FOI-2019-001120	30/01/2019	In the July 2002 Code Of Practice for Credit Institutions paragraph 2 of page 2 states; "A failure by a credit institution to comply with a standard outlined in this code shall not of itself give rise to any right of action by persons affected thereby nor shall such a breach affect the validity of any transactions." This code was set aside by the Financial Regulator with effect from 1st of August 2006. The Consumer Code in force from 1st of August 2006 has no such paragraph or provision, nor it seems do any of the revisions, amendments, additions or supplements to it nor indeed the 2012 Consumer Protection Code in force from January 2012 and subsequent revisions. I would like to establish why this provision was not carried over. I imagine there was considerable thought given to this matter and is those deliberations I wish to find.
