample public statement is attached at Appendix 1 to this Outline. Appended to a public statement will be a prepared statement by the Central Bank on the market aspects of the case and how it corresponds with the Central Bank's objectives. The wording of any market commentary is a matter for the Central Bank alone and does not form part of the Settlement Agreement.

- 4.7.3 The timing and manner of the release of a public statement will be within the sole discretion of the Central Bank. It may, however, be discussed between the parties at the settlement meeting. The public statement and any market commentary on the case will generally be published promptly on the Central Bank's website.

4.8 Effect of Settlement Agreement

- 4.8.1 The Settlement Agreement will form part of the regulated entity's compliance record. As such, it may influence the Central Bank's decision to commence enforcement action, taking into account the age of the previous Settlement Agreement(s), and may be taken into account in other actions taken by the Central Bank.
- 4.8.2 Settlement Agreements may be considered cumulatively, although they relate to separate areas of a regulated entity's business, where the concerns which gave rise to those Settlement Agreements are considered to be indicative of a regulated entity's compliance culture. Similarly, Settlement Agreements with different subsidiaries of the same parent company may be considered cumulatively where the concerns which gave rise to those Settlement Agreements relate to common issues or controls.
- 4.8.3 A Settlement Agreement entered into with a person concerned or formerly concerned in the management of a regulated entity may be considered by the Central Bank in assessing a subsequent application by that person to perform a pre-approval controlled function under the Fitness and Probity regime pursuant to Part 3 of the Central Bank Reform Act 2010.⁴⁰

- 4.8.4 Settlement Agreements may be taken into account in determining appropriate sanctions pursuant to the Administrative Sanctions Procedure (including at Inquiry) if subsequent prescribed contraventions are committed by the regulated entity.

⁴⁰ For further information on Fitness and Probity and the relevant regulatory requirements, please see the Central Bank website.

5. The Inquiry

5.1 The Inquiry Guidelines

5.1.1 The procedures relating to the conduct of an Inquiry are set out in detail in the Inquiry Guidelines. The Outline only provides a summary of the procedures. Reference should therefore be made to the Inquiry Guidelines for the purposes of information relating to Inquiries.

5.2 Inquiry Notice

5.2.1 If it is determined that there are reasonable grounds to suspect that a prescribed contravention is being or has been committed, the Central Bank may refer the matter to an Inquiry pursuant to Part IIIC of the Act. The purpose of the Inquiry is to determine if a prescribed contravention is being or has been committed and to determine the appropriate sanctions.

5.2.2 Where the Central Bank has decided to refer a matter to Inquiry, the Regulatory Decisions Unit ("RDU") of the Central Bank will issue a Notice of Inquiry to the relevant regulated entity. The Notice of Inquiry will:

- (a) set out the suspected prescribed contravention(s) and the grounds upon which the suspicions are based, as outlined by ENF at referral; and
- (b) append an Inquiry Management Questionnaire ("the Questionnaire").⁴¹

The Notice of Inquiry will be accompanied by a copy of all documentation provided to the RDU⁴² by the Enforcement Directorate at the time of referral.

5.2.3 The Questionnaire must be completed and returned to the RDU within such time as specified in the Questionnaire, allowing at least 10 working days for response. If no response to the Questionnaire is received within the time specified, the RDU will notify the members of the Inquiry ("Inquiry Members")⁴³ and will proceed to confirm the date and arrangements for the Inquiry hearing without further consultation. The RDU will act as registrar to the Inquiry and will be the point of contact within the Central Bank for the regulated entity in relation to all Inquiry matters.

⁴¹ See paragraph 3.6 of the Inquiry Guidelines.

⁴² See paragraph 2.3 of the Inquiry Guidelines.

⁴³ In certain cases an Inquiry may be comprised of a sole member, see paragraph 2.4 of the Inquiry Guidelines.

5.3 Inquiry Procedure

5.3.1 The Inquiry Members may consider both written and oral submissions in relation to the alleged contravention(s) and will make a determination as to:

- whether the prescribed contravention(s) occurred; and
- the appropriate penalty to be applied.

5.3.2 Where the regulated entity has admitted a prescribed contravention(s) formally in open correspondence, but does not agree with the sanction proposed by the Central Bank, an Inquiry as to sanctions only will be undertaken.⁴⁴ Any such Inquiry will be held in accordance with the Inquiry Guidelines.

5.4 Appeals

5.4.1 If the regulated entity disagrees with the final decision of the Inquiry, it may appeal the decision to IFSAT within 28 days of being notified of that decision, or within such time as agreed with the Registrar or Chairperson of the IFSAT.⁴⁵ IFSAT's decision may subsequently be appealed to the High Court.⁴⁶ The decision of the Inquiry will not take effect while the appeal is pending.

5.5 Publicity

5.5.1 Generally, the Central Bank's obligations to publish the findings of an Inquiry, are set out in section 33BC of the Act⁴⁷. Pursuant to section 33BC of the Act, where

⁴⁴ Section 33AR of the Act

⁴⁵ Section 57 of the Act.

⁴⁶ Section 57AK of the Act.

⁴⁷ There are, however, circumstances where different publication provisions may apply in respect of the imposition of sanctions. For example, where the prescribed contravention constitutes a breach of the European Union (Capital Requirements) Regulations 2014 and/or Regulation (EU) No 575/2013 of the the Inquiry Members find that a prescribed contravention is being or has been committed and/or impose a sanction, the Central Bank must publish the findings of the Inquiry Members⁴⁸ and such (if any) of the particulars of the contravention(s) as it thinks appropriate, which will ordinarily include:

- the name of the regulated entity on whom a sanction has been imposed;
- details of the prescribed contravention(s) in respect of which the sanction has been imposed;
- details of the sanction imposed; and
- the grounds upon which the findings are based.⁴⁹

5.5.2 Notwithstanding this, the Central Bank is not required to publish a finding or particulars:

- if publication of the finding or particulars involves the disclosure of confidential information the disclosure of which is prohibited by the 'Rome Treaty'⁵⁰, the ECSB Statute or the Supervisory EU legal acts (within the meaning of section 33AK(10) of the Act); or
- if the Inquiry Members determine:
 - (i) that the finding or particulars are of a confidential nature or relate to the commission of an offence against a law of the State; or
 - (j) that publication of the finding or particulars would unfairly prejudice a person's reputation.⁵¹

5.5.3 Separate to the publication of the Inquiry Members' findings, the Central Bank may issue a market commentary on the outcome of the Inquiry, which will outline the Central Bank's view of how the findings in the case apply more

6. Sanctions

6.1 Introduction

6.1.1 Prior to November 2013, the Central Bank undertook a substantive review of the sanctions which may be imposed under the Administrative Sanctions Procedure. In imposing sanctions under the Administrative Sanctions Procedure, including under the settlement procedure, the Central Bank continues to place an increased emphasis on deterrence, both in relation to the specific regulated entity and the overall relevant financial market, and the annual turnover of the regulated entity subject to sanction, where appropriate. The Central Bank will have regard to the sanctioning factors specified in 6.3 below. It is envisaged that this may lead to the imposition of greater sanctions than has previously been the case.

6.2 Types of Sanctions Imposed

6.2.1 The Central Bank, in light of its enforcement and supervisory objectives and policies, may, either under a Settlement Agreement⁵³ or following an Inquiry⁵⁴, impose one or more of the following sanctions:

- caution or reprimand;
- direction to refund or withhold all or part of an amount of money charged or paid, or to be charged or paid, for the provision of a financial service;
- imposition of a monetary penalty (in the case of a corporate and unincorporated body an amount not exceeding €10,000,000 or 10% of the annual turnover of the regulated financial service provider in the last financial year, whichever is the greater, or in the case of a natural person an

⁵³ In relation to settlement, this list is non-exhaustive.

⁵⁴ It may arise that other sanctions, further or in addition to the sanctions outlined in section 33AQ of the Act, may be available to the Inquiry Members. For example, Regulations 54 and 55 of the European Union (Capital Requirements) Regulations 2014 provide that particular sanctions may be imposed in respect of certain contraventions as set out therein.

- a direction disqualifying a person from being concerned in the management of a regulated financial service provider;
- except where the provisions of Council Regulation (EU) No 1024/2013 apply, suspension of the authorisation⁵⁶ of a regulated entity, in respect of one or more of its activities, for a period not exceeding 12 months;
- except where the provisions of Council Regulation (EU) No 1024/2013 apply, revocation of a regulated entity's authorisation⁵⁷;
- direction to cease a contravention, if it is found the contravention is continuing; and
- a direction to pay to the Central Bank all or a specified part of the costs incurred by the Central Bank in holding the Inquiry and in investigating the matter to which the Inquiry relates.⁵⁸

6.3 Sanctioning Factors

6.3.1 All the circumstances of the case will be taken into account in determining sanctions and, in doing so, regard may be had to the following factors⁵⁹:

1. The Nature, Seriousness and Impact of the Contravention

- (a) whether the contravention was deliberate, dishonest or reckless;
- (b) duration and frequency of the contravention;
- (c) the amount of any benefit gained or loss avoided due to the contravention;
- (d) whether the contravention reveals serious or systemic weaknesses of the management systems or internal controls relating to all or part of the business;

⁵⁵ In both cases this will be subject to the overriding requirement that any monetary penalty imposed under section 33AQ or 33AR of the Act will not cause a corporate entity to cease business or cause an individual to be adjudicated bankrupt (section 33AS(1) and (2) of the Act).

⁵⁶ In this context, 'authorisation' has the same meaning as provided for in section 33AQ(9) of the Act.

⁵⁷ In this context, 'authorisation' has the same meaning as provided for in section 33AQ(9) of the Act.

⁵⁸ Section 33AQ of the Act.

⁵⁹ In particular, and where appropriate, the Central Bank shall, when determining the appropriate sanction take into account such circumstances as detailed in Regulation 58 of the European Union (Capital Requirements) Regulations 2014.

- (e) the extent to which the contravention departs from the required standard;
- (f) the impact or potential impact of the contravention on the orderliness of the financial markets, including whether public confidence in those markets has been damaged or put at risk;
- (g) the loss or detriment or the risk of loss or detriment caused to consumers or other market users;
- (h) the effect, if any, of the contravention on vulnerable consumers⁶⁰;
- (i) the nature and extent of any financial crime facilitated, occasioned or otherwise attributable to the contravention;
- (j) whether there are a number of smaller issues which individually may not justify administrative sanction, but which do so when taken collectively;
- (k) any potential or pending criminal proceedings in respect of the contravention which will be prejudiced or barred if a monetary penalty is imposed pursuant to the Administrative Sanctions Procedure.

2. The Conduct of the Regulated Entity after the Contravention

- (a) how quickly, effectively and completely the regulated entity brought the contravention to the attention of the Central Bank or any other relevant regulatory authority;
- (b) the degree of co-operation with the Central Bank or other agency provided during the Investigation of the contravention;
- (c) any remedial steps taken since the contravention was identified, including identifying whether consumers have suffered loss or detriment and compensating them, taking disciplinary action against staff involved (where appropriate), addressing any systemic failures, and, taking action designed to ensure that similar problems do not arise in the future;
- (d) the likelihood that the same type of contravention will recur if no

⁶⁰ The term “vulnerable consumer”, has the same meaning as the definition set out in Chapter 12 (‘Definitions’) of the Consumer Protection Code 2012 at p.75.

- administrative sanction is imposed;
- (e) whether the contravention was admitted or denied.

3. The Previous Record of the Regulated Entity

- (a) whether the Central Bank has taken any previous enforcement action including instances resulting in a settlement or sanctions or whether there are relevant previous criminal convictions;
- (b) whether the regulated entity has previously undertaken not to do a particular act or engage in particular behaviour;
- (c) whether the regulated entity has previously been requested to take remedial action, and the extent to which such action has been taken.

4. Other General Considerations

- (a) prevalence of the contravention;
- (b) the appropriate deterrent impact of any sanction on the regulated entity and on other regulated entities;
- (c) action taken by the Central Bank in previous similar cases;
- (d) the level of turnover of the regulated financial service provider in its last complete financial year prior to the commission of the contravention;
- (e) any other relevant consideration.

6.4 Restriction on Imposition of Monetary Penalties

- 6.4.1 Section 33AT(2) of the Act provides that no monetary penalty may be imposed under sections 33AQ and 33AR of the Act if the regulated entity has been found guilty or not guilty of committing a criminal offence under the law of the State involving a prescribed contravention. In those circumstances the Central Bank may, under section 33AQ and 33AR of the Act, only impose non-monetary penalties.

6.5 When a Decision of the Inquiry Takes Effect

6.5.1 The Inquiry Guidelines contain detailed information on when a decision of the Inquiry takes effect. Please see paragraphs 5.16 to 5.19 of the Inquiry Guidelines for further information.
